Boy Scout Campaign To Close Sept. 18th

Wind-up plans for the capital fund campaign of the Seneca Council, Inc., Boy Scouts of America, call for completion of the campaign by Monday, September 18. Chairman James E. Randall, Wellsville, has called on all of the village and city chairmen to urge their workers to make final reports on that day. County Chairmen William N. Davis, Olean, and C. Humphrey Stevens, Wellsville, have sent final instructions to their respective workers that the victory celebration will be held on the 18th.

Assurance of enough money to build the main lodge has been given already. The site for the building will be chosen this week by the Seneca Council camp development committee. A building similar to that erected by the Wellsville Rod and Gun Club is being planned. It is rustic in appearance and will create a lodge for rainy days at camp and for parents to meet their sons. It will also be available for council meetings and camp trips by troops.

The digging out of the rock for the start of the dam will also be started by the 18th. Work will be pushed forward on this project so that it might be completed before freezing weather sets in. After the rock is dug out then cement footers for the dam and wing walls and keys into the rock will be constructed. Following this constructing the dam itself will be built.

Plans for the dam were drawn up by the regional office of the United States Soil Conservation Service in Philadelphia. They have been inspected and approved by the New York State Department of Public Works. So everything is in readiness to start the construction.

The six acre lake to be built will be the fourth largest lake in Allegany and Cattaraugus counties. It will make the camp the finest in a wide area.

The above aerial view of the Scout Camp of the Seneca Council, Inc., Boy Scouts of America, shows the outline of the lake to be created by building a dam across Wolf Creek. The camp, located in the town of Clarksville, covers 306 acres. The lake will be six acres in extent. The photo was secured by the Olean Times-Herald.

Only self-polishing or water emulsion wax should be used on rubber floor coverings.

Cancer

There are people who brood about the possibility of having cancer and, at the same time, refuse to see a doctor because of fear. They feel that a diagnosis of cancer is a sentence of death and "it's better not to know'.'

But most types of cancer can be cured if they are detected in time and treatment is begun promptly.

Cancer, a wild or uncontrolled growth of cells in some region of the body, is a serious disease which killed nearly 200,000 Americans in 1948. But doctors believe the number of cancer deaths could be cut by at least one-third—if the disease is discovered and treated early and before it has had time to spread.

Some years ago it was extremely difficult to detect cancer until the disase was advanced, but today, with progress in medical science and greater knowledge about the disease, the doctor can detect cancer while the malignant growth is still localized in one area of the body.

Cancer, for the most part, is a disease of middle or old age, although it can develop in children and young adults. We cannot tell in every case what causes this lawless growth of cells in the body. But we do know that constant irritation and repeated injury can result in cancer. Meanwhile, research continues in the hope of finding the cause of various types of cancer, as well as how best to cure the disease.

When cancerous cells first begin to grow, there is no pain. The victim suffers pain usually only after the cancer has progressed or reached an advanced stage. But there are danger signals, other than pain, which might be symptoms of cancer and which demand a check with the doctor without delay. These include:

1. A painless lump or thickening, especially in the breast, lip, or tongue.
2. A sore that does not heal, especially about the mouth, tongue, or lips.
3. A progressive change in the color or size of a mole, wart, or birthmark.
4. An irregular bleeding or discharge from any body opening.
5. Any persistent change in normal bowel habits; or signs of blood in the urine or stools.
6. Persistent hoarseness, unexplained cough or difficulty in swallowing.
7. Persistent and unexplained indigestion.

Everyone should have regular physical checkups with his doctor, including chest X-rays, whether he has symptoms of illness or not. If between these regular visits, any symptoms appear which might suggest cancer, no time should be lost in seeing the doctor. Probably there will be no cancer, and it's a greater relief to know that. But if cancer does show up, it is better to have it discovered early so that prompt treatment can be begun.

4-H'ers on Adirondack Forestry Tour

Durwood Coats, Alma, James Peaslee, Little Genesee, and Robert Laird, Houghton, will leave Thursday morning to participate in the State forestry tour in the Adirondacks.

Roberta Sherwood, Little Genesee, a trip winner, was unable to attend the tour because of illness.

All trips were awarded by the Buffalo Evening News, on tree collection books, except Robert Laird's trip, which was given because of his success in the tree planting project this year.

The group, accompanied by Club Agent Laurence Dedrick, will have an opportunity to visit many points of interest around the Saranac and Tupper Lake areas, including the bob-sled run, ski-jump, John Brown's farm, and a fur farm.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Witter Purchase Home In Alfred

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond B. Witter, members of the firm of the Andover China Company, Inc., who have been living with Mr. Witter's sister, Miss J. Etta Witter of Alfred, have purchased the Stuhl property in Alfred and expect to take possession this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Witter returned to the States in February of this year, after having spent three years in Caracas, Venezuela, where Mr. Witter was ceramic consultant for the Fabrica de Productos Ceramicos, the only floor and wall tile plant in Venezuela at that time. A graduate of Alfred University in ceramics, Mr. Witter has had many years of experience in that field.

While in Caracas they took an active part in the social life of the American colony. They were members of the Valle Arribe Country Club, of The American Church of Caracas, and other groups. They were the original sponsors, by appointment of The Teen-Age group of the American church which started with a small number and increased in membership very rapidly, attracting Venezuelan youngsters as well. The youngsters, between the ages of 14 and 19 were directed in worship programs, charity work in connection with the various missions, and dramatics. Mr. and Mrs. Witter were also members of The Church Players, a dramatic organization which produced several plays throughout the year. They introduced square dancing to Caracsa, and for a time their group instructed in this type of dancing at the Instituto - Venezolana-Americano, a cultural center sponsored by the U. S. Government for the betterment of relationship between the Americans and the Spanish people.

The return trip to the States was made entirely by air. Instead of coming direct, they spent between five and six weeks vacationing and did what they term "island hopping." They visited Trinidad and Barbados, in the British West Indies, St. Thomas, in the Virgin Islands, spent some time in Puerto Rico, went from there to Kingston, Jamaica, then to Ciudad Trujillo in the Dominican Republic, from there flew to Port auPrince, Haiti where they visited the exposition and other interesting points in that country. From Haiti they flew to Havana, Cuba, and then home to Florida.

Mr. and Mrs. Witter speak glowingly of the beauties of some of the places they visited, especially the Virgin Islands, and Haiti.
