LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE ALFRED, N. Y., Feb. 23, 1873. Mr. Editor:—You wish me to send you Alfred news, but how is any one to send news when there's nothing to send. I've nothing startling to communicate, for we're a quiet people here.

It has done nothing but rain for the last forty-eight hours, and the more we see of it, the more we are convinced that it should be under the necessity of using language that would be improper.

The Seventh-day Baptist quarterly meeting will continue at their church in this place, the attendance every evening being large. All who attend go to these different homes with their faith and strength in the most high renewed.

Many who, heretofore, have been wandering in the dark have, through Divine providence, become restored, and have come forward and earnestly asked the prayers of the church in their behalf, and have vowed before God to hereafter lead a Christian life.

M. A. Green has just finished buying another car-load of apples, which he takes to Philadelphia, and is now making the third car-load that he has bought in and shipped from this station.

O. H. Merit, Telegraph Operator at this place, has purchased the house and lot of W. D. Bardick, corner of Main and Erie streets, and is about to move in soon. Whether Mr. Bardick contemplates leaving the town or not I have not heard, but we hope that he will continue to reside with us.

The house occupied by Darius Satterlee, about three miles from Hornellsville, on the Airport road, was discovered to be on fire at about twelve o'clock Friday night last. The house with all the furniture, household goods, clothing and everything (with the exception of an organ which was taken out by some of the neighbors) were destroyed.

The fire was under such headway when discovered, that the inmates had close of time to save themselves. Mr. Satterlee, with the last year or less, always resided in this town, and has children living here now. He was a comparatively poor man with an invalid wife, and by this fire loses his little all.

He has the sympathy of his friends in this place, and a subscription for his benefit has been started at the post-office, and already amounts to quite a sum, almost every one giving freely.

Ed. N. Green has just completed a portrait, in crayon, of Mrs. Larned, a daughter of J. C. Burdick. It is a truthful likeness and a beautiful piece of workmanship. It can be seen for a few days at the Jewelry Store of J. C. Burdick.

POLITICAL CORRESPONDENCE HORNELL, N. Y., Feb. 23, 1873. Mr. Editor:—There was a great hullabaloo at our club room last night.

Another name is now added to the long list of those killed in the yard. Edward Scoville, a switchman who died with his father on River street, while engaged in coupling a "gondola" to a freight train, found himself unable to make the connection, and stepped out to signal the engineer, when he fell on to "gondola" and was crushed and injured. He fell under the car in such a way that one arm was crushed and injuries were inflicted on the back and spine that proved fatal.

The accident happened about 4 o'clock in the morning and he died between six and seven o'clock. He was about 25 years of age, married and had several children. He was the son of Mr. S. Scoville who lives on River street, just over the bridge. (Hornellville Tribune.)

ATTENDED MURDER BY POISON.—Last Thursday afternoon our village was considerably excited by the arrival on train 13, W. Bartlett, conductor, of a middle aged man, supposed to be on the point of death. Immediately on the arrival of the train, Mr. Bartlett repaired to the office of A. H. Hester, Esq., and procured his attendance to take the patient to the residence situated at the most (it was supposed) defunct person. It then came to light that the invalid had returned to the train at Corry, and shortly after was taken to the residence of the conductor to relieve the terrible sufferings of the stranger, and of the different stations on the route, procured the services of Drs. Parsons and Saunders, who had the patient under examination, and who had the patient under examination, and who had the patient under examination.

His name is Benjamin Kingsbury, and he resides at Columbus, Pa. When he fell ill he had intended on a journey to his friends in Hornellsville, Allegheny Co. His brother, William Kingsbury, who resides at the latter place, was telegraphed to, and arrived in Hornellsville Thursday night, and at once recognized the patient as Benjamin Kingsbury.

Efforts are being made to arrest the guilty party or parties, and it is hoped that they may be brought to justice. (Cattaraugus Republican.)
