Annual Meeting Andover G.L.F. Patrons Held

"The real cure for the meat crisis is now on the way in the form of the largest grain crop in history", George Vivian, Olean G. L. F. District Manager, said at the anual meeting of Andover patrons of G. L. F. held at the Andover Grange hall Wednesday night.

The big grain crop, Mr. Vivian pointed out, already is driving feed prices down and checking liquidation of America's livestock which has been going on steadily for three years.

He predicted more meat on the consumer's table in about a year unless price controls are invoked that would prevent the law of supply and demand from working to use the crop to rebuild herds and flocks.

"The present situation is an about-face from the three-year trend that has seen our cattle numbers drop 10 percent, poultry 20 percent and hogs by one-third," Mr. Vivian emphasized. "A big change has occurred during the past 30 days when we switched from a position on July 1st of having the smallest grain carry-over since 1937 to one where, if nothing happens to corn crop, we have more than a ton of grain in sight per animal unit for the new feeding year. This is the largest amount in history."

Making his annual report on the year's operations in G. L. F. Mr. Vivian said "Already more than 83,000 farmers have qualified for membership in G. L. F. under a new policy that went into effect on July 1."

Mr. Vivian said that under the new policy any bona fide farmer may become a member of G. L. F. through the purchase of common stock, and only members will share in any patronage refunds paid by the Cooperation G. L. F. Exchange on business done after July 1 of this year.

Mr. Vivian made it plain that the new policy does not keep any one from using G. L. F. services. "It does", he said, "clearly define membership and establish a policy under which the member owners are the full recipients of the corporate structure they have in G. L. F."

Under the new policy G. L. F. automatically gives up any Federal income tax exemptions and henceforth will pay income taxes on any earnings not distributed to members as patronage refunds, after the usual reserves allowed both private business and corporations have been set up.

Everett Clark of Andover presided over the meeting as chairman of the Patron's Committee. Reports on local operations of G. L. F. were also given during the meeting.

The program also included a showing of a full-color sound movie titled "From These Roots" which told the story of how farmers have worked together from the barn raising of early days on down to their modern cooperatives which they use to secure their farm production supplies and to market farm products.

"Just as their forefathers worked together clearing land and building barns," the movie said. "modern farmers work together today to provide themselves with the farm supplies and services they need to produce food, and to provide themselves with a marketing system that enables them to get the food they produce to city markets in its most nutritious and appetizing form. The same spirit of working together that enabled our forefathers to conquer this new land has helped make this nation of ours the best fed country in the world".

Hall—Auringer

A mid-summer wedding was solemnized Saturday, Aug. 14 at 2:30 p. m. at the home of Dr. and Mrs. H. E. Auringer on Maple Street, Addison, when their younger daughter, Miss Shirley Elizabeth Auringer, became the bride of Charles Edwin Hall, son of Mrs. Marjorie Hall of Tuscarora, N. Y.

The Rev. M. C. Johns of Fairmont, W. Va., former pastor of the Addison Baptist Church, performed the double ring ceremony and traditional wedding music was provided before the ceremony by Miss Virginia Ford of Painted Post RD, a student in the Music Department at Fredonia State Teachers College.

The bridal attendants were Miss Helen Auringer of Addison, sister of the bride and Victor Oakes of Andover.

The Auringer home was decorated with a profusion of white flowers and the wedding ceremony was performed before the living-room mantle which was banked with white gladioli and white lighted tapers in crystal holders.

Miss Ford played Lohengrin's Bridal Chorus as the wedding procession descended the staircase in the hall which was elaborately decorated with white satin ribbon, knotted with white hosegays of white carnations. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a bridal gown of white silk marquisette over white satin, styled with a sweetheart neckline, long fitted sleeves ending in points over the wrists, and a bouffant skirt trimmed with appliqued satin rose petal garlands, ending in a long circular train. Her finger-tip length bridal veil of double tiered imported illusion fell from a Madonna cap of seed pearls embroidered on white satin. She carried a bridal bouquet of white rose and stephanotus tied with knotted satin streamers and her only jewelry was a cultured pearl necklace and matching earrings, a gift from the bridegroom.

The maid-of-honor wore a pale blue taffeta gown fashioned with a deep bertha and a full skirt. She carried a colonial bouquet of shellpink asters and wore a headdress of matching flowers.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Auringer chose a brown and white print sheer dress with which she wore a gardenia corsage. The bridegroom's mother wore a gray silk printed dress and a white gardenia corsage.

A reception for the bridal party close relatives and friends, followed immediately at the Auringer home. The bride's table was decorated with an arrangement of shell-pink and white gladioli and white lighted tapers in crystal holders and a four-tiered wedding cake.

When Mr. and Mrs. Hall left in the late afternoon on a week's motor trip to an undisclosed destination the bride wore a light gray gabardine suit, with navy blue accessories and a corsage of sweetheart roses.

Relatives and friends attending the wedding and reception were present from Auburn, Albany, Rochester, Elmira, Chicago, Ill., Philadelphia, Pa., Andover, Tuscarora and Addison.

The Addison High School in the

The bride was graduated from Class of 1944 and from the University of Rochester in June, graduated from the Addison 1948. The bridegroom was also High School in the same class and is now a student at Alfred University.

Mr. and Mrs. Hall will reside in Andover.

Those attending the wedding from Andover were: Miss Doris Sick, Mrs. W. S. Calhoun, Paul Kilbane, Victor Oakes, Richard Potter and John Richardson.
