LAWS of NEW YORK—by Authority

[Every law, unless a different time shall be prescribed therein, shall commence and take effect throughout the State, on and not before the twentieth day after the day of its final passage, as certified by the Secretary of State. Sec. 13, title 2, chap. 7, part 1, Revised Statutes.]

CHAP. 117.

AN ACT relating to the Erie Railway Company, repealing chapter nine hundred and sixteen of the Laws of eighteen hundred and sixty-nine, so far as relates to the classification of directors of the Erie Railway Company, and the prolongation thereby of their terms of office, and vacating the offices of directors of said company held thereunder, and ordering a new election for a full board of directors of said company, and providing regulations relating to the elections of directors of said company, and the transfer of its stock.

Passed March 20, 1872.

The People of the State of New York, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:

SECTION 1. The act entitled "An act to amend chapter two hundred and seventy-eight of the Laws of eighteen hundred and sixty-eight, entitled 'An act in relation to the Erie, New York Central, Hudson River and Harlem Railway Companies,' passed May twenty, eighteen hundred and sixty-nine," is hereby repealed, so far as relates to the classification of the directors of the Erie Railway Company and the prolongation thereby of the terms of office of the present directors of the Erie Railway Company and of all directors of said company who may be appointed to fill vacancies prior to the election hereinafter ordered, shall cease on the second Tuesday of July next.

§ 2. On the second Tuesday of July next, there shall be held, at the office of the Erie Railway Company, in the city of New York, an election for seventeen directors of said company, the inspectors of which election shall be designated in writing by the Governor, the Comptroller and Attorney General, and in case of the failure to attend and act of any person so designated, his place or their places, may be filled by the inspector or inspectors in attendance on such day of election. At such election all the stockholders of said company shall be entitled to vote either in person or by proxy, according to the number of shares held by them respectively, subject to the regulations and provisions hereinafter contained, and to those elsewhere provided by law. And any such proxy, which shall in substance authorize such voting by the attorney, and which shall be authenticated in the manner provided by law for the proof or acknowledgment of deeds, shall be sufficient, provided, however, that no person shall be entitled to vote at such election under any proxy made or granted prior to the passage of this act; and the seventeen persons receiving the highest number of votes at such election shall be directors of said company for the year next following the said second Tuesday of July. And hereafter the annual meetings of the stockholders of said company for the election of directors shall be held on the second Tuesday of July in each year, and the directors elected thereat shall hold their offices for one year from such second Tuesday of July. No injunction shall be granted to prevent or suspend the holding of election by this section ordered to be held on the second Tuesday of July next; nor shall an injunction be granted to prevent any person from voting on any shares at such election unless upon notice of eight days to the person claiming to own or to exercise the right of voting on such stock. No person being a director of the Atlantic and Great Western Railway Company shall be eligible as a director of the Erie Railway Company.

§ 3. From the time of the passage of this act until the holding of the election provided for in the last preceding section, the transfer books of the said corporation, in which the transfers of its stock are or shall be entered, and the stock ledger or ledgers containing the names of the stockholders of said company, shall at all times, during the usual hours of transacting business, be fully and freely open at the office of said company, to the examination of all the stockholders and of their respective agents or attorneys who may be by them authorized to make such examination on their behalf respectively. And it shall be the duty of the president and the secretary of said company, respectively, at all such times to have and keep such books open to such examination by all such stockholders or their agents or attorneys, as aforesaid, as shall apply therefor, and to allow to them respectively, all reasonable facilities for such examination and for taking copies or abstracts of the entries contained in said books; and in case of refusal or neglect of such president or secretary to perform the duties enjoined upon them respectively by this section, the party aggrieved thereby, or his agent or attorney, shall be entitled to summary relief by mandamus in addition to any other legal remedy to which he may be entitled.

§ 4. The transfer books of said company, for the transfer of its stock, shall be closed on the second Monday of June next, at the close of the usual hours of business on that day, and shall remain closed until after the election provided for in the proceeding second section; and at such election no person shall be entitled to vote upon any stock, either in person or by proxy, unless the same was standing in his name, on the transfer books of said company, on the day above fixed for the closing of the transfer books. From the time of the passing of this act, until the said second Monday of June next, inclusive, the said company shall keep open its transfer books, at its office in the city of New York, and during the whole of such period, during the usual hours of transacting business, shall freely permit all persons holding its stock certificates, with proper power of attorney for the transfer of the stock represented thereby, executed by the person in whose name such stock stands registered on its books, who in person, or by agent or attorney, shall present such stock certificate and power of attorney, at the office of said company, and demand the transfer of such stock, to transfer such stock upon the said company's books, in accordance with the authorization of such power of attorney, and said company shall thereupon issue and deliver to such person, or his agent or attorney so presenting such stock for transfer, its new stock certificate or certificates in the proper and customary form, in the name of such a transferee, for such stock thus transferred, which new stock certificates shall correspond in the number of shares represented thereby, respectively, with the old certificates, in place whereof they shall be issued, if the person to whom such new stock certificates are to be delivered as aforesaid, or his agent or attorney shall so request; and such new certificates shall be delivered by said company to the person entitled thereto as aforesaid, or his agent or attorney, without any unreasonable or unnecessary delay, and, at all events, within three days after the surrender of the old certificate, and the making of the transfer on the books; and if such new certificates be not ready for delivery simultaneously with the surrender of the old certificate and the transfer of the stock, the company shall simultaneously with such surrender and transfer, give, upon request, to the person entitled to such new certificate, or his agent or attorney, a receipt or certificate, executed on its behalf by its transfer clerk, or other proper officer by it appointed for the purpose, evidencing the right of such person to receive such new certificate as soon as it can be made out. No stock certificate of said company which, during the period above specified in this section for the making of transfers, shall be presented or left at the office of said company for transfer as aforesaid, shall be seized, or subjected to the operation of any injunction or receivership, or of any other legal process or proceeding, unless it be an execution or other process founded upon a regular final judgment against the owner of such stock; nor shall the stock thereby represented, or any new stock certificate to be issued therefor as aforesaid, be seized or subjected to the operation of any injunction or receivership, or other legal process or proceeding, unless it be an execution or other process founded upon a regular final judgment against the owner of such stock; provided, however, that this exemption from liability to seizure or interference, by means of injunction, receivership, or other legal process as aforesaid, shall cease after the expiration of five days from the time when such new stock certificate shall have been actually delivered by said company to the person entitled thereto as aforesaid. In case of neglect or refusal, on the part of the said company, to permit any transfer of stock, or to issue and deliver any new stock certificate, lawfully required of it in virtue of the preceding provisions of this section, or to comply with any of the provisions of this section relating thereto, the party thereby aggrieved, in addition to any other legal remedies to which he may be entitled, shall be entitled summarily to enforce the performance of such acts, by said company, by mandamus; and any motions or applications to the court in the course of such proceedings for mandamus shall be entitled to the like preference in hearing as is accorded in criminal cases. And it is hereby made the special duty and obligation of the president of the said company to see to the due performance of the obligation imposed upon the said company, by this section, in respect of the permission of transfers of stock and the issuing of new stock certificates in place thereof; and if he shall, by willful wrong, refuse or neglect to perform any such duties, with the intent thereby wrongfully to deprive any party entitled thereto of an opportunity of transferring stock, or obtaining the new certificate therefor, intended to be secured to such party by the provisions of this section, he shall be personally liable to such aggrieved party for a penalty of five dollars for each share of stock in respect of the transfer of which, or issuing of a new certificate for which, he shall be guilty of such willful wrong with such intent as aforesaid, which penalty may be sued for and recovered from him by such aggrieved party.

§ 5. The said company has and shall have no right to enact or maintain, or keep in force, any by-law or regulation forbidding the transfer of any of its stock upon any lawful trust or agency, or for any purpose which is not forbidden by law, or restricting the transfers of its stock to cases of change in the beneficial ownership thereof, or forbidding transfers of its stock to others than the beneficial owners; and no such by-law or regulation shall justify said company in refusing to permit any transfer of any of its stock which would be otherwise legally permissible to the party or parties holding or entitled to such stock. No person shall be eligible to the office of director in said company who is not a resident and citizen of the United States.

§ 6. It shall not be lawful, at any election for directors of the said company, for any person or persons to vote, either in person or by proxy, upon any stock standing in his, her or their name on the books of said company, in case he, she or they has or have parted with his, her or their interest in such stock, and no longer has or have possession or control of the stock certificate therefor, when his, her or their vote thereon is offered to be cast; but this provision shall not be construed to prevent any person or persons having stock standing in his or their name, which is held by him or them as trustee or agent, and for which he or they holds or hold possession of the stock certificate, from voting thereon in person or by proxy. The inspectors shall be entitled to examine, upon oath, any person offering to vote upon any stock at any such election either as principal or attorney, in respect of the existence, within his knowledge, of any circumstances disqualifying the stock from being voted on by him, in virtue of the foregoing provision of this section, and if such disqualification shall be satisfactorily shown to the inspectors, either by such examination or otherwise, the vote shall be rejected. Any persons who shall willfully swear falsely upon the examination above authorized shall be deemed guilty of perjury, and shall be subject to the punishment prescribed by law for perjury in judicial proceedings. If, in any legal proceedings properly instituted for setting aside or reviewing any election of directors of the said company, it shall appear to the court that any vote given at such election for any candidate who may have been declared by the inspectors to have been elected thereat, was cast in violation of the provisions of this section, whether such vote was challenged at the election or not, such vote, so illegally cast, shall, in the adjudication upon such proceeding, be treated as null and void, and such result of the said election shall be declared and established in such proceeding as shall appear to be the true result, upon the exclusion of all such votes cast in violation of this section.

§ 7. The superior court of the city of New York, and the court of common pleas for the city and county of New York, shall respectively have the like jurisdiction and powers for inquiring into, reviewing, setting aside or establishing any election of directors of the said company as are by law possessed by the Supreme Court, and may make any orders in proceedings instituted in such courts respectively for such purpose which might be made by the Supreme Court.

§ 8. It shall not be lawful for any person or persons to grant any proxy or power of attorney for voting upon any shares of stock of said company standing in his, her or their name or names on the books of said company, where he, she or they shall have parted with his, her or their interest in such stock, and shall no longer have possession or control of the stock certificate therefor at the time of granting such proxy or power, provided always that this provision shall not prevent any person or persons in whose name stock shall stand, which is held by him or them as trustee or agent, for which he or they holds or hold possession of the stock certificate, from voting thereon in person or by proxy. Any person who shall grant a proxy in violation of the foregoing provision of this section, and any person who, as principal or proxy, shall knowingly vote, or offer to vote, upon any shares of stock in said company in violation of the provisions of the foregoing sixth section of this act, shall forfeit and pay a penalty of five dollars for each share of stock in respect of which he shall so grant such proxy or vote, or offer to vote, in violation of this act, which penalty may be sued for and recovered by the stockholders of said company, who will sue for the same, owning the stock upon which the proxy was granted contrary to the provisions of this act.

§ 9. This act shall take effect immediately.

STATE OF NEW YORK, Office of Secretary of State, ss.

I have compared the preceding with the original law on file in this office, and do hereby certify that the same is a correct transcript therefrom and of the whole of said original law.

G. HILTON SCRIBNER, Secretary of State.

Destruction of the Germs of Disease.

As the result of a series of experiments on the destruction of low forms of life by heat, Dr. Cross Calvert demonstrates that the germs of disease will withstand a temperature of 800 degrees Fahrenheit. Exposure to such a heat as this injures the fibers of all kinds of cloth so seriously that they unfit for further use. It is therefore evident that the mere agency of heat cannot be depended upon for the destruction of the germs or corpuscles attached to the clothing of persons who have suffered from any contagious disease.

The necessity for a change of opinion regarding the power of chlorine gas to accomplish this purpose is urged in a recent report of the New York Board of Health on the disinfection of clothing and rooms that have been exposed to contamination by small pox. In this report carbolic acid is especially recommended for the disinfection of clothing and bedding, and sulphurous acid gas prepared by burning sulphur for the disinfection of rooms. The latter substance especially seems to have the power of utterly destroying the germs of small pox, while chlorine frequently fails altogether or only accomplishes the object in an imperfect manner.—Scribner's for May.
