Canadian Smog Stops Races at Wellsville Sunday

Canadian smog rolling in from the northwest forest fire scratched all entries in the last two stock car races at the Wellsville Raceway Sunday.

Earlier races were run as scheduled, but by 4 o'clock the drivers, by common consensus, agreed that it would be too dangerous to run off the 12-lap consolation and the 15-lap feature. From the judges' stand it was impossible to read a car number from any distance greater than 150 yards.

Sheldon Taylor, president of Corning's recently incorporated Stock Car Racing Association, announced to the 1,500 fans present that the scheduled races, the consolation and feature, would be run off as extra events during next Sunday's meet.

Despite the shortened program hot rod addicts in attendance were given a generous share of thrills and spills in the three preliminaries and two semi-finals. Lucky Cornish, Elmira, took the lead and held it for six laps in the second semi-final, although driving a car that had been badly crippled in a crackup in an earlier race. He placed second to Dean Layfield, Wellsville.

Winners in the five races were:

First preliminary, 8 laps, Whitey Gorsuch, Andover; 2nd preliminary, 8 laps, Don Howe, Lawrenceville, Pa.; 3rd, preliminary, 8 laps, Howie Brockway, Lawrenceville; first semi-final, 10 laps, Cletus Johnson, Portville, and second semi-final, 10 laps, Dean Layfield, Wellsville.

Starting time for next Sunday's races has been moved to 2 p. m., to allow for the two extra races. The association championship races are scheduled for October 8, it was announced.

More Gray Ladies Are Needed

A new class of Red Cross Gray Ladies will be given a training course at the Bath Veterans hospital the evenings of October 12, 19 and 26 from 7 to 10. There is an urgent need for more Gray Ladies, and applications are being accepted immediately so that it will be possible to have a personal interview before the class starts.

The first requirement demanded of volunteer workers is that they have "the art of helping people." Aside from a good physical condition, favorable home situation, and a pledge of at least 50 hours of service yearly, there are few tangible requirements to fulfill. Applications may be secured from the Wellsville Red Cross office, phone 873 or 704.

World War II Dependents Can Qualify For Social Security

Under the recent amendments to the Social Security Act, which became effective on September 1, 1950, widows, minor children, and dependent parents of deceased World War II veterans may now qualify for payments, according to Chester R. Norman, manager of the Jamestown Social Security office.

"This new section of the Social Security Act, giving wage credits for war-time military service," said Mr. Norman, "will enable us to reopen many old claims which had previously been disallowed for lack of sufficient employment. If we find that the credit for military service when added to the regular Social Security employment earnings of the serviceman is sufficient to establish an insured status, we may certify payment as soon as all other conditions such as proof of military service, age, relationship, etc., are met."

Farm Bureau Executive Sounds Warning

W. J. Wingert, chairman of the Allegany County Farm Bureau executive committee, said today that farmers are in one of the tightest squeezes that they have ever been.

Once again, he said, as they experienced in war days past, good farm labor is just not available. The call to the armed forces plus the growing demand on the part of essential industries, has dwindled the supply of good available men. Several months ago, married and single men were coming into the Farm Bureau office at the rate of five or six a week, but, at the present time the Farm Bureau does not have any requests for employment.

In several cases, he also pointed out, where farm boys that were in the reserves, are being called to active duty. This is a serious condition, Mr. Wingert said, and in the light of it he made these recommendations:

1. Farmers should survey their labor needs now and attempt to secure good, dependable help for the future.
2. Provide good, attractive quarters and privileges for a married man.
3. In case of a son, work out a partnership agreement with him that will serve as an incentive (this can also be used with a good hired man.)
4. Adopt labor saving methods and devices that might cut down on labor needed.
5. Keep draft boards fully informed as to status of deferments. Farm reports are available at the Farm Bureau office.
6. Every able bodied man, experienced, willing and desirous of a farm job should contact the Farm Bureau office.

The chairman went on to say that prices of materials farmers need to buy have gone up while farm produce prices are going down. Milk prices declined 20 per cent last year; poultrymen can only buy eleven pounds of feed with a dozen of eggs now, whereas last year they were able to buy 16 pounds of feed with a dozen of eggs. The same is also true of potatoes, maple syrup, etc.

This squeeze situation is not only bad for the experienced farmer but is most serious to the new farmer just starting out. In addition to that, he mentioned that some items are already termed scarce on the market. Mr. Wingert said this is no time for panicky buying or hoarding, but on the other hand suggested that farmers:

1. Not expand their business but try to maintain the size of business that is on a sound financial and efficient working basis.
2. Constantly try to improve rates of production.
3. Keep all farm machinery in good repair.
4. Establish a good credit rating.
5. Strive for better markets and supply it with better quality produce.
6. Keep informed and up-to-date on public policies and economic changes.

Mr. Wingert explained that he and the Farm Bureau executive committee, will be glad to know of any way that this farmers' organization can be of more help to the farmers and residents of this county.

The club earned about $65 at the Angelica fair. Kay Snyder and Sally Smith sent articles to the State fair. Norman Payne went to the State fair to judge chickens.

A good time was reported by those present at the meeting.

David Payne, Scribe

The total of 22,489,000 chickens being raised on New York State farms this season is eight per cent less than in 1949 and about the same as the average from 1939 to 1948.
