Startling Changes ... Since 1940

Over 13 million old customers have died.

Over 17 million marriages have taken place.

Over 30 million babies have been born.

Over one-third of all present families in the U. S. have been formed.

Out of 140 odd million people in the U. S. today, 63 per cent do not remember World War I.

52% do not remember a Republican administration in the White House.

48% do not remember what conditions were like before World War II.

44% are consciously experiencing for the first time a free market in which they can buy what they want from normal assortments.

Barn Inspectors Not Popular Years Ago

According to the following newspaper clipping, sent to an Andover barn inspector recently from an unknown friend, gives a gleaning of the life of these inspectors in some instances. We reprint the article in full:

One time years ago, I drove up in front of a farm and looked out to see a farmer with a pitchfork chasing a well dressed city many down across the yard, both of them yelling at the top of their voices. The stranger went over the top of the gate without even touching it, climbed into his car and, with a great snarling of gears, went away from there fast.

I hesitated for a moment, wondering if I might not be chased off also, but when I finally got to the farmer he was leaning on his fork, breathing hard, but kind of grinning, and he said:

"That's the most fun I've had in six months!"

It seemed that he had a long-standing argument with a New York City milk barn inspector, and the uppity ways of the inspector had finally become too much for him.

Inspectors are better now, but some of the old-time ones were pretty tough, though there was sometimes two sides to the argument. Most dairy farmers now are highly cooperative in keeping their barns sanitary, but there were some in the old days who weren't. There was, for example, the young college fellow who was making a survey. Stepping into a farmer's barn at milking time, it was plain to him that the barn hadn't been cleaned for a month, flies were plentiful, the cows' flanks were plastered with you-know-what. The farmer looked up from his milking to say:

"You ain't a barn inspector, are you?"

The boy was quick to assure him that he wasn't.

"Well," said the farmer, "it's a good thing or I'd have throwed you out. One of those fellers was here from the city trying to tell me what to do with my barn. Said I ought to have concrete floors. Dumb fool! That shows how little them so-called experts know. But I put this feller in his place all right. I grabbed me a spade and all I had to do was dig down six inches to show him he didn't know what he was talking about. I GOT concrete floors!"

The line of march will start from Legion Park out First St. to Center St., up Center to East Avenue, out East Avenue to Greenwood, up Greenwood to the flatiron, down Dyke to Main and up Main to Relief Corps Hall.

Edward Seaman Relief Corps was organized August 7, 1890, by Department President Sarah C. Nichols and Department Secretary Jennie P. Shepard. The first two meetings were held at the home of Mrs. Sylvia Mourhess. The next meeting with Edward Seaman Post G. A. R. After which they met in Masonic Hall until October 18 when they moved to rooms over the Gas Office. They met there until the village remodeled the rooms over the Village Hall, about 1930, to accomodate the Relief Corps, the American Legion and the Legion Auxiliary. The first inspection of the Corps was held October 31, 1890 by Department Inspector, Ada V. Sherwood.

The first officers of the Corps were: Mrs. Jane Cunningham, president; Mrs. Martha Orvis, Sr. vice president; Mrs. Marian Richardson, Jr. vice president; Mrs. Ann Herrick, chaplain; Mrs. Sylvia Mourhess, treasurer; Mrs. Georgiana Hardy, conductor; Mrs. Sarah Smith, guard; Mrs. Rosie Bundy, secretary; Mrs. Frances Boyd, asst. conductor; Mrs. Theoda Green, asst. guard; Miss Minnie Clair, organist.

Charter members of the corps included: Jane Cunningham, Roxie Bundy, Martha Orvis, Marian Richardson, Sylvia Mourhess, Agnes Harmon, Augusta Davis, Abbie Crandall, Theoda Green, Georgiana Hardy, Frances Boyd, Esther Martindale, Anna E. Herrick, Minnie Clair, Julia Carpenter, Lena Remmington and Henrietta Bundy.

The Corps has flourished down through the years with many enjoyable social activities held in connection with their patriotic work under the leadership of the following presidents:

Jane Cunningham, 1890-91; Sylvia Mourhess, 1892; Anna Herrick, 1893; Frances Boyd, 1894; Georgiana Hardy, 1895; Anna Herrick, 1896-97; Flora Mosher, 1898-99-1900; Sylvia Mourhess, 1901; Clara Crandall, 1902; Flora Mosher, 1903; Addie Coleman, 1904-05; Flora Mosher, 1906; Addie Coleman, 1907-08-09-10; Eliza Cooper, 1911; Addie Coleman, 1912-13-14-15-16-17; Carrie Green, 1918-19; Fannie Backus, 1920 through 1932; Lelia Livermore, 1933-34-35; Laura Witter, 1936-37-38-39-40; Mytrie Trowbridge, 1941; Mae Rennells, 1945; Helen Beach, 1943-44-45-46; Mae Rennells, 1947; Jessie Whiting, 1948-49-50.

Capt. Clayton S. Isgreg, USN, Ninth Naval District General Inspector, (right) with Ralph D. Howard, Seaman Recruit, USN, and Howard's grandmother, Mrs. Lottie Drew and parents, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Howard of Andover. Capt. Isgreg presented Howard with a letter of commendation shortly before when he was designated honorman of his recruit company at a Recruit Graduation Review at Naval Training Center, Great Lakes, Ill.

Herald Ford President of New Racing Corp.

Herald Ford of Ford & Peckham, Andover, has been named president of the newly organized Wellsville Driving Club, Inc., which will sponsor stock car races at the old Wellsville Fair grounds.

Other officers are: James Dean, Wellsville, vice president; Ralph Benjamin, Wellsville, secretary; and E. J. Brown, Alfred, treasurer. Directors include the above named officers, Ernest Burdick, Richard Umiker, Louis Couzoff, George Rossman, Anthony Toporas, Dr. Irwin Felsen of Wellsville and Hollis Peckham of Andover.

The corporation plans to spend $10,000 in conditioning the property to hold stock car races, night racing and possibly horse racing. Extensive repairs of the grandstand and construction of a four-foot-high crash fence are underway and other improvements will be made as soon as possible.

The first race is scheduled for Sunday, August 13, and the directors announce that they are contacting several well known drivers for this event and already a number of entries are in from area drivers. One of the feature drivers is Mr. X, one of the key drivers in this section of the country.

Stage All Set For Agricultural Field Day

Plans for the Allegany County Agricultural Field Day to be held on the Belvidere Farms, August 9th, as announced give promise of a big day for farmers.

The variouss farm organizations will feature several crop variety and fertilizer plots showing the value of better varieties and fertilizer practices for both crop land and pasture improvement.

The Soil Conservation District will build a two acre pond and demonstrate good conservation practices. Robert Reed, District Conservationist reports that W. S. Atkinson, Chief Engineer of the Soil Conservation Service for the Northeastern United States will be present to discuss the requirements of a good pond and supervise the construction of this pond.

The Allegany County Artificial Breeders Co-op., are sponsoring a milking contest which is open to all. At present the only two contestants are Leo Johannes of Belmont and Mrs. Amos Jellesen of Transit Bridge. Anyone wishing to compete can contact the Farm Bureau office.

Special events of interest to the ladies are also being planned with Mrs. Sidney Aiken of Scio and Mrs. Richard Stimson of Wellsvillle working with Miss Loretta Schelble and Miss Anne Newmiller, Home Demonstration agents to present an entertaining program.

The Rushford Band has been engaged to furnish music during the lunch hour.

Attention, American Legion and Auxiliary

American Legion and Auxiliary members are requested to meet at Legion Hall at 6:30 Monday night to march in the Relief Corps parade.

Carlyle Myers, Commander.

New Arrivals

Mrs. Lyle Mulconery was a patient at the Robert Packer hospital at Sayre from Monday until Wednesday for observation.

Mrs. Mabel Wightman returned home from the Jones Memorial hospital in Wellsville, where she had been a medical patient, Thursday.

Mrs. Anna Carson was admitted to the Jones Memorial hospital Friday.

To The Property Owners of the Village of Andover

A public hearing will be held in the Andover Central school on Tuesday, August 8th, 1950, at 7:30 p. m., to which all property owners of the Village of Andover and other interested parties, are invited to attend to discuss whether or not the Ville of Andover shall change the location of the electric lines in the Village of Andover and place the electric lines in the rear of the dwelling houses. This is a very important meeting and every property owner should be present, since if it is decided to make the change it will be necessary for the property owners to give right of ways to the village of Andover to place their poles and lines and guys on the property of the owners in the rear or on the side of their lots.

The reason for the proposed change of lines is the fact that the telephone company has requested the Village of Andover to change the electric lines and put them higher, which would necessitate a great deal of tree trimming and several thousand dollars additional expense and the Village Board feels that the property owners should be given an opportunity to be heard as to how they wish the Village to handle the situation.

PLEASE ATTEND this meeting, since any decision made will effect the Village for many years to come.

To The Telephone Subscribers

In this issue of this paper there is a notice concerning increases in telephone rates to become effective when dial service is in operation. Subscribers who now have cradle phones on a four-party or multi-party line will have no incresae in rates. Subscribers on a four-party or multi-party line who have old style desk or wall phones will have a $.25 incresase per month. Because in dial operation each line requires a shelf of relays together with a selector switch in order to complete the circuit it therefore requires one of these for each private line. Therefore it is necessaryy to increase the rate on this special type of service.

W. B. Harrison, Sr. President

Attention Firemen

All members of the Andover Fire Department are requested if possible, to be in Bolivar at 1:30 p. m., this Friday, August 4th to participate in the parade of the Southwestern Firemen's Association to be held there.

Firemen's Meeting Tonight (Thursday)

Due to the fact that the Southwestern Firemen's Convention is being held in Bolivar this Friday afternoon, the regular meeting of the Andover Fire Department will be held tonight (Thursday) at the regular hour.

Appreciation

I wish to thank my friends and neighbors for the gifts, cards, fruit and flowers sent me while ill and convalescing from polio. Especially do I thank the patrons of my mail route for the sunshine basket, and the people who assisted my family.
