Friendship Girl State Winner in 4-H Contest

Barbara Baker of Friendship R. D. 1, has been named New York State winner in the 4-H Club Garden Contest, Prof. Albert Hoefer, State 4-H Club Leader has announced. She has been awarded an all-expense trip to the National Club Congress in Chicago Nov. 28 to Dec. 2 and her records have been sent to Chicago to compete for one of eight $200 scholarships offered by the Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing Co., of Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

Barbara, aged 16 4-H club member for 8 years, is a senior in the Friendship Central School and lives on a 125 acre farm. She has been president of her club, secretary of the county 4-H council and a club leader for two years.

Barbara's garden project honors are the result of participation in 22 judging contests, three showmanship contests and eight individual demonstrations. She was state winner in the Home Garden contest, receiving a $25 saving bond as reward.

In eight years she has increased her garden from a 5 by 10 foot plot with five kinds of vegetables and five varieties, to a garden 165 by 65 feet with 30 kinds and 55 varieties. She has given seven radio talks, some on gardening, and is on the executive committee of the State Junior Vegetables and Potato Growers Association. Barbara has assisted with the 4-H vegetable exhibit at the county fair for six years. In 1946 she attended the National Junior Vegetable Growers meeting in Boston.

Barbara also has taken projects in foods, dairy, clothing room improvement and forestry. She has canned 1,105 quarts of produce and has made 21 garments. She was instrumental in starting the county 4-H council in her county.

Research Shows Contour Plots Boost Yields

Apart from saving soil and water, just how much difference does planting on the contour make compared with planting up-and-down hill?

Results obtained from the same crops planted both ways in the same years point to the value of the contour method. The tests were made by the Soil Conservation Experiment Station at Marcellus, N. Y., in cooperation with Cornell's Agricultural Experiment Station.

In 1943 the water and soil saved by contouring boosted yields of mature, shelled corn from 32 bushels to more than 56 bushels per acre. In 1946, potato yields were increased from 304 bushels to 361 bushels an acre, an increase of 19 per cent. Both oats and wheat were studied in 1948, with the following results: Oats planted on the contour averaged 49 bushels an acre and those on the slope about 45 bushels an acre.

The study brought out another fact. On the six plots (3 on contour and 3 up-and-down) yield studies were made at three different points on each plot—at the top, in the middle, and at the bottom. It was found that yields at the bottom were higher than at the top or middle of each plot. As a rule, the plots up-and-down the hill also showed the greatest yield differences top and bottom, indicating that more soil and water had come downhill.

Wheat yields followed the same pattern. On the contour the plots averaged nearly 40 bushels an acre, while up-and-down plots returned less than 34 bushels an acre.

MEAL OF THE WEEK

By MARY LEE TAYLOR

Roast Pork or Veal
Baked Potatoes
Brown Gravy
Green Beans
Apple and Celery Salad
Hot Rolls
Butter or Margarine
Pumpkin Pie
(Recipe below)

NOTE: Checked items (meat of the week specials) in ad will make this meal.

Pumpkin Pie

¼ cup brown sugar
1 tablespoon flour
½ teaspoon salt
2¼ teaspoons pumpkin pie spice*
1½ cups pumpkin, cooked or canned
1½ cups Pet Milk
1 slightly beaten egg
2 tablespoons dark molasses

Turn on oven; set at very hot (450° F.). Mix brown sugar, flour, salt and spice. Stir in pumpkin, milk, egg and molasses. Pour into deep 9-inch pie pan lined with unbaked pastry. Bake 15 minutes, then reduce heat to slow (325° F.) and bake about 40 minutes, or until firm.

★A mixture of 1 teasp. cinnamon, ¼ teasp. cloves and ½ teasp. each of nutmeg and ginger can replace pumpkin pie spice.
