CHARLES HOWARD,
D. P. HOGANBOOM, Co. Com.
C. W. WOODWORTH,

Has It Changed?

We would call the attention of the readers of the New York Tribune to a double-leaded editorial in that paper, wherein it rejoices, and feels so good over the election in North Carolina of the old rebel Vance, who was refused a seat in the Upper House last year because he was ineligible to the office under the Fourteenth Amendment. Also, Captain Plate Durham, ex-State Senator, who in his own sworn evidence before the Congressional Committee, admitted that he was an active member of the Ku-Klux, and who is now under indictment, is truly a matter of congratulation to the Liberals and Democrats of North Carolina. The Tribune chimed this as a Liberal victory. Has the Tribune changed? Men who a year ago it could not say mean things enough about, it now applauds. Good God!—what a reformer!

No Right to Complain.

Mr. Greeley complains of severe treatment at the hands of his former political friends. He has no right to complain, for his former friends are doing just what he did when Andrew Johnson, Doolittle, and Carl Schurz went over to the enemy. He handled these traitors to principle and party without gloves, and treated them to his choicest adjectives. Now that he has followed them he must not blame others for holding him up as he held up the renegades of the past. If they deserved it so deserves it none less. If anything his sin is greater than theirs. He stayed after they left; he denounced them for doing just what he has since done. He, according to his own words, knew better. But the bait offered was too tempting. The devil showed him the vision of the White House, and promised to place him in it if he would fall down and worship him. So Horace fell.

Grant and Greeley—The Contrast.

Upon the first call for troops by Abraham Lincoln, Grant threw aside his business, raised a company and offered his services to the Government. Greeley, through the columns of the widely circulated New York Tribune, advocated peaceable secession. Grant said there could be no terms offered to rebels but unconditional surrender. Greeley lifted up his voice and said, 'Let the wayward sisters depart in peace." Grant in the teeth of red tap superiors and unfriendly newspaper criticism captured Fort Henry and Fort Donelson, and hurled the rebels back upon Corinth. Greeley was deeply engaged in ascertaining whether there was not some philosophic way in which the nation could be peacefully divided.

Grant said nothing, but moved upon the works of Vicksburg. Greeley said much, and tried to compromise Mr Lincoln by overtures of peace to rebel emissaries at Niagara Falls—Grant cheered the great heart of the people by constant victories Greeley embarrassed him by constant mistakes. Grant drove the rebels from Atlanta; planned the brilliant march to the sea; fought his way through and through the dreary wilderness, and overthrew the rebellion, with its life, honor and reputation at last. Greeley lived in luxury in New York, coining money from the publication of the news of Grant's victories. Grant captured the rebel army and lodged him in prison—Greeley, the rebel President is at Liberty.

Is There a Change?

Less than a year ago Greeley was howling for the passage of the Ku-Klux law. He filled his paper with proofs of this Ku-Klux "Conspiracy." He showed the absolute necessity of Federal interference. On last summer he sent an able member of his staff to investigate the outrages. The reports of this man were published in the Tribune, and made the basis of declarations that the Ku-Klux persecutions were designed to crush out Republicanism in the South. And now this same paper allows Reverdy Johnson in its columns to say that the law in question will not be enforced by Greeley; and meantime this man Greeley, now candidate for President, consorts with the opponents of the bill, and makes his bed with those who stimulate and defend the outrages which called for its enactment. The votes of these men he begs. The Ku-Klux, whom he loudly denounced a year ago, and the worst element of the Democratic party, over whom he has cast cart-loads of filth for years, are now his best friends. The whole matter is well summed up in a few words by the Independent, which says:

"A Presidential candidate whose attitude makes him acceptable to Ku-Klux voters, or who seeks a position to invite their votes, is not fit for the office to which he aspires. Let the Republican who ignores or changes his principles to gain Democratic support have that support, if he can get it; but let Republicans shun him as they would a pestilence. He is simply a trickster for political profit. Such a man can have no claim to the vote of any true Republican, any colored citizen, any friend of order and of peace. No man can be more dangerous to the public safety than one who makes it a grave offence in an Executive officer that he has enforced the laws as he found them in the Code."

We ask when and who has changed?

For Honesty and Safety.

George J. Bryan, editor of the Buffalo Evening Post, one of the oldest Democratic papers of the State, takes a stand for Grant and Wilson. Read his reasons:

We all have our duties to perform. Duties to our State and Nation. Duties to our city. Duties to society. A public journalist in a crisis like the present has his duties to perform. A life long Democrat, casting my first vote for James K. Polk for President in 1844, I have for upwards of a quarter of a century maintained the principles and supported the candidates of the Democratic party. I did so with the pen upon the stump, whether fortune smiled or frowned on our organization. I did so in my independent Buffalo Evening Post despite the unscrupulous and malignant opposition from honorable competitors of the party back or editorial organ, the Buffalo Daily Courier. I claim to be an old-school Democrat, and desire by my theories and views of Democracy not from the shivering and degraded Democracy of Tammany Hall, not from such chronic politicians as Tweed, Connolly and Sweeney, or their Buffalo chum, (though the Sentinel has from the writings of Jefferson, Madison and Monroe, as interpreted in public affairs by the old, time-honored leaders of the party, such as Andrew Jackson, Martin Van Buren, Silas Wright and Thomas H. Benton.

Last year, thanks to the bold and masterly exposures of the New York Daily Times, (to pronounced Grant papers) the colossal frauds of Tammany were unearthed. It was shown that Tammany Hall had become a den of thieves. It was demonstrated that under the honest, the revered name of Democracy a set of unscrupulous villains had committed robberies without a parallel in the history of our country. Honest Democrats hung their heads in chagrin, and the people of our country were justly fired with indignation against the authors of such outrages. It was felt that a blow had been struck at the very existence of our Republican institution. How did the leaders of the party treat these frauds. Did the State Convention last Fall denounce them? Did its members pronounce in manly tones the terms against the foul wrong? Nothing of the sort. The resolutions adopted were of a milk and water character and to crown the insult the Tammany delegates practically stifled the voice of the Convention. In corroboration of the truth of my assertion, I have only to remind my reader that the Buffalo Courier whose political editor-in-chief is the acknowledged chum of Big Thief Tweed, never fairly and squarely condemned either Tammany or the scoundrels who committed the robberies. As the creature of my views of real Democracy, I need only say that from the outset I denounced in and out of my Post not only these gigantic frauds but the dastards who perpetrated them. The failure of the Democratic organization to face the music on them, indeed led me to give but a cold and reluctant support to the State Ticket last Fall, and that only in view of the chance that in the Presidential contest of 1872, it might right itself. But how stands the case? Trading politicians, renegades, Tammany thieves, the followers of the Brooklyn Ring and the leaders of the Buffalo one horse Branch of the Tammany Ring, have joined hands. Unrepentant rebels, the very worst elements North and South have united upon one of the most unfit men in the Union for President. Horace Greeley, the very personification and embodiment of all the isms that have ever afflicted our land, has been nominated by the Antinomians who met at Baltimore and called themselves Democrats, for the Democracy to vote for? What an insult to honest Democrats? What a farce, fraud! What a stupendous farce! Barnum the king of showman and high priest of humbugs never did a sharper thing. I repudiate such a nomination. I go further. I shall vote for and work for the election of Ulysses S. Grant for President and Henry Wilson for Vice President. President Grant is by all odds the safest, the best man of the two. His administration has been able, honest and patriotic. The great business interests of the country never were more prosperous. We enjoy the blessings of peace and prosperity to an unparalelled extent. I have an abiding faith in the intelligence, in the patriotism, in the sober second thought of the American people. That faith induces me to confidently predict, that the nominees of the Philadelphia Convention will be triumphantly elected.

A SCATHING LETTER

SPEAKER BLAINE TO CHARLES SUMNER.

WASHINGTON, August 2.—The following letter was hauled to Senator Sumner to-day:

AUGUSTA, ME., Aug. 1, 1872.

Hon. Chas. Sumner, U S. Senator—Dear Sir:—Your letter published in the papers of this morning will create profound pain and regret among your former political friends throughout New England. Your power to injure General Grant was exhausted in your remarkable speech in the Senate. Your power to injure yourself was not fully exercised until you announced your open alliance with the Southern secessionists in their efforts to destroy the Republican party of the nation.

I have but recently read with much interest the circumstantial and minute account, given by you in the fourth volume of your works, of the manner in which you were struck down in the Senate Chamber in 1856, for defending the rights of the negro. The Democratic party throughout the South, and according to your own showing to some extent in the North, also approved of that assault upon you. Mr. Toombs, of Georgia, openly announced his approval of it in the Senate, and Jefferson Davis, four months after its occurrence, wrote a letter to South Carolina in fulsome eulogy of Brooks for having so nearly taken your life.

It is safe to say that every man in the South who rejoiced over the attempt to murder you was afterwards found in the rebel conspiracy to murder the nation. It is safe to say that every one of them who survives is to day your fellow laborer in support of Horace Greeley. In 1850 he would indeed have been a rash prophet who predicted your fast alliance sixteen years afterwards with Messrs. Toombs and Davis in their efforts to reinstate their own party in power.

In all startling imitations of American politics, nothing so marvelous has ever occurred as the fellowship of Robert Toombs, Jefferson Davis and Charles Sumner, in a joint effort to drive the Republican party from power and hand over the Government to the political control of those who so recently sought to destroy it.

It is of no avail for you to take refuge behind the Republican record of Horace Greeley. Conceding, for the sake of argument, as I do not in fact believe, that Horace Greeley would remain true in his Republican principles, he would be powerless against a Congress that would come into power with him in the event of his election.

We have had a recent and striking illustration in the case of Andrew Johnson of the inability of the President to enforce a policy or even a measure against the will of Congress. What more power would there be in Horace Greeley to enforce a Republican policy against a Democratic Congress, than there was in Andrew Johnson to enforce a Democratic policy against a Republican Congress? And, besides, Horace Greeley has already in his letter of acceptance, taken ground practically against the Republican doctrine, so often enforced by yourself, of the duty of the national government to secure the rights of every citizen in the protection of life, person and property.

In Mr. Greeley's letter accepting the Cincinnati nomination, he pleases every Ku Klux villain in the South by repudiating the Democratic cant about "local self government," and inveighing in good rebel parlance against "centralization," and in finally declaring that "there shall be no Federal subversion of the internal policy of the several States and municipalities, but that each State shall be left free to enforce the rights and promote the well-being of its inhabitants, by such means as the judgment of its own people shall prescribe."

The meaning of all this in plain English is, that no matter how much the colored citizens of the South may be abused, wronged and oppressed, Congress shall not interfere for their protection, but leave them to the tender mercies of the "local self-government" administered by the white rebels. Do you, as a friend of the colored man, approve this position of Mr. Greeley's

You cannot forget, Mr. Sumner, how often during the late session of Congress you conferred with me in regard to the possibility of having your civil rights bill passed by the House. It was introduced by your personal friend, Mr. Hooper, and nothing protected its passage by the House except the rancorous and factious hostility of the Democratic members.

If I have correctly examined the Globe, the Democratic members on seventeen different occasions resisted the passage of the civil rights bill by the parliamentary process known as filibustering. They would not even allow it to come to a vote. Two intelligent colored members from South Carolina (Messrs. Elliott and Rainey), begged of the Democratic side of the House to merely allow the civil rights bill to be voted on, and they were answered with a denial so absolute that it amounted to a scornful jeer at the rights of the colored man.

And now you lend your voice and influence to the re election of these Democratic members, who are cooperating with you in the support of Mr. Greeley. Do you not know, Mr. Sumner, and will you not as a candid man acknowledge, that with these men in power in Congress the rights of the colored men are absolutely sacrificed, so far as those rights depend on federal legislation? Still further: The rights of the colored men in this country are secured, if secured at all by the three great constitutional amendments, the 13th, 14th and 15th

To give these amendments full scope and effect, legislation by Congress is imperatively required, as you have so often and so eloquently demonstrated. But the Democratic party are on record in the most conspicuous manner against any legislation on the subject. It was only in the month of February last that my colleague, Mr. Peters, offered a resolution in the House of Representatives affirming the validity of the constitutional amendments and of such reasonable legislation of Congress as may be necessary to make them, in the letter and spirit, most effectual." This resolution, very mild guarded, as you will see, was adopted by 124 yeas to 58 nays. Only eight of the yeas were Democrats. All the nays were Democrats.

The resolution of Mr. Peters was followed a week later by one offered by Mr. Stevenson, of Ohio, as follows:

Resolved, That we recognize as valid and binding all the existing laws passed by Congress for the enforcement of the Thirteenth, Fourteenth and Fifteenth Amendments of the United States, and for the protection of citizens in their rights under the Constitution as amended.

On the vote upon this resolution there were 107 yeas to 65 nays. All the yeas were Republicans, and they are now unanimous in support of President Grant. All the nays were Democrats, who are now equally unanimous in support of Mr. Greeley.

It is idle to affirm, as some Democrats did in a resolution, that "these amendments are valid parts of the constitution," so long as the same men on the same day declare that the provisions of these amendments should not be enforced by Congressional legislation. The amendments are but "sounding brass and tinkling cymbals" to the colored men until Congress makes them effective and practical. Nay, more: If the rights of the colored man are to be left to the legislation of the Southern States, without Congressional intervention, he would under a Democratic administration be deprived of the right of suffrage in less than two years, and he would be very lucky if he escaped some form of chattel slavery or peonage; and in proof of this danger I could quote volumes of wisdom and warning from the speeches of Charles Sumner.

When, therefore, you point out to the colored men that their rights will be safer in the hands of the Democratic party, you delude and mislead them. I do not say you will fully, but none the less really.

The small handful of Republicans, compared with the whole mass, who unite with you will not put Mr. Greeley in going over to the Democratic party, cannot lessen that lump of political unsoundness, even if you preserve your own original principles in the contest. The administration of Mr. Greeley, therefore, should he be elected, would be in the whole and in detail a Democratic administration, and you would be compelled to go with the current, or turn back when too late to mend the evil you had done.

Your argument that Horace Greeley does not become a Democrat by receiving Democratic votes, I accept fully as the answer of your conscience, but to the Senate it is by no means satisfactory. The point is not what Mr. Greeley will become in your judgment, but what will be the practical effect of the great political changes of the government, with Democratic majorities in both Houses of Congress. You know very well, Mr. Sumner, that if Mr. Greeley is elected President, Congress is likely to be under the control of the party which have persistently denied the rights of the colored man. What excuse you will present towards the colored man in such contingency no other person knows than he of the power of the Government to fulfill its constitutional duties.

The colored men of this country are not as a class, ambitious, but they have wonderful instincts, and when they read your letter they will know that as a general rule in their fate you deserted them. Charles Sumner co-operating with Jefferson Davis is not the same Charles Sumner they have little cause to idolize, any more than Horace Greeley, chewed to the echo in Tammany Hall, is the same Horace Greeley whom Republicans have hitherto trusted.

The black men of this country will never be ungrateful for what you have done for them in the past, but in the bitterness of their hearts will they ever forget that, located and blinded by personal hatred to one man, you turned your back on the millions to whom, in past years you have stood as their shield and bulwark of defence.

Very respectfully, your old servant,

JAMES G. BLAINE.

The New York Commercial Advertiser says: "The Tribune raves like a madman because Mr. Boutwell went to North Carolina to expose the malice and ignorance, the perversions and falsehoods of Vance, Schurz & Co. It is also aggrieved because the President seeks recreation at Long Branch. But we have looked in vain for any criticism upon the retreat of Governor Hoffman to Newport, or to the fact that the Lieutenant-Governor, Private Secretary Van Buren and Inspector-General McQuade, went to Baltimore to work and shout for Greeley.

A large proportion of the Democrats of Oregon and California refuse to support Greeley.
