...ER ADVERTISER

For the Campaign.

The ADVERTISER will be furnished from the first of April until after the Presidential campaign, for 75 cents.—We have made arrangements whereby we shall be able to discuss all political questions, and furnish to our readers a better paper than heretofore. The Advertiser is not controlled by any "Ring" or Faction, but will endeavor to advance and maintain true Republican principles; supporting none but those whom we shall consider worthy the support of all honest men. Send in your name and get a good paper even months and a half for 50 cents.

Up to the hour of going to press we have received no official news as to the nominations by the National Republican Convention, now being held in Philadelphia; but the indications show a certainty of Grant's renomination for President, and the probable nomination of Henry Wilson for Vice President.

A letter from Hon. Geo. H. Pendleton has been received in Philadelphia, in which he advocates a straight Democratic nomination for the Presidency at Baltimore.

Among the reformers in Chautauqua county who have left the Republican Party and declared for Greeley are the immaculate Mat Bemus and the beautiful Winans. So says the Jamestown Journal.

An active Greeley man, who canvassed a carriage manufactory in Williamsport the other day, was disgusted at the result of the vote. It stood: For Grant, 26; for a straight Democrat, 1; for Greeley, 0.

Horace Tribune has withdrawn the Greeley—we mean, Greeley has withdrawn the Tribune from Hor—that is to say, the President has withdrawn Greeley from the Trib—Pshaw! we give it up; we can't tell where Greeley, or Horace, or the Tribune stands.

Horace Greeley, in his Trumbull county, Ohio, speech last Fall, uttered the following:

"If the Democratic party were called upon to decide between Grant and myself, I know that their regard for what they must call principle would reduce nine-tenths of them to vote against me. Why? I am a decided enemy of that party, even in its most respectable aspects."

The Albany Journal utters the following warning: "How many Republicans in this State are prepared to aid in electing a Democratic Governor, a Democratic Legislature, a Democratic United States Senator, and a majority of Democratic members of Congress? That is the programme as a return for the indorsement of Greeley. The Republican who follows must be prepared to become a Democrat."

A compositor in the office of the Newark (N. J.) Advertiser, once asked Mr. Greeley's influence to procure a Government clerkship in Washington. "Can you saw wood?" queried the philosopher. "Yes, sir," falteringly replied the applicant. "Then stay away from Washington," was the only further remark vouchsafed. The compositor now tenders the same advice to Mr. Greeley, "no matter whether he can saw wood or not."

Purgative Pills have become a settled necessity with the American people. Indeed, cathartics always have been and always must be used, in some form, by all mankind. In this country the pillular form of administration has been growing in favor since pills were first made of Aloes and Rhubarb rolled into a ball. Their high position in the public confidence has finally been secured and fastened into permanency by Ayer's Cathartic Pills, the most skillful combination of medicine for the diseases they are intended to cure, that science can devise or art produce. Those who need pills, no longer hesitate what pills to take if they can get Ayers Pill.—Wheeling (Va.) Press.

The mock talked of free trade meeting held at Steinway Hall in New York Thursday night, W. C. Bryant presiding. About two thousand persons were present. Resolutions were passed denouncing the Cincinnati platform and Horace Greeley; asserting no obligation rested upon them to support the most prominent politician in the country, and calling on all friends of free trade throughout the State to unite with them to secure a candidate representing their principles. The president was empowered to appoint a committee of ten to take such action with reference to the matter as they deem proper in view.

Wendell Philips on the Tammany Candidate.

(Extract of a Letter from Mr. Wendell Philips to Mr. E. P. Cummings.)

You know I am neither a Republican nor Grant man. Whom I shall vote for, or whether I shall vote at all, I do not know. But certainly as against Greeley I am for Grant. We have had one Andy Johnson; I will not run the risk of getting another in Horace Greeley. I want a man with some decided principles. Greeley never had any. Besides, I consider Greeley a secession candidate. I believe the plot to nominate him was hatched by Southern White rebels more than a year ago, and has been mainly nursed by them. I advise any one who means to vote for him to find out first what agreements have been made by Mr. Greeley's friends with Jeff Davis and his staff as to office and patronage. I am perfectly certain that there is a distinct mutual understanding, if not a positive contract, between them. If Horace Greeley enters the White House, Jeff. Davis will be as truly part of the Administration as Seward was in Lincoln's days. No negro can vote for Greeley who values his life or property or cares for his race. If, by a frown of Providence, he is elected, I shall advise every Southern loyalist to load the revolvers that Grant's arrest of North Carolina Ku Klux has allowed to be laid aside. If he is elected let the negroes live in squads of fifty, whom no coward will dare shoot down, and show no property after sunset.—Lonely men will be shot, and no black will own a mule forty-eight hours if any rebel knows the fact.

As for Adams, I do not fear him—an aristocrat by birth and a Democrat by perverseness—the love of money makes such a union possible. He is a Democrat, but afraid to confess his creed, or wear its uniform. If any party allows him to lead it, he will lead it to its grave, as all the Adamses have always done. Old John Adams' vanity, bigotry, and hate of Hamilton put the Federal Party into its tomb. John Quincy Adams' Administration was the death-blow of Whig Party, then called Republicans. The fight which gilds the Adamses is that of sunset—they insure defeat. Chatham said Sir William Young's voice was the death knell of his country. The breath of an Adams' fame has the chill of the charnel-house in it. Let them nurse their money-bags like timid misers, and allow bolder and more unselfish men, whose foreheads are lit by the rising sun, to help the world forward, undisturbed by their greedy ambition or their querulous crotchets.

For a loyal Administration to protect the negro, awe the rebel, and give the workingman a chance, Grant's little finger is worth a baker's dozen of Greeley's.

Yours,
WENDELL PHILLIPS.

Correspondence.

Hornellsville, June 3rd, 1872.

MY DEAR BARNARD:—According to promise, I write to inform you that I arrived here, right side up with care, last Saturday, and have found a comfortable boarding house with a very respectable family. I think I shall like it here very much after I become acquainted with the customs, habits and style of the Hornellsvillains; for I must confess that I am not only surprised but also amused at the airs of the denizens of this village. Why, my friend Barnard, but yesterday, I asked one of the ladies who boards where I do to take a walk around the village, and she asked me, "what village?" this village, of course, I replied. "Well," said she, "if you please, I would prefer to have you call it city." Now, Barnard, what do you say to that? Ever since early girlhood I have heard of what is vulgarly denominated "Codfish Aristocracy," but never in my life did I live where it was practiced until I came to Ho-nellsville.

On my arrival at the depot I was accosted by a gentlemanly-looking porter who asked me if I would take a "buss." No, thank you, said I, I don't want to go on a bust; if I am a stranger in your village I am a lady nevertheless. "Ah! madam, please understand me aright; I did not ask you to go on a bust, I meant Omnibus,"—"Why," said I, "is it possible that you have an omnibus in Hornellsville?"—"Yes, madam and I'll take you to any part of the city." "What city?" I asked. "Why, this city, of course," he replied. "I was not aware that Hornellsville was a city," said I. "Well, no, not exactly," said he, "but if it keeps on growing for two or three hundred years at the rate it has during the last six thousand years, it will be a flourishing city." "Shouldn't wonder," I replied, as I turned on my heel and left the porter to take care of his 'buss.'

And such is life in Hornellsville.—In my perambulations through the vill—I mean city. I counted no less than six hand organs; and I must say that they played some excellent music. One thing I noticed, however, they had no monkeys with them; but there is no need of that, as I saw plenty of monkeys before I finished my walk; and they had hair on their upper lips too. It is abominable to see how some of them stare at a lady when she goes out for a walk. With that one exception, I think the young men behave themselves as well as they do in most vill—I mean cities. For a young city, I think their sidewalks are not up to the mark, neither are their fences or public buildings. Speaking of public buildings reminds me of an anecdote. Last week, one of the policemen was taking a drunken man to the lock-up, and when he went to open the door of that solitary edifice, drunkey asked, "what kind of a house is that?" "That is our temporary jail, or lock-up."—"Jail, jail, lockup! well, esp'n, yew ain't again' to put me in there?" "Yes, sir," said the officer. "Wall, neow, see here, old feller, if yew put me in there I'll be consarned if I don't take my tooth pick and dig my way out." "Well," said the officer, "for fear you would attempt it, I guess I will not put you in there;" so he let drunky vamoose.

Well, Mr. Barnard, I might write for a week and then not tell you half what I hear about our young city; but if my own honest opinion is worth anything you are welcome to it. After diligent inquiries about things in general, I learn that they have neither a fire department, water works, nor anything that savors of enterprise. O, yes, I forgot, they have gas; yes, sir, plenty of gas, not only enough to light the city with, but enough to disgust such a verdant stranger as your humble servant. If you go into a store to buy anything they, in addressing you, use either gas or soft soap very freely. That kind of gas don't cost much, however; they are not so extravagant with the gas that costs so much a foot—for I learn that they measure gas by the foot and milk by the yard, down here.

Really, Mr. Barnard, it would seem as if this was the place where all the rogues in the country meet, to compete for the championship. Groceries are high, so those who ought to know say; dry goods are high; houses are high—no, not the houses, but rents are awful high. They tell me that a house containing six small rooms commands from one hundred and fifty to two hundred dollars per year. Just such a house as you could get in Andover for $100 per year. But then you know Andover is not a city, and I suppose that accounts for it. Excuse brevity.

Hornellsville papers may copy.

Yours respectfully,
HATTIE NEVERTATTLE.

Andover Union School.

SCHOOL EXAMINATION, &c.

The fifth semi-monthly examination of the Andover Union Free School occurred on Friday, the 31st ult., partial results of which, are given below. The current term will close on Friday, the 28th inst., at which time, Grade Certificates will be distributed to all who are qualified for promotion to higher grades. The last week of the term will be devoted to examination for the purpose of ascertaining who are entitled to promotion, and no others will be promoted or considered members of any of the grades with which they have heretofore been connected. Absence from school during examination will be counted a failure. Any person, whether a member of the school or not, may obtain a Grade certificate by coming into the examination and answering properly seventy-five per cent of the questions for the grade for which he is examined. An Examining Committee will be appointed by the Board of Education, to conduct the Examination and determine the standing of each pupil. Friends and patrons of the school are hereby cordially invited to be present, witness the examination, examine the registers, &c., and see for themselves why some pupils succeed and others do not. The examination will commence June 24th, and school will close on the 28th. Don't forget it.

The Cause of Temperance finds some of its most insidious and dangerous foes in the many so-called "tonics" and "appetizers," made of cheap whiskey and refuse liquors, finished to suit depraved appetites, under the name of medicines. Dr. Walker's California Vinegar Bitters are none of these. They are not a beverage, but a genuine medicine, purely vegetable, prepared from California herbs by a regular physician. For all diseases of the stomach, liver, kidneys, bladder, skin and blood, they are an infallible and unrivaled remedy. o182d
