HOMEMAKER'S Dispatch

Tomato Juice—Fresh, Frozen

Those last ripe tomatoes from the garden. . . . Are there too many to eat fresh? Too many to keep any length of time? You might make them into fresh frozen tomato juice. Specialists at the New York State College of Home Economics, Cornell, say that frozen juice has a different flavor from that of canned juice. For that reason it's a good idea to experiment with a small amount a couple of jars, to be sure your family will enjoy the fresh-tomato flavor of the frozen juice.

So far there's no known way to freeze whole tomatoes successfully. For the juice, wash well-ripened tomatoes, remove stems and green spots, and cut the tomatoes into sixths. Simmer 5 minutes to soften the pulp and start the flow of the juices. Press through a fine sieve. Add a teaspoon of salt to each pint, cool the juice quickly, put into glass jars, and freeze.

Winter Lawns

Do lawns need winter protection? Not as a general rule, say lawn specialists. Letting the grass grow long in late fall does no particular good and only makes spring grooming more difficult. Mulches, on the other hand, may be definitely harmful, for they often smother and kill the grass and provide ideal conditions for disease troubles in late winter and early spring.

Bald Spots on Refrigerator Doors

If your refrigerator door shows bald spots where the finish has worn thin, you can refinish the door with white enamel, according to a report in "Chemistry and the Home." Of course, you may not be able to match the color exactly, but get the best match you can, sandpaper the entire door with No. 00 sandpaper, and paint with one coat of enamel.

If the worn spots are confined to the top edge or the area around the handle, you can work out a decorative band to blend in color with some decorative note in your kitchen. For this scheme use pencil and yardstick and mark off a band from 3 to 4 inches wide across the top and down the handle side. Sandpaper this banded area. With a brush 2 inches wide apply enamel that has been tinted with oil colors to the shade desired. To insure a neat, trim band, wipe off all runs and sags while the paint is wet.

You Needn't Buy Duds

Have you ever bought a dud? By that, clothing specialists at Cornell's College of Home Economics mean a dress or blouse or even a suit that you push to the back of the closet and seldom wear. To avoid just such clothing purchases, specialists suggest this list of test questions:

Is the garment suited to my purposes? Can I afford it?

Does it really do something for me—both face and figure?

Does it fit well, and if not, can it be altered easily?

Is the fabric of good quality? Will it be easy to clean and care for? Are the buttons and belt cleanable? Is it a simple style that will not be dated? Does it fit in with colors and accessories I have? Is it well constructed?

Do I really want it?

Their Ideals

He: "My ideal of a wife is one who can make good bread."

She: "My ideal of a husband is one who can raise the dough in the hour of knead."

The Allegany County Farm Machinery Dealers Association was the first known organization in New York State to sponsor a "Milk for Health" sign such as has been posted at Andover on Route 17. This is the second in a series of signs being sponsored by this organization. The officers of this organization are: Leman Babbitt, president, of Fillmore; Herald Ford, secretary, of Andover. This group should be congratulated in sponsoring this type of milk promotion. All farmers in this county should be proud of such a supporting organization.

Better Health For Children

A Community Service Issued by Children's Hospital of Buffalo, N. Y.

Small children who are just begining to run around are apt to get into a great many different kinds of trouble because of their natural curiosity. Doctors at Buffalo's Children's Hospital caution parents that the majority of home accidents could be avoided by a temporary rearrangement of their rooms.

Constant scolding irritates both the child and his parents. If you have breakable or valuable things around where your child can reach them, they're bound to be damaged unless you continually scold. It's far better to rearrange furnishings leaving only those things which the child may handle or making a section of the room especially for his things. Touching things helps him to learn and also provides an opportunity to teach him to put things back where they belong. All children love to pull books from a bookcase, so if you have treasured volumes, put them up high where your baby can't reach them and leave only sturdy books available. In this connection it's well to be sure the bookcase is firmly placed so it can't be pulled over.

All sharp objects should be stored where your baby can't get them—such things as pins, scissors, opened tin cans, razor blades, knitting needles, knives, broken glass, pencils and letter openers. Children often inhale things like talcum powder, beads pop corn, peanuts, buttons—so they should be kept well out of reach.

Open fires, heaters or oil stoves should always be protected so children can't get near them. Likewise electric wiring and outlets should be barracaded by furniture arrangement to prevent exploration and possible disaster. Every year hundreds of children are critically or fatally burned by pulling cooking pans off stoves. Parents should make it a habit always to turn handles toward the back of the stove where they won't invite investigation. Often little children are seriously scalded by falling into pails or tubs of hot liquids. These should never be left unguarded.

Stairs should be protected by a gate and window screens should be securely hooked if within a child's range. When babies reach the climbing stage they should be fastened by a harness in their carriage and high chair. Water is especially alluring to children, therefore all pools, ponds, cisterns and wells should be fenced to prevent tragedy. Remember, little children move very fast.

Mental Health Institute Speakers Announced

Dr. E. W. Briggs of Wellsville will lead the panel discussion on "Mental Health in the Community," which will be a feature of the county-wide Mental Health Institute on October 19, according to Alden T. Stuart, chairman of the institute.

Dr. Briggs will preside over a group consisting of a social worker, a clergyman, a teacher, a parent, and a physician, all from this area, and each will discuss the significance of mental hygiene from his own point of view. The session, scheduled for 10 a. m., will be held in the Nancy Howe auditorium, with free registration beginning at 9:30.

A luncheon program beginning at noon in the gold room of Hotel Fassett will feature an address by Dr. Luther P. Woodward, nationally known author and speaker on mental health. Tickets for the luncheon may be obtained from Mrs. Catherine Manis of Belmont, or Mrs. E. W. Briggs of Wellsville.

In the afternoon a dramatic sketch, "The Ins and Outs" will be presented by Wellsville High School students directed by Miss Joyce Forsythe, with a discussion following conducted by Mrs. Beatrice W. Lamm of New York.

The Mental Health Institute is sponsored by the Allegany County Mental Health committee, headed by Dr. Roland L. Warren of Alfred University.

Endorsement of the institute has been received from the Allegany County Medical Society, the County School Administrators Association, the Allegany Health and Tuberculosis Association, the County Committee on Children and Public Welfare, the Wellsville Chapter of the American Association of University Women, and the Wellsville PTA Association Council.

The public is invited to attend all sessions, and there is no admission charge for those held in the auditorium.

Be a Modern Betsy Ross, Make a Flag

Girls and women of Allegany county—here is your call to arms? Streamline your needles, polish up your thimbles and join the rest of freedom-loving America in sewing United States flags to display in your community on United Nations Day, October 24, and throughout the year.

Plans for making United Nations flags in every community have been announced by the Cooperative Extension Service. The Home Demonstration and 4-H Club agents will give demonstrations on how to make the flags. They are asking members of farm organizations, Home Bureau units, 4-H Clubs, veteran, patriotic, school, church women's, business and other interested groups to help make flags for their community. If your organization would like to be a "modern Betsy Ross," contact the Extension Service at the Court House, Belmont. A flag kit costing $2.25 will be ordered for you and arrangements will be made to teach you how to make the flag.

The purpose of this project is to emphasize the high hope for peace for which the United Nations flag stands, and to make people in every community familiar with the flag. This project also provides a means for women and girls to express in a tangible way their patriotic desire to serve the United Nations and the United States effort for world peace. The flag will serve as an instrument through local groups and individuals may jointly express their determination to remain free.

Be a "modern Betsy Ross" and contact the Allegany County Extension Service, Court House, Belmont. Details for making the flags will be sent to you promptly. Make the flag. Fly the flag. It will be flying for us all. The United Nations are the hope of the world, and the flag which your hands make will be one more expression of that hope—your testimonial for freedom.

Fire Prevention Week October 8-14

"Fires were never more expensive than they are today." So says the National Fire Protection Association, the sponsor of Fire Protection Week, which will be held nationally October 8-14.

Although fire constitutes a major hazard to the American farm, fires are relatively easy to prevent. By inspecting your farm regularly, and by correcting fire hazards immediately 90 per cent of our fires can be prevented.

During National Fire Prevention week, the 4-H Clubs of Allegany County will be busily engaged in inspections of buildings, when they participate in a program sponsored annually by the Allegany County Farmer's Cooperative Fire Insurance Company.

Here are some of the things recommended by club members as they make their inspection visits:

1—Get rid of all rubbish inside the house and clean up the dried grass and weeds near the buildings, fence rows, etc.

2—Store gasoline and kerosene away from main buildings. Use cleaning fluids that won't explode.

3—Make sure that all the family and "help" smoke safely. Don't allow any smoking in bed, barn, attics, or closets. Keep matches in metal containers away from tiny hands.

4—Protect buildings with properly installed and well maintained lightning rod systems.

5—Combustible roofs are a major farm hazard. Make sure that your roof is of fire retardant material.

6—Defective chimneys and heating apparatus are a major cause for farm fires. Make sure that your chimneys and heaters are cleaned at least once a year, and that they are properly installed.

7—Misuse of electricity is another leading farm fire cause. Make sure that your wiring and appliances are installed by competent electricians, that motors are kept clean and that frayed wiring is immediately replaced. Be sure that your fuses are of proper size.

8—Out in the barn, partially cured hay ignites spontaneously. Watch your hay particularly for several weeks after it is placed in the mow or as long as there is any evidence of heating.

9—Spontaneous ignition is a real fire threat to the farmer. In the home, oily rags may ignite spontaneously, unless they are gept in fire-covered containers.

Fat Stock Show November 3rd

Farmers of New York State are close to the biggest meat products market in the world, yet the meat produced here doesn't gain the recognition of western meat although fat stock of equal grades are of equal quality.

The show will be held November 3rd at the livestock yards in Caledonia and is open to 4-H, FFA and adult's stock in beef, sheep and swine.

The purposes of the show are: to provide an object lesson in marketing and market grades, stimulate a greater interest in the production of higher quality livestock of the type desired by consumers and also, to offer farm boys and girls an incentive for greater effort.

All stock that is qualified may be shown in open class competition for prizes and all stock will be sold by weight and auction methods.

Those farm boys and girls and adults who would like to show saleable fat beef, sheep or swine at the November 3rd show should contact C. W. Hebblethwaite, assistant county agent at Belmont, as soon as possible.

The wearing of pendants as jewelry is derived from the primitive practice of wearing wild animal teeth, stones, or shells around the neck with magical intent.

Ezra T. Benson Speaker At League Meeting

More than 2,500 delegates and members of the Dairymen's League Cooperative Association, Inc., will descend on Syracuse, October 12, for their 31st annual meeting.

Four days of activities and committee sessions beginning on October 9, will draw to a climax Thursday when the entire gathering assembles in Lincoln auditorium, of Central High School to review the year's progress and consider the future.

Leon A. Chapin of North Bangor, president of the League announces that Ezra T. Benson, former executive secretary of the National Council of Farmer Cooperatives, will be the guest speaker. Mr. Benson along with his interest and experience in the farm field, is a member of the Quorum of Twelve Apostles of the Church of Jesus Christ of the Latter Day Saints, Mormon headquarters in Salt Lake City.

ARTHRITIS
Hundreds Claim Its Grip Broken!
Dear Friend:
Do you have Arthritis? Have you a relative or friend that is suffering from this painful, distressing ailment?
I came upon a simple remedy, that ended my long search and battle to rid myself of Arthritis. I had teeth pulled, tonsils out, serum shots, electric fever treatments, special built shoes, hot baths, pills and salves. The Arthritis withstood them all, and examination in several of the best known clinics could detect nothing. Finally, I discovered Sulgly-Minol. Today, after seven months I am more free of pain and soreness than at any time in twenty years. Can work ten hours a day, with nothing more than tired feet. Legs, hips, back, neck and arms are practically free of pain and soreness. This has cost me less than six dollars.
This is all I did, and all you will have to do to try Sulgly-Minol. Just rub it on the soles of both feet before going to bed. A bottle will last about a month and will be enough to tell whether it will help. If it helps, keep it up for a month, and after that, just as you feel. If my feet feel sore from too much activity, I rub some on for a night or two. In my opinion, the benefits of Sulphur are more sure and complete on the soles of the feet. The results obtained have been acclaimed by many as a Godsend.
Often I have asked the question, "Why can't something be done to help me?" I sincerely believe that here is something that will help people who are suffering from Arthritis and want to tell as many as I can about it. I am sure you do too. (signed) WALTER W. GRAMER
