Original Poetry.

The following poem, written by A. Cunningham, was read by him at the Presbyterian Church on Christmas Eve:

OUR CHRISTMAS TREE.

Observe our pretty Christmas tree,
Burdens with presents rare and free,
From parents, teachers, lovers, friends,
There's no profane there's no scene and They're pretty books, sweet-stanzas
For little girls and little boys;
See every branch from end to end,
How charming presents made them
end,
As if by mystery's magic laws,
Who up and captured Santa-Claus,
To fill the youths' and maidens' hoise;
Still in his magic order rooking,
There's presents too for bashful youths,
From blushing Sylvias, Lillies, Ruths,
But blushing from the youth may turn,
But never will his presents part.
