Salvation Army Annual Drive Now On

Each year at this time your Salvation Army Committees, of which Prof. J. H. Kessler is local chairman, asks you to help the work of the Salvation Army and support the splendid services their organization renders in its varied activities. The two major ones at present being Veterans rehabilitation and rural relief.

The Salvation Army is also enlarging its summer camping program for underprivelged children a near-home example of which is the taking over this year of the Cuba Lake Health Camp where four camping periods for needy children will be conducted this summer.

The following release for the Buffalo office gives some of the recent activities of the Salvation Army program.

Indians in the remote Turtle Mountain Reservation of North Dakota today are singing the praises of The Salvation Army rural Service Units. Increased living costs and an exceptionally severe winter had brought the Indians to a state of starvation and suffering, while waiting for an additional appropriation.

Into this emergency came The Salvation Army rural Service Units which collected and shipped to the reservation two tons of food and clothing. The shipment contained more than 3,000 pieces of warm wearing apparel, even includng fur coats. Such quick action by The Army Units earned a wealth of gratitude from "America's first citizens".

With the organization of these rural Service Units, The Salvation Army is able to reach into areas where its help—physical and spiritual—may be needed, according to John Berkhoudt, Western New York Field Representative. "A typical rural service case concerns some Indian children who needed dental care. The children had no money, and our rural service came to the rescue, supplying funds for the necessary dental work", said Mr. Berkhoudt. "A family of eight children were sent to one of our Summer camps on Lake Ontario, as were many other children. A student in High school, losing out on his grades made remarkable progress when supplied with the latest model hearing aid. Uniting with another agency, our Rural service supplied the needed funds to save the leg of a young man. Fire striking suddenly at night, so seriously burned a young girl that a skin grafting operation was found necessary. Again the bill was paid by the Rural Service." These are but a few examples of rural medical service.

To continue this swiftly expanding work of The Salvation Army in this county and area, the campaign for funds now taking place in this community, will need the support of every one. Mr. Berkhoudt wishes to make it clear, however, that all funds raised, whether through mail or personal solicitation, will be deposited in the local bank, through the local treasurer, A. D. Fuller and will be allocated by the local committee.
