Wellsville Men Buy Eggleston Park Property

Belmont, March 5—Two Wellsville men, James and Donald Morris, yesterday were given a sales contract by the Allegany County Board of Supervisors opening the way for their purchase of Eggleston Park on the Genesee River in the township of Angelica. The property comprises 24.17 acres and will be used as a private summer camp for boys and girls. The purchase price is $10,000 and will be made in a series of payments at four per cent interest during the next nine years.

The property must be used for a summer camp and cannot be resold without the permission of the Board of Supervisors. Sale of intoxicating liquors is banned; timber must be left untouched except for timber on the ground or timber used in repair of camp buildings. The buildings must be kept in repair and covered by fire insurance.

Buildings can be moved, but cannot be torn down.

The stipulations regarding use of the camp and resale as set forth in the contract, will become a part of the warranty deed. The warranty deed will be issued upon payment in full of the $10,000 purchase price.

The total return to the county by the time the contract is fulfilled will amount to the $10,000 purchase price plus $2,070 in interest.

It was brought out during the discussion that the Wellsville men plan to construct a swimming pool, improve the buildings and operate an annual private summer camp.

Supervisor R. J. Sootheran of Andover was a member of the committee on the sale and prepared the contracts of the sale.

Rev. McKinstry to Speak At Presbyterian Church Sunday Evening

Rev. S. R. McKinstry of Avoca will speak at the Presbyterian church at 8 o'clock Sunday evening on the new curriculum which has been developed by the Presbyterian Board of Christian Education, according to plans being worked out by Rev. Albert N. Rogers, supply pastor, and Almon M. Wood, superintendent of the Sunday School.

Parents of Sunday School pupils were sent special invitations this week in view of the fact that the new curriculum is a plan for teaching Christian faith and life in both church and home with teachers and parents receiving the same quarterly magazine. The curriculum will be available for pupils of nursery age through senior high school, and visual aids will form a prominent element in the teaching outlines.

The new curriculum differs from present lesson materials in being more comprehensive. A comprehensive view of God's purpose in history will replace insistance upon knowing certain unrelated Bible stories, Mr. Rogers said.

Mr. McKinstry is minister of the Presbyterian Church in Avoca and of the Community Church in Howard, and is also stated clerk of Steuben-Elmira Presbytery. Last summer he attended a special institute on rural church methods at the Union Theological Seminary in New York. Mr. McKinstry will come to Andover representing the Presbytery's committee on Christian education.
