Canary—Fulton

Trinity Lutheran Church, of Wellsville was the scene of the Easter wedding, Sunday afternoon, April 9 at 3:30 o'clock, at which time Patricia Jane Fulton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence O. Fulton, Bolivar, and Robert M. Canary, Olean, were united in marriage in a double ring ceremony. Mr. Canary is the son of Dr. and Mrs. M. D. Canary of Olean.

Rev. Elmer Krentz, pastor, officiated at the ceremony which was performed before an altar decorated with white lilies and other Easter flowers.

William Dougherty of Andover presided at the organ and played traditional wedding and Easter music before the ceremony. The bridal party entered the church to the Bridal Chorus from Lohengren. During the ceremony Miss Audrey Baker of Andover sang "The Lord's Prayer" by Malotte and "O Perfect Love" by Atkinson. She was accompanied by Mr. Dougherty on the organ.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white bridal satin with a wide portrait neckline with stand-up cuff collar. It was fashioned with a fitted bodice and long pointed sleeves. The chapel length hooped satin skirt had an overskirt of nylon net caught in at the hip line with tiny satin bows. Her fingertip length veil of nylon illusion fell from a satin cap trimmed with orange blossoms. She wore a double strand of pearls, gift of the bridegroom and carried a Colonial bouquet of white roses, sweet peas and orchids with white streamers.

Miss Teresa Basso, Elmira, sorority sister of the bride at Alfred University, was maid of honor. Miss Monica Monroe, Rixford, Pa., and Miss Janice Fulton of Bolivar, sister of the bride, acted as bridesmaids. Miss Basso wore a taffeta gown of rosebud pink with sweetheart neckline. The skirt was gathered in pleats at the waistline in back. The bridesmaids' gowns of lime green taffeta were identical to the maid of honor's. The maid of honor carried a Colonial bouquet of yellow roses and sweet peas.

Donald Moszak, Olean, acted as best man and Richard Fulton of Bolivar, brother of the bride and Rudy Nitsche, Olean, were ushers.

Mrs. Fulton, mother of the bride, wore a dress of dusty rose crepe with navy accessories and a corsage of orchids. Mrs. Canary, the groom's mother, wore a blue and pink silk print dress with navy accessories and a corsage of orchids. Mrs. William Schultz, Cattaraugus, N. Y., the bride's grandmother, wore a navy dress with black accessories and a corsage of red roses. The groom's grandmother, Mrs. S. J. Canary, Olean, was dressed in navy with gray accessories and a corsage of red roses.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held in the church parlors for approximately 125 guests. The bridal table was decorated with white candles and narcissus and was centered with a four-tiered wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and groom. Miss Carolyn McCord, Duke Center, Pa., and Miss Mary Ann Cossaboon, Bolivar, served at the bridal table. During the reception Miss Baker sang "Because" by D'Hardelot, and "At Dawning," by Cadman.

For traveling the bride wore a navy suit with white Peter Pan collar and pink accessories. She wore an orchid corsage. Following a trip to Washington, D. C., and Virginia, the couple will live in Portville, where their apartment is ready for occupancy.

Mrs. Canary is a graduate of Andover High School and attended Alfred University where she was a member of Pi Alpha Pi Sorority. She is now employed at the Olean Times Herald office. Mr. Canary, a graduate of Olean High School is now a student at St. Bonaventure College and is also employed at the Olean Times Herald.

HISTORY In the Making

by BESSIE MULCONERY
Andover Town Historian

Thanks to Rose G. Dean for material given me.

Today we are all more or less census minded because of the current census being taken. In Folsing's store window you will find a small display, devoted to census as far back as 1805. Stop and take a look at a few figures, taken from this census, bearing in mind that these are figures of the township and not the village.

Now back to a little more of our early history. The record of the first town meeting, held at the home of Luther Strong March 2, 1824, gives the names of the following town officers: Supervisor, Thaddeus Baker; clerk Amherst Kingsbury; assessors, Caleb Kingsbury, Hazard P. Clark and Luther Strong; highway commissioners, Joel Norton, Ichabod Babcock and Horace Malory; overseers of the poor, Joseph Clark and Caleb Kingsbury; school commissioners, Luther Strong, Barnabas Reed and Asa S. Allen; inspectors of election, Asa S. Allen, John S. Baker and Barnabas Reed; collector, Roswell Adams; constables, Roswell Adams and Jacob Clark.

With each of these little sketches of early history, I like to include little anecdotes with a more personal touch, gotten from some of our older citizens. Today's is a little about the Erie in these olden times. All the engines were fired with wood. This wood was hauled in from the farms in four-foot lengths and piled in piles eight to ten feet high, not far from the tracks below the depot. A man by the name of Lunigan had a portable saw of some description and was hired to saw this wood into pieces about 18 inches long. This was drawn to a loading platform and as each train come into the station a man was on duty to help the brakeman on the train pile on enough wood for fuel to finish the run into Hornell. Can you think back to the inconvenience of this after seeing our deisels, oil burning, go through every day?

There was a man on duty most of the time working the wood into the right length, etc. As most of the homes at this time burned wood and the men of the village were up at dawn to start their work, fires had to be kindled early by the housewives to boil the coffee. Naturally it fell on the shoulders of the boys to see that mother was provided with kindling each night for the morrow's fires. The easiest way to accomplish said chore was to slip over to the "old Erie" where wood was being chopped continually and as the men at work conveniently turned their backs, the boys picked up and carried home enough dry pieces for the morrow's fires. "Many a little armful I have gathered and carried home," said one of our boys of yester years.
