A bulletin from veterinary medical authorities cautions that the lines and tanks occasionally spring leaks, leaving pools of oil, and cattle may consume enough of it to be fatally poisoned.

"The Man With a Shovel" Writes Wandering Willie

Andover, N. Y., March 21, 1950

Dear Wandering Willie:

It has been some time since I have written to you, but after reading your column for the past few months, I decided that it needs a little bolstering, and brother, I do mean bolstering. So prepare to be bolstered, Billie.

When you wrote that corny column about your so called trip up East Valley looking for an Xmas tree, I didn't say a word. I figured that if you were too tight to give "Art" Genung $15 for a tree delivered right to your front door, you ought to get stuck.

I also kept my mouth shut when you raved on about other things such as the bad winters that we have in Andover, the price of potatoes 40 years ago when you were a boy, your comments about the Christmas decorations last year (when you gave all of the credit to Burgett and Boyd, when it should have gone to the president of the Exchange Club), and last but not least that sorry bit of journalism that you ran last week entitled "Why Don't People Shovel Their Sidewalks." That very same week a person couldn't have gotten thru the snow to your front door unless they were riding a bulldozer. Through all of the morbid reading I kept quiet and said nothing, but last week when you inserted that flimsy paragraph in your column about the minstrel show, I decided right then and there it was time to do some popping off.

If you were going to give us a little space and mention the show, why didn't you tell the people a little bit about it, or to use your phrase "hand it out with both hands instead of just one." And let me tell you right now, Willie, it takes a darned good man to hand it out with both hands, and make it stick.

Why didn't you tell the people that Big Ding Baker was going to sing a little number ertitled "Come Wallow Up Duffy Hollow With Me"?

You didn't even take the space to mention that Phil Spitalney Holden and his all-girl chorus would be there or that Pauline "wrong note" Yorton would be the accompanist. You might have even made note of the fact that we have got a home grown quartet that is going to appear for us under the direction of Porter Richardson and Fay Brown. These boys are good and should have rated at least two lines in your moth-eaten column.

We also are proud of the fact that Fay Boyd and Jim Kessler are going to render a jew's harp duet, but evidently that doesn't mean anything to you or you would have said something about it.

I could go on for page after page telling you about the whole show, but I think that I will just let you sweat it out. After all, you are getting paid for writing a column and I'm not. But, Willie, as a personal favor to me, before you mention the minstrel show again, drop up to school any Friday night and flash your press card. We will let you into the rehearsals and then you will really have something to write about. If you don't happen to have a press card, just flash a five dollar bill and I will see that you get in.

Yours for a more intelligent column,

"The Man With a Shovel"

P.S.—I'll bet you that five dollar bill that Art Genung won't show up for the show.

Faculty and Legion Teams Triumph

The Andover High School faculty won the first of the three games last Wednesday night by trouncing the High School Wildcats 42 to 19. The faculty took an early lead and were never in trouble.

The second game which proved to be the best game of the evening matched the Legion preliminary team against "Vic" Daley's "Marauders." The Legion won 56 to 45.

The game was nip and tuck all the way until the last five minutes when the Legion took command by tossing in five straight baskets to put the game on ice. George Joyce scored 13, Les Bohn and George Karcanes had 12 each for the Legion. "Vic" Daley and Jack Wheaton had 12 each for the "Marauders."

In the nightcap the Legion defeated the "Purple Hearts" 53 to 25. The Legion started out with a 20 point lead and the high school boys just couldn't get going.

The Legion's strong defense and backboard play held the "Purple Hearts" to only nine field goals. "Whitey" Gorsuch and "Dick" Lynch were high for the Legion with 13 and 14 points respectively and "Skeet" Milligan was high for the "Hearts" with seven points.

The Alfred Rod and Gun Club, oldest sportsmen's club in New York State, according to Clayt Seagers of the New York State Conservation Department, received honorable mention in the conservation project at the recent National Sportsmen's Show, reports Federation President Robert A. Reed of Belmont.

This is the first time an Allegany County Federation entry has been reported made and Mr. Reed, who submitted the entry, reports the certificate will be presented the Alfred Club at their April 13th dinner.

The contest is based on participation in four general groups of conservation with the Alfred club qualifying in all including: Having an incorporated club as member of the Allegany County Federation of Sportsmen's Clubs and for cooperation with Conservation agencies including; New York State Conservation Department, Division of Lands and Forests, Forest Practice Board, and Bureau of Game; Soil Conservation Service of U. S. D. A. and the Allegany County Soil Conservation District.

The second grouping with 100 percent participation by the Alfred club includes: 1. Fish and game distribution work. 2. Pheasant raising. 3. Club betterment. 4. Federation program work and 5. Sponsorship of Conservation Camp.

The third group includes benefits to the community including: 1. Having grounds open to the public. 2. No posting of Club property. 3. Holding of farmer sportsman meetings. 4. Making Club property available to Alfred University Conservation Club for study and meetings.

Commenting on the award, Mr. Reed reported "Other Clubs are doing excellent work and will give the Alfred Club a lot of competition this year. The Alfred Club has served as a stimulant to the county conservation program and due credit should be given them for their effort."

Mr. Reed asks Clubs planning an entry for the program for 1950 to make application at Belmont now to be sure of consideration.
