Agri. Field Day August 9 at the Belvidere Farms

On March 24th representatives from many farm organizations and groups met to formally set up a program and committees for the county-wide Field Day.

Temporary chairman, Robert Stowell of Belmont was elected permanent chairman of the committee with Hugh Chamberlain of Caneadea who will serve as vice chairman.

Among the farm groups who will combine their aid in putting on the one day show of educational and social activities are: the Extension services—Farm and Home Bureaus, 4-H, Production and Marketing Administration, Farm Home Administration, Production Credit Association, Allegany County Soil Conservation District, Dairymen's League, Breyer Ice Cream Company, Allegany County Farm Equipment Dealers, Vocational Agricultural and Home Economics Teachers, the Grange, G.L.F., Alfred Ag-Tech. and others.

Cecil Austin and sons, owners of the Belvidere farms gave their consent to have the Field Day at their farm on August 9 with August 10 as an alternate day in case of rain.

Preliminary plans for the day were discussed and programs were left to various committees for detailed work.

The day will be a family affair for social and educational purposes with recreation and events running continuous. A trade show and exhibits will be set up, crop trial plots will be established, forest practices will be demonstrated, farm machinery will be in operation, a farm pond and other soil conservation measures will be in actual construction and many other exhibits and events are planned to give a [illegible] of events for men, wo[illegible]d children.

Shrine Reminds Us It's Circus Time

Titantic Show Appearing at the Buffalo Memorial Auditorium, April 10th Through 15th.

Do you remember with nostalgia the days when the magic words "the circus is coming," spread like wild-fire among the kids in your town and set you up like little angels? For weeks you did the dishes and mowed the lawn without being told, even washing behind the ears.

Remember how you used to sneak out in the wee, chill hours of morning to watch the circus come in? Somehow in those days the elephants seemed bigger and the lions more ferocious.

And do you remember when the day arrived, scrubbed and shining in your best bibn' tucker you bounced along with your pa and ma, missing the cracks in the sidewalk for luck so's you'd get good seats?

Remember the mouth watering smell of fresh roasting peanuts and the joyous dance of red balloons, the squeal of elephants and the pungent smell of new sawdust?

And do you remember the thrill of horror at the lion that nearly got away, your side-splitting laughter at the clowns and how your heart pounded, your mouth going dry with fear at the death-defying leap of the trapeze artist?

The spine tingling circus memories of your childhood will confront you as you watch today's children being thrilled to the toes at one of the oldest forms of amusement in the world. Alfred M. Kramer, Illustrious Potentate and general chairman of the Shrine Circus of Buffalo, estimates that over 25,000 orphans, crippled children and underprivileged children of Western New York will be entertained at the circus this year. In addition to being picked up in buses, each busload under the watchful eye of a Shriner, the children will be given a lunch and a trip to the zoo. In the event of tummy aches among the small fry there will be nurses in attendance.

This will be the 16th year that the Shriners are playing "Daddy" and this year's entertainment promises to be the most suspenseful and exciting so far.

Soil Conservation Farmer Award Given By Hugh D. Chamberlain

The Allegany County Soil Conservation District will award annually the Hugh D. Chamberlain trophy to the farmer in the county making the greatest contribution to soil and water conservation, says Robert A. Reed, district conservationist of the Allegany County Soil Conservation District.

The trophy, donated by Mr. Chamberlain, will remain in the possession of the farmer for one year or until a new winner is selected. A certificate will also be presented to the winner each year which will remain in his possession. The trophy will be passed around until an individual has been awarded possession three times, after which it will become his permanent property.

Some of the work to be considered by the judges in selecting a winner will be his acceptance of a soil and water conservation program for his property including some or all of the following items: Contour strip cropping, woodland management, diversions, reforestation and farm ponds. In addition other work in conservation activities such as field days, meetings and demonstrations will help an individual boost his score.

The contest is open to anyone in Allegany county. Having done soil and water conservation work will just give added incentive toward the contest for most farmers, reports Mr. Reed.

For further details on the contest see your local Soil Conservation District Director, Arthur Genung, Andover; Clair Baker, Black Creek; H. D. Chamberlain, Caneadea; Leon Benjamin, Cuba; Lynn L. Watson, Belmont.
