November Milk to Bring Uniform Price of $5.52

Dairy farmers will be paid a uniform price of $5.52 a hundredweight for their November deliveries to pool-approved plants in the New York milkshed, it is announced by Dr. C. J. Blanford, Market Administrator of the New York metropolitan milk marketing area. The uniform price in November, 1947, was $5.28 per hundredweight.

At the same time, Dr. Blanford announced that the producer butterfat differential for November would be 5.4 cents for each tenth of a pound of fat above or below the 3.5 percent standard.

For the 14th consecutive month, November consumption of fluid milk in the marketing area —New York City and the counties of Nassau, Suffok and Westchester—was below the same month a year ago. The drop of 1.44 percent represented a decline of 3,656,864 pounds. Sales of fluid milk in the marketing area in November, 1947, were 254,103,712 pounds, compared with 250,446,848 pounds last month.

The total farm value of last month's production is $21,421,-296.38, made up of $20,711,800.-05 at the uniform price, and $709,496.33 in butterfat and location premiums.

Young Father: "He says more things that sound swell and mean nothing than any other human being I ever saw."

Salvation Army Launches Annual Christmas Appeal

Christmas trees — Christmas presents — Christmas dinner — Christmas cheer — These will bring to many both spiritual and material happiness this year. In the excitement and hurry of the festive season however, there are some not so fortunate. It is to these who will not share the mirth, nor feel the glow of friendship, or experience the happiness of the Christmas season, that The Salvation Army goes with its message of hope and cheer.

During the past week The Salvation Army has been mailing the annual appeal letters to their many friends in this community. The money raised in this effort will be used by The Salvation Army to bring Christmas cheer to those in need. Every one is urged to give their full support to this worthwhile effort.

There are children who need clothing and toys—there are the sick to be visited and given a Sunshine basket—there are the hungry to be fed—there are those who are cold, and should receive fuel to keep them warm —there are the aged to be remembered in behalf of families long broken up. Over 80 years of experience has given The Salvation Army the "know-how", and those in need look to The Army for their Christmas cheer.

The public is urged to help The Salvation Army in this annual appeal. Your donation will go a long way to make this Christmas season one long to be remembered.

Your donation should be sent direct to the local treasurer, A. D. Fuller, at the Andover National Bank. All checks should be made out either to the treasurer, or The Salvation Army, Inc.

Greatness

No man is greater—than his prejudices will permit him to become—than his ability to think for himself—than his character, regardless of his reputation or his artificially created prestige—than his power to discount his own estimate of himself.

"I think I'll propose my wife for Congresswoman."

"Why?"

"Because she's so good at introducing new bills into the house."

Employer, to newly hired steno: "Now I hope you understand the importance of punctuation?"

Steno: "Oh, yes, indeed. I always get to work on time."

WELLSVILLE, NEW YORK

MARY McANDREW Says:

Dear ex-GI Joe:

Remember all the letters you received from the ones at home when you were over there? Remember how good it seemed to know they thought of you and that they wanted you to hurry home?

When you were discouraged those letters meant so much.—They were dirty and torn and almost illigible from having been read countless times. Even though you knew them by heart you still read them by the flickering light of your candle stub as it burned slowly away in your foxhole. You showed those letters to your buddies to help ease the monotony and tension. As they read them, tears came to their eyes because they, too, were lonely. In the night they would cry to themselves hoping no one would hear them. You understood that they wanted to get away from the service, wanted to be home.

After the battle you were hungry and tired. You drank from pools of muddy water and you slept in mud and slime. Your heart and brain were so weakened by battle fatigue—a word that meant you were tired—but you knew it was more than that.

While sleeping you dreamed of dying buddies, burning tanks, of the aroma of burning flesh and of discerping another man's body with a bayonet.

The war is over now. The many fears and tears have been forgotten. The heartaches have ceased.

They no longer want the democracy you fought for. No longer do they care to be free to speak their thoughts and to think for themselves. They covet Russia's way of life; her way of government.

The propagandists tell us that Russia is a grand country. Under the Soviet system, we should be much happier and much more prosperous.

Listen, chum! I want to tell you a few facts about Russia.

In Russia, workers are not free to change jobs. They find one and stick to it. Here in America if we find a chance to work for more money and shorter hours we are free to change. In Soviet Russia there are more than 20,000,000 slaves starving in her vast concentration camps. Why are they being punished? Some of them are related to a fugitive, a few dared to go to church after they had been forbidden to do so. Or maybe some of them were late for work. Sounds incredible, doesn't it?

Here in America we are permitted to travel from one state to another. Russia's people are not allowed to, but then very few of them are financially able.

Be honest with yourself, stranger. If you thoroughly understood the suffering the Russian people must endure you wouldn't be welcoming communism at the front door and throwing democracy out the window.

Now that you have considered the facts, don't you think America is a pretty swell place? We have all kinds of freedom here. Our ancestors purchased these freedoms for us by the sweat of their brows, by starvation, and by the loss of their own warm blood. Their only request was that we defend these freedoms. Was that too much for them to ask?

Expensive Meat

Two Essex county men recently were fined a total of $900 besides losing their high-power Savage rifle in a deer jack-lighting case.

Quenched His Thirst

"I wouldn't drink out of that cup if I were you," said the little boy at the pump. "That is Bessie's cup and she has just been drinking out of it."

"Oh," said the gay young man cup. "I don't mind. I was just ordered to drink out of Bessie's cup. Who is Bessie, your sister?"

"No; my dog."
