SENIOR ASSEMBLY

By Kent Harder

Last Thursday, Senior Day got into swing with a gala opening. A candlelight ceremony with the senior girls lighting the candles of the next years seniors started the program. This was followed by the moving up exercise. Each class moved up to the seating of the next older class after which coach Witzel gave out awards and letters for sports and other achievements.

Following this "Bob" Carpenter, the president of the class, read the class will and gave out useful gifts to the faculty. The class prophecy was them read telling of the future of each senior.

The seniors concluded their program with a colorful skit after which they taught classes in the junior and senior high school to complete the senior day activities.

PROBLEM PERSONALITIES OF BOYS

Today, not all dates are sweet apple pan a'dowdy or dream stuff. There are some mall (male) types who can't resist to send an evening into the ghostly category—unless, indeedy, you know how to handle them!

The strong silent type:
He's handsome to look at, like a statue of Julius Ceasar—and just about as talkative. Heavy and dull drags the evening and you feel slightly buried; you're scared (to death) that he's bored to the bones and you know you soon will be unless you dig up some topic old stone face will warm up to. Idea: ask him about himself! Your next problem will probably be to shut him up again!

The shy type:
He sits patiently in your living room looking as if he had seen a ghost. The only thing to do with him is to give him something to do; keep him occupied and he'll feel more at ease.

The boisterous type:
He's a card, but he doesn't have much sense of either the time or place to pull his stunts. He can be so embarrassing that you'd like to shuffle the deck and cut again. Try to kid him out of it. Remind him that the whole world isn't really a stage.

The jealous type:
Of course, gals, if you make up with the flirty-flirty eyes in public places, you can't blame the poor guy for getting sore. If you must go out with this character, go with him on single dates. Save the parties and dances for fellers with open heads (minds). You'll rate better also.

The loving type:
This eager beaver works hard to get you alone. You have to work even harder to change his ideas. One solution is to keep him talking. Also remember there's safety and relief in numbers.

ACS INCLUDED IN BABE RUTH AWARD

In this first year of the Babe Ruth Sportsmanship Award Andover was the only class C school in Allegany county to be included in this program.

Bolivar and Alfred-Almond are the two class B schools in this county in which the award will be presented. The rules state that the award will be given to one boy and one girl elected from the senior class by the student council or the student body.

The winners are not chosen on their ability in sports but on their cooperation, conduct and attitude and fair play toward activities carried on in the school and community.

A sportsmanship plaque will go to each participating school with a space on it for engraving the names of the two students chosen each year.

The Student Council voted on the two seniors last week but the names of the winners will not be released until graduation.

There are 93 schools in New York State participating this year and the award committee hopes to increase this number as the years go by.

TRACK TEAM GOES TO ROCHESTER

By Dean Fisher

Last Saturday morning at 7:00 a. m. seven members of the local track team traveled to Rochester to participate in the annual sectional tract meet.

The contestants from Andover were Jack Wheaton, shot put; Dean Fisher, 440; "Ron" Atwell, Dale Green, Charlie Snyder and "Vic" Daley, 880 relay; and Wayne Atwell, the mile. "Ron" Atwell also participated in the broad jump.

Jack placed third in the shot put, Dean third in the 440 and Wayne sixth in the mile. The relay team failed to compete because of injury to "Ron" Atwell during the broad jump.

The track team wishes to extend their thanks to the townspeople for turning out to the meets.

BACTINE, THE NEW WONDER ANTISEPTIC

Bactine, a new powerful bacteria killer, is the result of several years work at the Miles Research Laboratory in Elkhart, Ind.

Since 1908 researchers have known that quaternary ammonium compounds have antiseptic action. Little attention was paid to them until recently when Hyamine 10X, one of these, was found to have amazing qualities.

The investigators added chlorathymal, which seemed to kill fungus growths. Next they added camphor and menthol and tests showed that the formula killed a wide variety of bacteria.

Reports are that it kills germs that are responsible for blood and heart infections and boils, carbuncles, strep sore throats, pneumonia, typhoid fever, urinary and kidney infections.

Undiluted Bactine will kill 13 of 14 fungi in five minutes and a dilution of three parts of Bactine to one part water will kill the toughest fungus in 14 minutes.

Studies were made with animals to determine whether Bactine would be poisonous if accidentally swallowed. The tests showed that several six-ounce bottles would have to be consumed by a human before serious harm could result. CVM

RURAL TEEN-AGER Program briefly announced a few weeks ago, is in full swing and you must get applications in early to obtain priority.

As a constructive part of the government's re-education program in Germany, selected boys and girls between 16-19 years old will soon arrive in the U. S. to spend a year in a Grange family home. Families who are approved to accept these young folks will receive $20 per month toward their upkeep, in addition to which each boy and girl, protected by insurance against sickness or accident, will be given their own allowance for school books and incidentals, plus a clothing allowance. All will be eligible to Grange membership.

Preferably homes with young people the same age are desired, so that they may be helped to join in school and community activities. Applications must be made through State Master Henry D. Sherwood, Pine Plains, or Youth Department, National Grange at Washington. All will be subject to the approval of your Subordinate Grange Master or Deputy and State Master. There are already eight young Danish farmers in Grange homes in this state through the efforts of this column.
