Harvest Festival at Alfred Ag-Tech

The second annual harvest festival of the New York State Agricultural and Technical Institute at Alfred University will be held November 10th through 12th.

Wednesday, November 10th, the floriculture department of the Institute directed by Vincent Smith, will act as hosts to members of the Western New York State section of the Florists Telegraph Delivery. A featured portion of the day's program will be a business clinic for floriculture students and FTD members.

Thursday, November 11th, will be Parents Day. Exhibits, prepared by the various departments of the Institute, will be open the entire day. A tea for parents will be held in the afternoon. The dormitories, fraternities, sororities, and student lounge will be open to the parents during the afternoon. Also, Thursday will feature a FTD design school to which only floriculture students and florists will be admitted.

Friday, November 12th, the Institute will play hosts to high school students and alumni. Exhibits will be open, as well as the living centers. A luncheon at noon and tea dance from 3-5 are planned for the day's guests. The activities for the three days will culminate in a dance to be held from 9-2, Friday evening, in the University gymnasium.

September Butterfat Production Report Is Announced

Only one dairy averaged above 40 pounds butterfat for the month of September in the Andover Division of the Allegany County D. H. I. A., according to reports filed with the county association. This 26-cow dairy, owned by Arling Cobb of Whitesville, produced an average of 1,162 pounds milk and 41.5 butterfat per cow, for the 30-day month.

Other high dairies included the Taylor & Northrup, L. G. Tucker, Lewis Waters, Edward Brands and Lawrence Perkins.

From 31 cows which finished 305 day lactation periods, 14 produced enough to make the honor roll. These include:
