THE PRICE OF FREEDOM

by Rosemarie Baker

When World War I ended, the American people, confident that it would be the last world conflict, settled back into their old familiar rut of indifference and disinterest. Things went on as usual, and everything was fine. Suddenly, like a bolt out of the blue, the United States was plunged into another war by an incident which will never be forgotten by Americans. Pearl Harbor was a tragic event, and yet the people were at fault because of their lack of interest in what was happening before their very eyes. Will the same thing happen again?

We living in Andover, aren't losing any sleep over the bloody fighting between the Jews and Arabs in Palestine or Russia's conquests in Europe. We're more concerned over getting that new car we've waited a year for, or getting that raise promised us a week ago. But all of us should be really interested and that includes everyone—students, parents and teachers.

These are turbulent times and we must keep posted on world happenings. The young people, especially, must be on their toes, because they, the youth of today, will be the hope of tomorrow. Andover's students can, and should be, as well informed on current events as they can possibly make themselves. They can increase their knowledge by reading the front page of a newspaper, not just the comic section. After all, will Dick Tracy or Steve Canyon matter if the atom bomb suddenly destroys our home?

We should all remember the famous statement made by John P. Curran, "Eternal vigilance is the price of liberty." This statement was made in 1880 and yet it is just as true today as it was then. Will there be another World War? If there is, we have only ourselves to blame!

PUPILS CELEBRATE BIRTHDAYS IN SEPTEMBER

Upon looking in the file we find 31 pupils will celebrate birthdays in September. We discover that out of the 31 there are 21 pupils celebrating birthdays together.

Beverly Clair and Jacqueline Vickers celebrate their birthdays on September 3rd

On September 9th Annabelle Kemp and Mary Theresa McAndrew were able to say "Happy Birthday" to each other.

September 10th we found Ronald Ellis and Mildred Miles each celebrating a birthday.

Since September 12 is on Sunday we discovered that Mary Alice Horan, Cort Marsh, Ralph Mix enjoyed their birthdays out of school.

Monday, September 13 we noted that Clarice Nye, Robert Conde, and Carl Atwell celebrated their birthdays.

Yet some pupils are waiting anxiously for their birthday to come, as of September 19 Dixie Appier, Beatrice Tidd and James Baker and on September 24th Helen Stocking, Ligouri Lynch, Joseph Smith and Wayne Atwell.

Nearer the end of September on the 27th we note that Charles Lehman and Archie Baker are to celebrate their birthdays.

Other pupils who have birthdays in September are:

Sept. 1, Donna Rice; Sept. 5, Margaret Jackson; Sept. 6, Alfred Davis; Sept. 7, Leo Burgett; Sept. 14, Eunice Hall; Sept. 15; Everett Davis; Sept. 17, Cordelia O'Dell; Sept. 20, Theodore Smith Sept. 21, Linda Coffin and the last birthday we found on the 28th, Freda Kupp.

An ensign had been giving a certain blonde the once-over about a dozen times at a party. Finally, he moved over close to her. "Pardon me," he said, "I'm with the United States Navy, whom are you with?"

A. C. S. STUDENTS MAKE SUGGESTIONS

The question before the ACS students this week is: "How can the school be improved this year"?

A few of the answers which were received when asking some of the students are as follows:

Ruth Shutt: "Let's get a good active Student Council and let the students co-operate more in building up a school that they can be proud of."

Betty Howland: "Let us bring our school spirit back by all co-operating. Come on, kids, we will help!"

Nedra Burrows: "Have a little more school spirit at basketball games this year."

Lois Honegger: "Take buses to soccer games this year."

Donald Mulconery: "Well, we could let both boys and girls ride on the same bus to basketball games."

Wayne Sherwood: "I second Don Mulconery's motion in that the basketball players be allowed to ride with the other students coming back from the games."

"Bob" Dunham: "Boys should be allowed to have the gym Saturdays."

"Joe" Smith: "No remarks."

Ella Mae Clair: "Each individual student must respect others and quit such rude behavior as shoving classmates in the halls."

GRADE NEWS

In Mrs. Robison's kindergarten there are 25 children, who are now learning their places at the tables. Mrs. Wolf is going to teach them music and Mrs. Robison is to teach them stories.

In Mrs. Hall's first grade there are 24 registered. Pauline Burch has not entered yet. There are two new pupils, Paul Winchell and Lee Storms.

In Mrs. Connor's first grade the pupils are starting to learn names. They have been making caterpillars, butterflies and flowers for a border.

In Mrs. Tompkins second grade are 26 pupils. Billy Slocum has returned to this school from Friendship. They are now having an attendance contest between girls and boys. Some of the pupils have brought in caterpillars and plants.

In Mrs. Helmer's third and fourth grade Helen Stocking was absent Thursday. Leo Burgett was elected president of the class. There are 16 in the third grade and ten in the fourth. They are now making maple leaf spelling booklets.

In Mrs. Schwarzenbach's sixth grade there are 31 registered. Yvonne Clement is absent with pneumonia.

In Miss Church's fifth and sixth grades there are 11 in the sixth and 16 in the fifth. They have a new pupil, Robert Haufman. The grade will publish a monthly paper. Lucille Smith is the editor and Marion Northrup is the assistant editor. James Connor is the art editor, Diane Lewis and David Marsh are reporters. The distribution manager is Avery Mead. Ann Harvey was elected president of the class; Marian Northrup is vice-president; secretary, Joyce Fuller, and treasurer, Jerry Rogers.

In Mrs. Gath's seventh grade there is a new boy, Edgar Silsby. As a result of the class elections Charles Davis is president; Irene Hurlburt is vice president; Carol Nye is secretary and treasurer and Doug Wheaton is the Student Council representative.

In Mr. Carmody's eighth grade there are two new pupils, Lawrence Hurlbert and Carl Feenaughty.

"Is it true that McTavish has bought the service station at the corner?"

"I think so. The 'Free Air' sign has been taken down."

CHIT-CHAT

The Seniors are busy planning a dance this week. It's this Friday night, so come and have some fun dancing to the music of the Rhythm Masters from Belmont. Wonder if we'll see some of ACS familiar couples such as: Marlin and Fran, Ann and Wayne, Bill and Betty, Evelyn and Jim, Rudy and Jack, or if there'll be some new twosomes? We hope so. Then maybe we'll have something to write about.

How do you like the new Eversharp pencils the Seniors are selling? In case you haven't seen them, they're purple and white and have the school motto on them. They also come with a guarantee and sell for only a dollar. If you'd like one, ask any Senior.

We saw a few Andoverites having some fun at the Bath Fair last week. We saw Teddy O'Dell there, but where was Nedra? Maybe she got lost in the sideshows. (we're only kidding). — Evelyn Glover, Louise O'Dell, Dick Lynch, Jim Baker, Margaret Jackson and Ella Mae Clair were there too.

Although the freshman class had an enjoyable summer they were glad to return to school.

The freshman class welcomes three new students who haven't attended Andover Central before. They are Janice Hall, Myrtle Sibin and Kathleen Belle.

Doris Burdick has returned to Andover once again.

We noticed that Delores Brown had her pigtails cut.

Who did Wayne Atwell go to the show with Saturday night?

Don Lynch's and Dale Green's crew cuts are very attractive.

Don Juan Crandall and LeRoy Caple seem to be getting along well together, even though she is new here.

Who's new blue car have we seen "Aggie" Davis riding in lately? Could he be from Bolivar?

It surely seems different without "Barney" Bostick in our school this year.

We hear our happy Donna Nobles going around singing "Ramblin Rose" all of the time.

Dick Hancock looks lost without "Shorty" Atwell around this year.

We hear a new romance is blooming with "Vic" Daley and Margaret Howard.

We wonder if "Midge" Smith and Franklin Cornish are going together this year.

Most of last year's Sophomores have returned to ACS this year with the exception of "Bill" Holt who is in the Navy and "Don" Scott who has gone to prep school.

Clayton Burdick just couldn't stay away from ACS girls any longer. One year in Troupsburg was just too much.

The Junior girls don't care much for the arrangement of separating the class. How do you boys feel about it?

We see Nedra Burrows and Teddy O'Dell are still friends. What charm do you use to keep your men, Nedra, or do you have a magic wand?

Our new classmate, Margaret Howard, has already caught herself a man, Vic Daley.

We see Joyce Linza took part in a summer romance with Mert Howard. Too bad the summer had to end.

Who is Annabell O. going to keep on a string this year? She's as changeable as the weather, so you fellows better hang on to your hearts.

Maxine Filler has started again this year, paying those weekly visits to the skating rink in Wellsville. Who's the big attraction down there, Maxine?

What is Betty Smith going to do this year? Duane has gone back to Richburg.

Who is this Bob Bensen from Bolivar that "Eadie" Dunham is always talking about?

The lecturer had reached one of his most telling points: "He who gives in when he's wrong is wise; but the man who gives in when he's right is . . . ."

"Married," came a voice from the audience.

ACS BEGINS DRIVER TRAINING PROGRAM

This year ACS has a new attraction for its students, automobile driving instructions. This course is offered in many schools and the unfortunate schools are striving to get this course.

This field is open to 12 Andover students who can meet the qualifications which are as follows:

1—Students must be 16 years of age or older.

2—Must not have a driver's license.

3—Students must have two free periods on Tuesday morning.

The general aims of this course are to prepare students to assume responsibilities involved in operating motor vehicles; to help reduce the traffic accident toll, and to prepare students to support sound traffic programs in the community.

The specific aims are to develop safety consciousness and proper attitudes toward driving; to encourage the formation of safe driving habits with a proper understanding of the physical, mental and emotional characteristics and limitations of both drivers and pedestrians; to develop an understanding of the cause of accidents; to impress students with the significance and reason of traffic laws; to teach the function and operation of the elements of the automobile and to train students to drive and qualify for a license.

There were a number of students who would have liked to take this course but many have only one free period. Several of the teachers and students have formed opinions regarding this new addition to our curriculum. Most of them are in favor of it; in fact, when asked their opinion all seemed to like the idea.

SCHOOL WELCOMES NEW PUPILS

Many new students have entered ACS this year and we wish them all the best of luck.

Margaret Howard, a Junior, has come here from Lockport.

Doris Burdick, a Freshman, is from Troupsburg. Doris was a former Andover student who left in 1946. Clayton Burdick, a Junior, is also from Troupsburg.

Janice Hall, a Freshman, has come to Andover from Franklin Academy, Malone, N. Y.

Myrtle Sabin, from Canisteo is now a Freshman in ACS.

Kathleen Bell from Bliss, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Bell, is now a resident of Andover and is in the Freshman home room.

Eunice Hall, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell Hall formerly of Wellsville, is now a Sophomore in ACS.

Danjaan Crandall, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Wilkins who came to Andover from Allentown is attending ACS as a Freshman.

Edgar Silsby of Independence Hill was formerly of Whitesville. He is now a seventh grade student.

Donald Burdick, formerly of Troupsburg, is now in the third grade.

Henry Hornbeck, who is now in grade one, was born in Buffalo and later moved to Elmira. From there he came to ACS.

Fred Hornbeck and James Frazer are new students in the third grade.

Bernadine Hollenbeck from Elba has also enrolled in the third grade.

Delores Hall from Constable, N. Y. is a new student in the fourth grade and Virginia Sotore, from Addison is a new pupil in the second grade.

Raymond Hoffman, now of Andover is also a new student in the second grade.

Carl Feenaughty from Greenwood and Lawrence Hurlburt of Whitehaven, Tenn., are new members of the eighth grade. BW

Erie Wins Award

Cleveland, Sept. 15. — Erie Railroad's 1947 annual report will be awarded a bronze "Oscar of Industry" as the best in the central eastern rails industry, R. E. Woodruff, president was notified today by the publishers of Financial World Magazine. Presentation of the trophy will be made at an awards banquet at the Pennsylvania Hotel in New York, October 21, attended by 1,000 business leaders.

Runner-up to the Erie annual report was that of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad while third place went to Reading Co. More than 4,000 annual reports were submitted in the Financial World's eighth annual survey. These were judged in 100 classifications for "best of industry" awards.

Fair Warning

Two trucks met on a country road just wide enough for one. Truck Driver No. 1, a scrawny, frail little man, leaned out of his cab. "Turn out, you," he shouted. "If ya don't, I'll do to you what I did to the last guy who wouldn't turn out for me."

Two-hundred-pound, muscular Driver No. 2, not caring to have trouble, pulled out. But as the other truck rumbled by, he yelled "What'd y do to that other guy?"

"Turned out for him," said No. 1.

Not Printable

Bill, the foreman, went to the railway office to report an accident on the line. He was handed a form to fill up, and got on first rate until he came to the space for "Remarks."

"What's the matter, Bill?" asked the clerk.

"Well, you see," said Bill, "It was Pat Murphy's big toe as was hit wid the hammer, and it would not luk well for me to write down the remarks Pat Murphy made."

Many Foods Cheaper

Believe it or not, many foods are selling for less than they were last year, according to marketing experts at Cornell. Better make a note of the cheaper foods and serve them often—cabbage iceberg lettuce, onions, are selling in the western part of New York at prices much below those of last year. Peaches, McIntosh and Wealthy apples also are selling for somewhat less than a year ago.

A Lesson In Food Habits

If your child is perfectly healthy, he will learn to eat what is put before him, according to an article in "What's New in Home Economics." So don't fuss and try to "tempt his appetite" when Johnny refuses to eat. Children have to learn to like different foods just as they learn to walk read and write, according to the article, which says, "Children have starved to death—but not in this country. Your child won't starve if you let him go without food until he is hungry enough to eat what you put before him."

Flower Baths

Some startling methods or reviving wilted carnations and gardenias came recently from a visitor from Hawaii. She says to pour hot water—yes, hot water—over wilted carnations, wrap them in a towel and place them in a refrigerator.

For limp gardenias, she advises trimming the brown edges off with scissors and placing them face down in a bowl of cold water. If it works in Homolula, why not in the USA?

Charles W. Drew, 85, of Cuba, Sept. 3. A son survives.

Bert E. Bracy, 70, of Bolivar, Sept. 8. His wife and a son survive.

Mrs. Lily Richards, 87, of Belfast, Sept. 9. Six sons and two daughters survive.

James A. Stout, 93, of Willing, Sept. 10. Two sons survive.

Mrs. Editha Wilcox, Bolivar, Sept. 12. Three sons and two daughters survive.

Mrs. Fred Costello, 46, Yorks Corners, Sept. 12. Her husband, two sons, two daughters, four brothers and a sister survive.

Robert L. Baker, 54, Wellsville, Sept. 13. His wife, a son and four sisters survive.

"I'm surprised that your mother agreed to your marrying Bill when she dislikes him so."

"Well, she said that she just wants to be his mother-in-law for a while."

Behind the Movie Sets

with Buddy Mason

"By selective breeding, I've developed a strain of the biggest, healthiest sewer rats in America!

To most stock breeders, breeding two-header calves or cats with six tails would make better sense, but to Lionel Comport and his son, Lionel Jr., this is a profitable phase of their business. The Comports furnish and train much of the animal stock that is used in pictures. When you see a barnyard in a movie it is more than likely that he animal actors were furnished by the Comports.

They supply bulls that will chase people, bears that attack actors and dogs that bite postmen. These are not unusual feats for the kind of animals mentioned, but the bulls are trained to catch up with a man, then nudge him gently so he can take his own fall. The bears are trained wrestling bears and the dogs bite carefully on a padded leg.

Everything from pigeons to Brahma bulls are trained on the Comport Ranch. One of their star actresses is a Guernsey cow named Fanny, who moos on cue and will lick any actors hand like a dog. She'll sit down when you try to milk her if she gets the right cue, Or kick over a milk pail at a signal. Many cows can do these things without being encouraged to do so, but never at the right time.

With a picture company waiting and a crew of a hundred or more highly paid technicians cooling their heels, it's very costly to wait while a temperamental cow decides on whether or not to do the right thing. That's why the Comport cow is such a valuable actress. Fanny is a joy to the production budget. Far from being annoyed by the crowd of moviemakers, she is at her best when she has a large audience. Both Comports claim that she has more ham in her than any of their trained pigs.

And speaking of trained pork chops on the hoof, a major problem of the Comports is the training of little pigs. A studio will want a litter of little pigs that will work nicely with humans, for a certain date; then upsets in production schedules will make them postpone shooting the sequence in which they work for a month or so. The piglets can't be induced to stop growing meanwhile, and a whole new litter has to be trained.

In "The Man Eaters of Kumaong" a 600-pound boar is chased by a tiger. A wire netting separated the tiger from the boar, but this didn't make the 600 pounds of porcine dynamite any happier than if the netting were not there. In his excitement at seeing the tiger he took off for distant parts. The fact that cameras, lights, and sound equipment were in his way made no difference to the boar. It is notable that employees of General Service studio now shudder at the sight of a slice of ham.

Lionel Jr. claims that the two animals hardest to train are chickens and house cats. The chickens are just "plain dumb" and the cats are "just too darned independent." However, a can of salmon or a little fish oil work wonders with the feline actors. If they miss one feeding you can hold them behind the cameras, open a can of fish and place it out of scene in the direction you wish them to go, and the rest is simple. Just start your cameras, release your cat, and he'll head straight for the fish.

A dab of fish oil placed on the dress of an actress will get a temperatmental tabby into her lap and fish oil on a leading man's trousers cuff will induce a cat to follow him like a dog.

The cutest member of the Comport menage is a six-week-old cub bear called Teddy, who scampers around the place wrestling with anything that will not run from it. The dogs enjoy tusseling with Teddy but the pigs just can't seem to get into the spirit of his playful wrestling. Teddy seems to sense that he can create the most commotion in the pig pen, so every time he is let out he makes a beeline for the sty to ruffle the dignity of the porkers. Being a character in his own right, Teddy rates a story of his own. We'll meet him again in another column.

Oh yes! I almost forgot the sewer rats. They have their own special place in filmdom. That place is usually a horror picture basement, a dungeon or the Paris sewers which enjoyed a vogue as backgrounds in many recent spy pictures. They are used mainly as set dressing to create atmosphere, and are not to be confused with the whiskered rats who are always filled full of lead in the final reel of a "horse opera."
