THE TEN COMMANDMENTS

By Eunice Hall

This is another general topic on the relationship between girls and boys. This is advice for the girls since they spend most of their time watching over them. Following will be some little pointers for those who need some good fresh information.

Well girls, the following suggestions may help you to win a boys' friendship without running after him, and if he is going too fast they might even slow him down a bit. We shall call them the ten commandments of good conduct.

1. Be a teen with taste, dressing appropriately for the occasion.
2. Act like a lady and he will treat you as one.
3. Be able to enjoy an everyday date as well as the glamour occasions.
4. Don't hang on him too possessively.
5. Don't have him fetch and carry to create an impression.
6. Make up, if you like but do not try to make over what you are.
7. Be popular with girls as well as boys.
8. Learn to like sports—it's an all-American topic in which boys are interested.
9. Don't be too self-sufficient, boys like to feel needed.
10. Be natural.

CHIT-CHAT

Marion Milligan went to the show with Don Mulconery Sunday night.

Carol Briggs and Alice Bostick are giving splendid daily news summaries this week.

"Dick" Davis has not found a girl to use his charm on.

Ann Marie Joyce, Mary Brown and Margaret Daley had a good time at the skating rink last Friday.

Onions to the F. H. A. members who have not paid their dues yet.

Orchids to the Ag. boys for putting on a skit at the school fair.

Orchids to Laura Mae Croyle for laboring so hard in her uncle's restaurant.

Onions to Gerry Green for being such a flirt.

Gay Rogers and Eddie Harkenrider are still very good friends.

Onions to "Vic" Daley and Jack Wheaton for being such bothers on Saturday night.

Arlene Edwards received a ring from her Rushford boy friend.

Orchids to the seniors for planning to operate the food stand at the fair.

Orchids to the juniors for trying to get their class rings.

Orchids to the sophmore class for electing their officers.

Onions to Charity Howland for not finding any more onions for this issue.

HARVEY

By Ann Wood

I open up my locker and what do I find but Harvey with one foot in my ink bottle! I pull him out and give him a scolding. Just then the bell rings so I put him in my pocket and we're off to class.

All during classes Harvey asks questions. Did Charity Howland and Dale Green make up? I just finished telling him they did when he asks if Charles Davis is still the freshman girl's dreamboat? He gives me just enough time to say yes before he asks what Wellsville boy Mary Anne Joyce is interested in? Harvey is asking who's making all the noise before I can answer this question. I explain to him that it's Minnie Briggs as usual. Harvey sees Clarice Nye and asks about the senior ring she has. I tell him that it belongs to Bill Forest.

Just then the bell rings so I rush to my locker and put Harvey in. Then I slam the door shut. What a relief!

THE FAIR IN MY OPINION

Today as I wandered down the hall, I heard someone mention the school fair. Since the fair is of public interest, it seemed to be a good subject on which people could air they opinions.

As I started out on my tour of the halls, I met Mary Brown, a jolly junior whom I asked "Mary, what is your opinion of the school fair". The answer I received was "It is a good idea." Jo Ann Marsh was my next victim to my question, she answered, "It's a good idea since the people can see what the students do."

Miss Sager, who had just heard about the fair thought "it sounded like something nice." Going on down the hall, I saw Matt Lynch with his head in his locker. His answer to my question was "alright I guess."

Next I stopped three grand old seniors strolling down the hall together, as a result three different opinions came to me. Danjaan Crandall's answer was, "If we don't make something on our stand it will be terrible." Alice Bostick thought it was fine because "people get to see the exhibits." Ruby Ordiway said, "It's an excellent idea."

"Bill" McNeill remarked "Oh boy!" It's a big thrill". Miss McCarthy said, "It's a fine opportunity to show the work you have done and to find out the best way to correct your mistakes."

Mrs. Joyce was in study hall so I asked her opinion. "It's an excellent idea. It gives us a different type of entertainment than we have at any of the other things."

It also gives the students an opportunity to show exhibits they otherwise might not have a chance to show."

AROUND THE SCHOOL

As I ventured around the school, I saw many beautiful bulletin boards. The first I saw was in Miss Evan's kindergarten where I saw a nursery rhyme selection.

In Mrs. Robison's kindergarten I saw a colorful bulletin board in eight colors the children are learning. There were also pictures of kittens.

Mrs. Hall's first grade has a nice bulletin board on back to school.

Mrs. Connor's first grade has a bulletin board on nursery rhymes and numbers for the children to learn.

Mrs. Carmody's second grade has a very nice bulletin board of bright autumn leaves the children have brought in.

Mrs. Tompkin's second grade has a bulletin board of words the children are learning the titles as: Can you read these?

Miss Schermerhorn's third grade has a colorful bulletin board on autumn selections.

Mrs. Helmer's third and fourth grades and Miss Jordan's fifth grade have a nicely arranged bulletin board on back to school.

Miss Baker's fourth grade bulletin board consists of the golden keys, which include the rules the children should follow in school.

Miss Church's fifth and sixth grades have a bulletin board of maps which the sixth grade have drawn for social studies.

Miss Schwarzenbach's sixth grade has a bulletin board on all sorts of pets.

Mrs. Baker's seventh grade has a bulletin board on books you should read.

Mrs. Joyce's seventh grade bulletin board consists of war selections.

Mrs. McFadden's ninth grade front bulletin board is on autumn. The side bulletin boards are on the shrines of America from the "Readers Digest." Also the bulletin board of classic suggestions, quotations and pictures from famous books.

Miss McCarthy's bulletin board presents the details of good grooming.

SOCCER SEASON OPENS FRIDAY

By Dean Fisher

Tomorrow afternoon, September 22 the Andover soccer team plays host to Allentown in the season's opener.

In the past weeks the soccer squad, toiling under the guidance of Coach Witzel, have worked hard to get in shape for the battle with the Allentown Eagles. I am sure that the opening whistle will find the Panthers with a very capable squad.

I believe that if the team is well supported, it will pile up a fine record.

HOMEMAKING NEWS

By Danjaan Crandall

When you walk into the homemaking room the first thing you do is relax. The cozy atmosphere of the room makes you think of your own living room where you have your family discussions like they have in homemaking classes.

The new drapes of gray background with maroon flowers in them are one of the new improvements. The walls have been painted a light green and the new plastic lampshades are green to go with the room.

The kitchen is as busy as ever with the canning going on.

In the kitchen the appartment size stove has been hooked up so it is ready for use.

In the sewing department the girls are learning to sew and learning the fundamentals of sewing so they can learn the art of making their own dresses and other clothes.

MUSIC NEWS

By Danjaan Crandall

The band members started their year with a good day. First on their list was the election of officers. The president, Dean Fisher, led the meeting to elect the vice-president Douglas Wheaton and librarians Marion Milligan and Kent Harder.

After school Mr. Holden is getting the "Swing Band" under way. Several members of the faculty are helping the students by playing with them. Mr. Conde Mr. Carmody. and Miss Winkelman play with the students: Mary Lou Clarke, Marion Milligan, Thelma Mickle, Eunice Hall and Danjaan Crandall.

In the future you will probably hear their music at tea dances in our grand old school.

SONG TITLES

By Gay Rogers

What's your favorite song? This is the question I asked to a few A. C. S. students this week and here are a few favorites:

Clarice Nye: "My Happiness."
Billie Ryan: "Devils Dance."
Lois Ruger: "I Wanna Be Loved."
Mary Brown: "Once In A While."
Anita Nichols: "Sentimental Me."
Dick Hancock: "I Wish I Was Single Again."
Bill McNeill: "Mona Lisa."
Carl Atwell: "Wham, Bam, Thankyou Man."
Thelma Mickle: "Whisper to the Stars."
Laura Croyle: "Sentimental Me."

These are some of the songs but the one song that was most popular was "Goodnight Irene." This hit-parade song is a favorite of Neva Cury, Mary Lou Clarke, John Baker, Richard Davis and Marie Kemp

ADULT DRIVER TRAINING COURSE TO BE OFFERED

All adults who are interested in taking a course in driver training are requested to be at the school office Tuesday evening, Sept. 26, at 7:30 to register for the course.

Anyone over the compulsory school age and not attending full time school may enroll.

This course will start shortly after October 1 and will last ten weeks. It will be offered three times during the year. Each week there will be one class of instruction and one class of practice for each registered adult.

All adults who are interested in taking this course please attend the meeting because a class can not be started until the maximum number of 12 has been reached.

Mr. Larry Dodson, Richburg, who is hired by the County Vocational Board will be the instructor. The dual control car will be furnished by the Lester Chevrolet Co., of Wellsville.

THE GRANGE NEWSLETTER

by E. Payson Smith

CRUSADE FOR FREEDOM is well under way this week throughout our state, our nation and wherever there may be people who feel as we do: that the rights of men stem from their equal birth under God, and who are willing to resist aggression and tyranny wherever they appear on earth. Specifically, the program calls for the signing of a Scroll, hundreds of thousands of which will be written testimonials of free peoples to be made a permanent part of a Freedom Shrine at Tempelhor Airdome in Berlin. Featured here will also be a ten-ton replica of the Liberty Bell, "that this World, Under God, shall have a New Birth of Freedom."

Henry D. Sherwood, Master of New York State Grange, has been chosen a regional New York State director, General Lucius D. Clay is national chairman, with international headquarters in New York City.

COLD STORAGE food products in New York warehouses are likely to give a definite clue to our food reserves and for those who enjoy sharpening pencils to figure our economy, an important index. According to the September 1 report of the N. Y. S. Department of Agriculture and Markets the supply is greater, all across the board than a year ago, in dairy products, poultry, fish and frozen fruits and vegetables. Meat supplies are about the same.

We feel this bears out our contention here a few weeks ago when we predicted that our farmers would experience high prices for the goods they have to buy (which is squeezing them harder each day) long before there will be any comparable raise in what they can get for the goods they produce. Surpluses are not likely to disappear so rapidly, here and abroad, as they have in previous wars. Do not, however, be lulled into any false sense of security, for neither is there any attempt in sight to keep wages from spiralling.

STATE SESSIONS at Elmira last of October promises to hit a new high in attendance and a first rate program is shaping up. It has not been released in its entirety as yet. Interest, however, is shaping up in the Grange Bread Contest awards. The expensive array of prizes will be on display in the lobby of the convention headquarters hotel.

Could Do Their Own Cleaning

Farmer Jones, finding help scarce in his neighborhood, was forced to visit the city, where he finally obtained a man. The fellow proved exceedingly dull, but plodded along, stolidly obeying instructions. The third day Farmer Jones said:

"I want you to clean the pigsty and the stables and the henhouse and all the other houses of the stock."

The new hand worked vigorously for hours. Then he appeared before his employer with both eyes nearly closed, mouth swollen, and red lumps all over his face and neck and hands.

"Gimme my money," he said, "I'm a-goin' to quit."

"What's the matter?" asked the farmer.

"I don't know what's the matter," said the victom, "but it happened when I started to clean the beehive!"

Ouch!

As the dentist examined the teeth of a new patient with a swollen cheek, he inquired "Have you had any advice before with regard to your teeth?"

"Yes. I called on a druggist last night."

"Oh! What foolish advice did he give you?" the dentist asked.

"He told me to come here."

All the pupils in Mrs. Carmody's second grade have had perfect attendance all year except William Moag, Carol Eshenbaugh and Karen Stocking.

In Mrs. Tompkin's room Merton Geunug celebrated his birthday on September 20.

A third-grader, Claude Riffle visited his uncle near Buffalo.

In Mrs. Helmer's third and fourth grades Paul Reinard brought two spears which he had made to school. The class is making a study of cave people.

Carol Howard visited her aunt in Bliss over the week-end. Judy and Richard Baker had visitors from Falls Creek, Pa. and Charleston, W. Va.

All Miss Baker's fourth graders had perfect attendance last week.

Billy Slocum visited his aunt in Cuba Sunday.

In Miss Jordan's fifth grade Leo Burgett and Lynford O'Dell went to the peach country after peaches Sunday.

Miss Church's fifth and sixth graders have perfect attendance for the year so far.

The fifth grade Tigers are leading the sixth grade Phillies in their spelling contest by a score of 45 to 34.

Dennis Joyce attended the football game at St. Bonaventure.

In the sixth grade Dixie Appier and Beatrice Tidd celebrated birthdays on Sept. 19.

Dale Spencer has a new nephew named Randy Leroy Gallagher.

YOUR MANNERS ARE SHOWING

Did you know that:

When you have a date, just the two of you, and you sit in a double booth, the boy and girl should sit across the table from each other. When they are two couples, the boy and girl who are together should sit on the same side, facing the other couple.

It is proper for a girl to thank her dancing partner when the dance is over. Thanking your partner for a dance is a gracious friendly thing to do. Boys appreciate it.

A girl may thank a boy for a treat whenever she feels like it; when he orders it, after she's eaten it, or after he's paid for it. Don't worry about thanking him twice. There's no set time for anything like that.

At a program dance, the boy that you have just danced with should take you to the boy with whom you have the next dance. If he doesn't volunteer to do it, suggest it to him. If your partner for the next dance isn't on hand, he should wait with you until he shows up.

RECIPE

Are you having a party? If so candy would have to be sitting around on end tables. Here is this week's recipe:

Double Fudge

2 cups granulated sugar.
½ cup cream or rich milk.
2 ounces Baker's premium No. 1 chocolate.
1 tablespoon butter.

Boil seven minutes, then beat and spread in buttered pan to cool.

Then mix together:
2 cups brown sugar.
½ cup cream or rich milk.
1 teaspoon vanilla extract.
1 cup walnut meats (chopped fine).
3 tablespoons of butter.

Boil ten minutes, then beat and pour over the top of chocolate fudge already in pan. When cool cut into squares.
