Shaking hands across the bloody chasm—the Greeley party on the record—official statement of two Democratic Senators and six Democratic Members of the House.

The ultimate purpose of the "new and all-powerful" party, made up of the ruins of the existing organizations, is frankly stated by Senators Frank P. Blair and T. F. Bayard, and their Democratic associates, Hon. S. S. Cox, Hon. James B. Buck, Hon. P. Van Trump, Hon. A. M. Waddell, Hon. J. C. Robinson, and Hon. J. M. Hanks, over their own signatures, in their minority report, as members of the Ku-Klux Committee, at the close of the last session of Congress. On page five hundred and twenty seven, (527) in presenting "the views of the minority," they use the following words, copied verbatim, viz: "But while the negroes of the South have position and power in the administration of public affairs now, who can say, who can look into the future so clearly as to enable him to say how long this unnatural state of things will last. No one is so precipitant as to be able to fix the period of its duration; but that it must end somehow, and at some time not in the distant future, no philosophical thinker will doubt. It is altogether to abnormal for much opposition to the instinctive feeling, some will say, prejudices, of the white race, to endure beyond the peculiar condition of popular opinion, brought about by a war prosecuted in the end for freedom, if not the enfranchisement of the negro. Gradually, in time, and under a change of circumstances, this exceptional state of the popular mind will wear out and pass away, and public opinion will vibrate back to its old condition, as it existed prior to the disturbing influence of the war. This will be brought about by one of two things: either by a rupture of the Government itself, or the springing up of some new and all-powerful party out of the ruins of the existing political organizations. When either of these two things shall occur, and God grant it may not be the case, it will be the political death of the negro on this continent. So far as relates to his future condition as he commingled with the whites of the Union, he will be in a worse position than he was in a state of slavery, for the inevitable tendency of the white race to segregate him from the whites, and if not transported to some foreign country, he will slowly but surely sink like the aborigines, among us, like that of the Indians, will be known no more forever."

They say, that in the Democratic Liberal party, for they have put in nomination for Congressman at Large in this State one of the authors of the above, S. S. Cox, and every one of those who signed that report, only last winter, are leaders in this coalition party; therefore, they say "the negro of the South have position and power in the Administration of public affairs now." But that it might end somehow, and at some time not in the distant future, no philosophical thinker will doubt. Yes, it must end some how, they say, and that the time is not in the distant future. Hence, in their opinion, it must be near at hand. They then state frankly how it will be brought about. We quote again their own words: "This will be brought about by one of two things; either by the rupture of the Government itself, or the springing up of some new and all-powerful party out of the ruins of the existing political organization." They then say, "When either of these two things shall occur," (here they take breath to utter a prayer, asking "God to grant that it may not be the first," and proceed.) "It will be the political death of the negro on this continent!" What will be his political death? Clearly "the springing up and success of this new and all-powerful party," with Horace Greeley at its head. When this shall occur they declare that "he (the negro) will be in a worse condition than he was in a state of slavery." Ominous words, coming as they do from the supporters of this "new party organization." But they go on and declare that it is not driven from the country, or transported beyond the seas, "he will slowly but surely pass away like the aborigines, and his place among us, like that of the Indians, will be known no more forever." This is an official statement of what the instigators and supporters of the Greeley movement expect should they succeed in electing him to the Presidency and again coming into power.

Reader do you wish to support a man of such principles for the first office in State and Nation, will you allow yourselves to be led astray in a more inaugurated as it was at Cincinnati, and again fixed at Baltimore? We think not.

Greeley and Arkansas.

Mr. Greeley continues to harp upon the state of things in Arkansas, where a portion of the late rebels are still disfranchised by local laws. The Republican party of the nation is nowise responsible for that disfranchisement, and if it is in conflict with the laws of Congress, it will be removed as soon as a test case is made. But is not "local self government" the chief plank in the Cincinnati Platform? And if the people of Arkansas believe that treason and rebellion are crimes of sufficient magnitude to merit disfranchisement, have they not the right, according to the present doctrine of Greeley, to inflict that punishment?—What business is it to Greeley or any body else outside of the State? Are not the people to manage these matters their own way? And if the general government should step in and interfere, would it not be a violation of the great principle of the Liberal Platform? The truth is, that "local self government" is a good thing when it permits the bloody Ku-Klux to ply his infernal trade and go unpunished of justice; but a bad thing when it happens to disfranchise rebels and traitors.

As we stated above, the condition of things in Arkansas is the result of the character of her own Constitution. Neither President Grant's Administration nor Congress has any thing whatever to do with it. The accusation against Gen. Grant that he is responsible for such a wrong, is neither honest nor honorable; and the assertion that such "iniquities" are "hiding from sight all over the South," is an insult to the intelligence of the audience he addresses.

The Cuba Herald asked the question: "Is it safe to support for such important offices as Governor or Representative at Large men cherishing the views about disunion avowed by Gen. Dix and Lyman Tremain in the winter of 1860-61?"

Is it safe to support S. S. Cox after he has declared himself so plainly a Southern rebel in the Ku-Klux report, an extract of which we publish on our second page? Mr. Cox has not taken back one word of his principles, while Gen. Dix's has proved him self a true and loyal man. Which Mr. Herald is the safest for the people to support?

According to the Cincinnati Gazette just before Mr. Greeley delivered his speech at Pittsburgh, he was approached by Governor Randolph, who suggested to him the object to which he should refer. He listened to him for some time, and finally, pulling his hat over his eyes, said: "I will be— I don't know my opinion better than any one else." He then delivered the speech which has dashed to the ground the hopes of the supporters through the North.

Our Missouri editor says of another, that this man would do for swains to
