George Robinson Alfred Instructor 30 Years

We are reprinting the following release from Alfred Agricultural and Technical Institute, honoring George S. Robinson, son of Mrs. C. A. Robinson of Andover, who has been an instructor in Alfred since 1918:

ALFRED, March 27.—Eligible for retirement within two more years, George S. Robinson, instructor in the Agricultural and Technical Institute for 30 years, says he plans to continue teaching.

"I get a great deal of enjoyment out of teaching and seeing the institute grow," he said "Why should I quit?"

Born in Andover Oct. 3, 1889, Mr. Robinson attended Andover High School and teacher's training class and then taught in Allegany County rural schools until 1911, when he entered "The New York State School of Agriculture" as a general agriculture student. He was graduated two years later and went to Cornell University for advanced work, returning to the Alfred campus as an instructor in September 1918.

At that time, the 11-year-old school had 118 students. For the three subjects, poultry, farm management and farm machinery, which Mr. Robinson taught in those early days, there are now eight instructors.

"We had just the main school building and the farm then," he added.

Now the State Agricultural & Technical Institute has a faculty of 52 instructors and, in addition to the original buildings, has many temporary and permanent shops and classrooms on the campus and at the farm on the outskirts of Alfred. The student body now numbers more than 700.

The school was authorized to teach technical courses such as power distribution, electricity and radio in 1937 and the Legislature changed the name to Agricultural & Technical Institute in 1941.

Mr. Robinson's particular interest now is in the course of frozen-foods processing and distribution, which he set up in 1945. To date, more than 20 students have been placed in industry and 43 are currently enrolled. Registration for next year will be limited to 20.

"There is a great deal of satisfaction in hearing that one of my poultry students from the 20's, for instance is successful partially as a result of some of the things I taught him," Mr. Robinson said, "but more than that, I want to contribute as much as I can to the continued healthy growth of the institute."

Local Exchange Club Observes Birthday

Members of Andover Exchange Club at their regular meeting held Thursday evening at Hotel Joyce listened to a fine address by Principal James H. Kessler on "Today's Threat to Our Democracy," in observance of the 37th birthday of Exchange. The first Exchange Club was formed March 27, 1911 in Detroit, Mich.

By reason of the menacing aspect of events in Europe and because Exchange for more than a quarter of a century has vigorously stressed American citizenship in the club's program of education, the birthday month of Exchange was dedicated to education and community action in a national program that emphasizes and dramatizes the common heritage of every American—our system of democratic government based on individual freedom.

At the last convention of The National Exchange Club held in Cincinnati, Ohio, a resolution was unanimously adopted pledging the members and officers, collectively and individually, to do everything within their power to expose Communism; and any and every other "ism" opposed to the American Way of life.

Following the address the members were entertained by "Bob" Common with his well known "bag of tricks."

Firemen Called

Andover firemen made a run to the home of Mr. and Mrs. William D. Pease on Greenwood Hill last Thursday afternoon where fire from a bonfire had run into the banking around the cellar wall and was blazing up the back of the house. It was extinguished before any great damage was done.

They were called out again Monday afternoon to extinguish a small fire which had caught in the grass back of the Sackett Food Market.

Those wishing to finish gloves should be sure to be present. The meeting will begin at 1:15. Please note time.

On April 21st there will be a meeting of officers and leaders under the direction of Mrs. Sisson, a member of the executive board.

Miss Mary U. Gaus, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dietrich J. Gaus of Wellsville became the bride of G. William Woodward, son of Mrs. Mary Woodward of Hornell Easter Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the First Trinity Lutheran church. The Rev. Elmer W. Krentz performed the double ring ceremony and received the vows before an altar banked with Easter lilies. Walter G. Neuchterlein, church organist, presided at the organ.

Preceding the ceremony Miss Mona Jones of Hornell sang "At Dawning" and "O Perfect Love."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was lovely in a gown of white satin brocade. Her full length veil fell from a halo of white hyacinth blossoms and she carried an arm bouquet of Easter lilies. She wore a single strand of pearls.

Matron of honor Mrs. James Mathern of Wellsville wore a gown of ice blue satin brocade styled similarly to that of the bride's. She wore a shoulder length veil of ice blue and she carried an arm bouquet of daffodils.

Raymond Woodward of Canisteo, brother of the groom, was best man. Ushers were Richard Gaus of Wellsville, brother of the bride, and Richard Reynolds of Hornell.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception for the immediate families and friends was held in the church parlors. Hostesses were the Misses Agatha Wasserloos and Leona Gaus, both of Wellsville.

After a short honeymoon, Mr. and Mrs. Woodward will reside at 6 O'Connor street, Hornell. For going away Mrs. Woodward chose a black and grey ensemble with lavender accessories.

The groom is in business in Hornell and the bride is an instructor in the Andover Central School.

Prenuptial events included a tea by the Andover Central School faculty and a kitchen shower by Miss Ruby Jordan of Andover.

Plans Under Way For Fresh Air Children

Mrs. Clarence E. Anderson of Olean was in town recently to organize a friendly town committee for Fresh Air children's vacation beginning July 1st.

Children of broken homes, underprivileged in every way, find a new sense of security, an unknown friendliness in the vacations provided by the Fresh Air Fund.

The fund depends upon you to open the gates in the tenement walls that surround New York's poor children, forcing them to live in wretched flats and on traffic laden streets.
