TOWARD THE SLOPE

by Mary Ellen Connor

Snow! Snow! And more snow! The feathery particles drift lazily toward the earth and to more than five million people it means an adventure on skiis. Snowballing, sledding and tobogganing are all fun but today there are more who indulge in skiing than there are in any one of these. To the ski fan nothing compares with the thrill of skimming through the hills on skis.

Gone are the days when a couple could enjoy this sport with nothing to bump into except trees. Today, when the weather conditions permit, scores of people flock to the slopes, be they experienced or inexperienced, they are eager to try their hand at the sport. Now, just as an automobile drive must know the rules of the road, the skier must be acquainted with the rules of the slope.

The rules of skiing simmer down to the three "C's" of good manners: common sense, courtesy, and consideration. If you observe the following rules you will be a welcomed member of any ski crowd, as well as making it a safe sport:

1. Choose a costume that is practical and warm. Sometimes it gets mighty cold on a hill.
2. Carry your own ski equipment.
3. Carry your ski poles carefully. Keep aware of others.
4. Never leave your wet skis where they will drip on others.
5. If you must "rest", don't do it on the ski trail.

Ski etiquette is a "must" if you plan to have an enjoyable safe trip so practice these five rules the next time you go on a skiing adventure.

WHAT IS YOUR CAREER?

Air Line Stewardess

Are you fitted to be an air line stewardess? Let's look at some of the main qualifications for entry and success. They are: a trans-Canada Air Line Stewardess must be a graduate nurse, the applicant must not be over twenty-six years of age nor under twenty-two years, she must be not less than sixty inches nor over sixty-six inches in height, she must weigh between one hundred and a hundred and thirty pounds, married applicants are not considered and the applicant must remain unmarried during employment, she must pass a medical examination given by the company's medical officer, an applicant who is obliged to wear glasses will not be considered, and she must have a good moral character and a pleasing personality and appearance.

If you think you can pass these tests, I shall continue to tell you what preparation is needed. You will have to take a course usually lasting from four to five weeks. The students are required to arrange their own living accommodations but they are on salary during the weeks of training. There are examinations in meteorlogy, flight schedules and flight operations, radio and communications, stewardess' duties, manifesting and ticketing. Each stewardess has a familiarization flight before the completion of her course.

The salary begins with $110.00 per month for 50 flying hours or less and can go as high as $200.00 per month plus $2.00 for flying hours in excess of 50.

The main advantage is that the life of an air line stewardess is full of glamor and excitement. With all this she also gets to see different parts of the country.

About the only disadvantage is the irregularity of hours and working days.

A stewardess is allowed monthly expenses covering meals, hotel bills etc. She is also allowed two weeks vacation each year with a pass on the air line. She also benefits from the pension fund and insurance policy subscribed to by all stewardesses.

BOLIVAR DUMPS WILDCATS 54-30

Last Friday night on the local court the Bolivar Juniors beat the J. V.'s by a 54-30 score.

Bolivar led all the way but the Wildcats never gave up and gave the visitors a stiff argument in the latter part of the game. The J. V.'s now have five wins and six losses with four games remaining.

Dean Fisher was high for Andover with 10 while "Lefty" Harder and "Frannie" Hann tied for second with four each. Monahan led the victors for dumping in 12 points and Schnetter followed closely with 11. The summary:

TEACHERS ISSUE REPORT CARDS

Since the end of the fourth marking period has been reached, all A. C. S. teachers distributed report cards to the pupils in their homerooms.

The cards contain the grades earned in the mid-year examinations and regents, as well as the grades for the fourth marking period.

All pupils have been asked to return their signed report cards tomorrow.

CHIT CHAT

Why donesn't Lois Honegger teach Bob Perry to dance so she can go to the dances once in a while?

The students who attended Maxine Filler's and Bob Baker's birthday party enjoyed themselves.

Who is the girl in Wellsville Don Kenyon has his eye on? Is it Colleen O'Connor?

Why do Carol Briggs and Colleen McAndrews enjoyed watching basketball practice? Is it because of two varsity players, Don Mulconery and Bob Carpenter?

Clarice Nye's new admirer is Vic Daley.

"Bev" Sutor is becoming quite a card shark. Canasta, Beverly?

Whose heart has "Dick" Davis broken lately? He looks so happy!

We see John Atwell has broken off with Doris Burdick!

Another new romance has budded. Laura Croyle and Dick Clark make a cute couple.

TOT SPOT

Happy Birthday!

Congratulations this week go to Les Alvord of Miss Baker's fourth grade, Victor Kemp of Mrs. Tompkins' second grade and Mabel Halsey of Mrs. Carmody's second grade.

In Mrs. Robison's kindergarten the children have learned verses about "The Lighthouse." They have also drawn, colored and cut out pictures of the lighthouse. In a recent movie the children saw they noticed a lighthouse and asked their teacher if she had seen it.

Mrs. C. H. Watson was a recent visitor of the class. She was interested in the materials which the children use to work

DANISH FARM youths available this year for work and study on your farms, same as the most successful plan begun last year. We hope you will send immediately to State Grange Master Henry D. Sherwood, Pine Plains, N. Y., for an application blank. It was through this column that we placed two young men from Denmark on N. Y. farms, and we know from having personally interviewed these young men that the experiment was most advantageous to themselves as well as the Grange farmers who took them.

Those men are from good homes in their own country, in their 20s, have agricultural training the some knowledge of our language and are keenly interested in learning our farm methods. They pay their own way here, and you furnish board and living and pay wages up to $90 a month according to your own arrangements with them.

It is proving to be a good will gesture of international proportions in which everyone gains. Make application now, before another state snaps up the available young men who are ready for placement.

RURAL YOUTH Workshops are scheduled to take place in some ten convenient localities throughout the state this month. Sponsored by the N. Y. S. Rural Youth Conference, these meetings are designed to promote leadership and cooperation among the older youth groups of our communities.

Grange is taking its usual prominent place in giving impetus to this program, and all you "boys and girls" from 16 to 60 who want to take part should watch for local announcements of workshop dates. In case you want complete information, write now to the state chairman, Harry L. Graham, 104 N. Titus Ave., Ithaca.

with.

The following grades have reported 100 per cent in the polio drive: Mr. Carmody's eighth grade, Miss Church's fifth and sixth grades, Mrs. Schwarzenbach's sixth grade and Miss Baker's fourth grade.

Mrs. Corwin's kindergarten pupils entertained both first grades last week in their room by presenting in story and song "The Story of the Little Red Hen."

Sandra Bird and Judy George also of the kindergarten each have a new baby brother.

The kindergarten welcomes back Harold Peters after being absent a week with a bad cold.

In Mrs. Hall's first grade the per cent of attendance due to illness was 87.8 per cent for the first 20-week period.

Their group is studying the farm unit. They are thankful to Mrs. Vickers for allowing Bruce to bring his nice farm and to Mrs. Bronson for allowing Patricia to bring the animals for the farm.

They were very sorry Mrs. Conde was not able to be in school for their story hour this week.

Merton Wright and Lynda Matison were excused early Friday to go to Hornell with their mothers.

Patricia Bronson is practicing baton twirling.

They extend their sympathy to Philip Barrett's family in the death of his grandfather Fischer.

In Mrs. Connor's first grade they had 95 per cent attendance for the first half of the year.

The class is also beginning work in phonics.

Mrs. Carmody's second graders are studying the story of Pinocchio, doing spatter painting and making alphabet books.

Allana Gilkes of Mrs. Tompkins' second grade has new glasses.

The "Brownies" are dramatizing the story of "The Three Little Pigs."

The class is practicing subtraction in arithmetic.

Miss Baker's fourth grade has elected new officers who are: "Tom" Smith, president; "Dick" Rifenburg, vice president; "Fred" Hornbeck, secretary, and "Pat" Padden, treasurer.

Lynford O'Dell's side in the arithmetic contest is 50 points ahead of Freda Kupp's side.

Shirley Vickers and Freda Kupp brought the cash registers for their store. The children are studying stores in arithmetic.

In Miss Church's room the fifth graders are making booklets on Washington while the sixth graders are making scrapbooks on France.

Row four of Mrs. Schwarzenbach's sixth grade won the arithmetic contest for January. In social studies they are studying France.

We are sorry to hear that Merlyn Whiting of Mrs. Connor's first grade and David Kemp, Lloyd Hollenbeck, Jeanne Day, Philip Barrett, David Carson, Michael Ludden, Dorothca Merriam, Adelbert Gayhart and Sharon Strouse fo Mrs. Hall's first grade are absent.

A Tribute to the Ourslers

By Mary McAndrew

I wish everyone in America could read the story of Father Flanagan as told by his biographers, Fulton and Will Oursler.

As a boy he was not rich or particularly talented, but he was happy to tramp across his father's rented fields in Ireland. As an adult he loved boys, he had faith in boys and he could not believe that any boy was a bad boy. His warm heart shed its kindness and pity on those boys who were caught in the tangled net of the law.

Today after years of strenuous overwork, the name of Father Flanagan, founder of Boys Town, is reverenced by every civilized person on earth regardless of creed or position.

He had no money of his own, but he was a wise and tender father to the dead-end-nobodies who gathered around him to tell of their tangled thoughts and hopeful dreams. He was more than just a priest, he was a warm and comforting saint who performed miracles with our frail human flesh and spirit.

Fulton and Will Oursler have not written a book. They have voiced a plea for every youngster, who hungry, homeless and forgotten, ever slept in doorways, flinched his fodder in garbage pails and finally in desperation, broke the law. It is a classic of one of the greatest men who ever humanized the earth.

Everyone needs to read this book for no one can really understand the heart of a rebellious youngster until he has read of Father Flanagan's work. It is a story that will burn a brillant, ever flaming picture in the mind of everyone that will last an eternity.
