CANISTEO REDSKINS TRIUMPH OVER PANTHERS 39-32

The Andover Panthers lost their second game of the season Tuesday, November 23rd on the home court, this time to Canisteo by a 39-32 score.

The game was closely refereed by Dewey and Swift who called a total of 40 personal fouls, 25 against Andover and 15 against Canisteo. Both teams fumbled at the foul line. Canisteo made only nine out of 30 tries while the locals garnered six out of 17 shots.

In the third quarter Andover came from behind to tie the game 24-24 but then Canisteo took the lead and held it to the end of the game. Only once more did the locals threaten, that being late in the fourth quarter when they pulled within six points of Canisteo. However, time ran out before the locals could do any further scoring.

Tom Terry of Canisteo was the high scorer of the game with 18 points while Burdick of Canisteo had nine points. Bob Baker led Andover scorers with ten points and was closely followed by Don Mulconery and Dick Lynch with six points each.

HUNTERS OF A.C.S.

While needing something to do in study hall the other day I heard that there were many fortunate A. C. S. students who managed to get deer.

One of these lucky hunters is Marlin Mather, who must have been befriended by "Lady Luck" as he got his deer on the first day of the hunting season. At 10 minutes of 8 he blasted away at a 120 pound doe in Railroad Valley near Green's and dropped the deer with one shot in the back.

Another fortunate hunter is Don Mulconery, who stalked a 75 pound doe and sent the animal to its doom at 10:30 Wednesday morning, near Hartsville.

Among the successful hunters is Dick Hancock who, at 25 minutes before 5 on the first day, encountered a 150 pound doe, which he promptly shot. This lucky accident happened on Pingrey Hill.

Clyde Jackson, not to be outdone, met a doe weighing well over 100 pounds, which he staggered with a blast from the shotgun. Another shot followed and finally the deer had to give in to Clyde's iron will.

Another doe met its doom when by chance it came past Joe Smith's line of vision. The deer was dropped with two shots. Joe got the large doe on Pingrey Hill.

Dale Green, a freshman, dropped a 125 pound buck in back of the Martin Lynch place at about a quarter of 5 on the 24th. I presume the Green family will now have buck burgers galore.

Don Greenan, also a freshman, shot a big 8 point buck near his home.

[illegible] Baker shot a 125 pound [illegible] near Don Greenan's home.

[illegible] the students were not [illegible] hunters, for Mr. [illegible], the teacher, got [illegible] every year the [illegible] brought [illegible] through [illegible] Mewing

ARTISTS DEVELOP INDIVIDUAL ART PROJECTS

This week we find that several of our youthful artists are displaying their skill in designing and making things of interest to themselves. Several such artists are:

Bruce Nye and Wayne Sherwood who are redesigning the town and vicinity of Andover into a more modernized town.

Marlin Mather who is showing his skill in designing his own Christmas cards.

Mary Margaret Dean who is making a Babushka; (don't get excited, it's only a woman's head scarf.)

Ruth Curry who is making a blue lunch cloth and six matching napkins with pink apple blossoms.

LeRoy Caple who is going to undertake to design and make a model design of a play, "The Long Voyage Home", which he read in English. (Wayne Sherwood is going to design the costumes.)

Kenneth Nye assisted by Barnett Bostick who will make a mural for the art room.

WILDCATS DOWN CANISTEO J. V.'s

The Andover J. V.'s coasted to their second triumph of the season Tuesday, Nov. 23rd on the Andover court when they conquered the Canisteo junior varsity 41-29.

The locals opened up strong in the first quarter and at one point held a 10-0 lead which they never relinquished. Although the Canisteo team was taller, the Wildcats made up for that by effective passwork and accurate shooting. For the first time this season many of the reserves saw action.

The team was again paced in scoring by Vic Daley with 13 points. Jack Wheaton came through with seven points while Charlie Snyder dumped in three baskets for a total of six points.

THE ADVENTURES OF HARVEY

We are now back in full swing after our brief vacation and Harvey is, as usual, his busy little self.

After being folded up in a stuffy Latin book for four and a half days Harvey nearly knocked me over in his haste to get out. Harvey was angry with me for not taking him on the vacation and he wouldn't accept the excuse that I had forgotten him. He said if he had starved to death it would have been my fault.

All the time Harvey had been scolding me we were walking toward the drinking fountain to get a drink before reporting to our home-room. After Harvey had his drink, it rather cooled his temper and he started getting in trouble.

First he snitched Aquinas Lynch's daily letter to Don Scott in which she reports her daily actions and the local gossip. Harvey couldn't read it so he gave it to Don Mulconery who was busy making eyes at Peggy Howard and he wasn't a bit interested.

The next person who fell heir to his pranks was Annabell O'Dell and all because she refused to give him any of her school pictures. He couldn't understand why she had to give them all away and not save him any. She even gave her big one to Ralph Howard.

Mary Brown had just gotten her locker open, after struggling with it for about five minutes, when Harvey came up behind her and closed it. She counted to ten very slowly but it still didn't do any good. Her temper was still simmering so she socked him a hard right in the eye. This should have taught him a lesson even though it didn't.

At 11:15, when English class started, Harvey dashed to the window of the English room to see if the two deer he had seen last week were still there, but all to no avail. Of course he wished every hunter the best of luck during deer season but he hopes no one shot the two that were up on the hill back of Mary Alice Horan's house. Maybe they did disturb the class but it was fun to watch them romping and playing like two happy children.

Harvey next asked Louise O'Dell why she enjoyed herself so much at the dance at Arkport. Then we told him that he was getting quite inquisitive and that it was none of his business.

He walked around the halls for awhile and then asked if he was in a girl's school. He'd been stepped on and kicked by girls with no boys in sight. This was a result of deer season.

As soon as Harvey saw Norma Perry "digging" several things from her locker he ran up and asked about her and Merl Howard. She just gave us that sly look and I think even Harvey understood.

As we went "tripping" along the hall we looked down and down and down until we finally came face to face with Evan

Dolan who now insists he's a rod tall. Harvey just smiled and said that Evan must have miscalculated.

"Ow! Help! Help! Mary, come quick! Get these people off of me!" By this time poor Harvey was screaming for all he was worth. He had just fallen on an airplane someone had dropped and was more or less being stampeded. Poor Harvey, he just can't seem to hold his own against all these people running around between classes.

"What's going on in there? Are you supposed to be working?" asked Harvey as we passed the bookkeeping room. We just quietly explained to him that Don Mulconery is taking bookkeeping now and the girls just can't seem to keep their minds on their work.

Harvey wanted me to thank Mary Ellen Connor for writing all about his adventures for us all to enjoy last week. He knows that she really enjoys doing it and considers it no extra bother. His only advice to her is to be careful before he starts "picking" on her.

Another day in the life of Harvey is almost over and, as I have a date to stay with children, I'll tuck Harvey in my Latin book once more and get ready to go.

HARVEY, JR., VISITS GRADES

Few people knew it but Harvey Jr., has been around here for some time, picking up details here and there. He just finished his training and has become one of the A. C. S. excellant reporters.

This week Harvey Jr., visited many of the progressing grades. As he entered the first grade, taught by Mrs. Hall, everyone of the pupils were present, and had been for two days. Many of the children were reading from their books called "We Work and Play" and we're doing fine.

So Harvey Jr., moved around the room and began talking with some of the pupils. "What's your name little boy?" "Robert Brown and I have a new baby sister." "Well, isn't that fine, and what's her name?" "Arlene."

"What's your name little girl?" "Vera Elliott." "Do you have a new sister, too?" 'Yes, Linda Lou." "Well how I'd ever guess it?" "What did you boys do over Thanksgiving vacation?" "You mean us?" "Yes boys, what are your names?" "Larry Tanner and Paul Winchell" "We celebrated our birthdays during November, and we are learning a few additional facts." "Smart Marjorie Eccleston had 100 on every page in her reading booklet."

"Well children, I must be moving on" Entering Mrs. Connor's first grade, Harvey Jr. discovers that many of the pupils went away during Thanksgiving vacation. Each took his turn telling Harvey Jr., where he went. Let's join in. We hear Beth Sootheran visited Niagara Falls, Ontario. Ellen Balcom visited in Angelica and Bill Moag spent his vacation in Canandaigua.

As Harvey Jr., leaves he notices Shirley Snyder is back to school after several days' illness.

In the third grade taught by Miss Schermerhorn, Harvey Jr., noted several absentees: Bruce Lehman, Richard Riffenberg, Earl Eccleston and Lenora Baker.

Harvey Jr., enters kindergarten. "Hello, Mrs. Corwin, where is Mrs. Wolfe?" "Oh, she is absent and I'm substituting." "Oh I see, do you have any news?" "No, Harvey only, Lois Reil has returned after several days' illness." "Thank you, teacher, now I'll visit the fourth grade" "Hello Mrs. Helmer, may I come in?" "Yes Harvey Jr.," "I see the children have been making Indian head covers for spelling and a pilgrim scene to place on the black board." "Yes, Harvey they do fine and we are tied in a spelling contest."

Harvey enters second grade. "I see Carol Ryan is absent." "Yes". "We haven't much news Harvey but many of the children's fathers killed deer." "Whose?" "Judy Baker's, Cordelia O'Dell's, Robert Winchell's, Teddy Deming's, Herman Grover's and Wrexia Balcom's.

Then we find Harvey Jr., visiting several other grades but does not stop to talk, because it is getting late.

However, he reported that in Mrs. Schwarzenbach's sixth grade the pupils are filling a Red Cross box to send across and that Richard Smith of the fourth grade has pneumonia.

Harvey also mentioned that Miss Church's fifth and sixth grades are having a spelling contest with Miss Baker's fourth grade and that the fifth and sixth are still ahead.

Since Harvey Jr., visited Mr. Carmody last he saw the eighth graders filling a Red Cross box and heard they had elected a new secretary-treasurer, Marian Milligan in place of Wilda Mascho.

Well Harvey Jr., did get the news in on the deadline.
