The Allegany County Sunday School Convention, which was held at Friendship the 14th and 15th ult., resulted in giving to the society a net profit of $3.30. Their total receipts was from the evening of song, which amounted to $221.70. Their expenditures were as follows: Phillip Phillips, $100.00; Rev. Geo. A. Felts, 75.00; R&H. Heim, printing, 24.50; Postage and Telegraph, 10.10; Janitor, 3.00; Express charges 1.00. The newly elected officers are Rev. E. Jay Cooke, Cuba, President; L. S. Anderson, Wellsville, Treasurer; C. P. Arnold, Angelica, Secretary.

Mr. John Russell has his house enclosed, and the work of completion is going rapidly forward. When completed it will add largely to the appearance of that end of Schuyler Street.—Those who saw Schuyler Street from Mr. Isaac Willets' residence to the bridge, two years ago, can fully comprehend the improvement since that time. It is now completely built up to the river, and in time will receive many improvements, by way of ornaments. To Mr. Charles Marvin and Mr. Russell are we indebted for this.—[Alleganian.

An exchange states that a locomotive on the D. L. & W. Railroad pulled one hundred and eighty coal jimmies from Chenango Forks to Great Bend the other day. It was done on a wager, and was the largest train ever hauled over the road. Such trains are not uncommon on the Susq. Division of the Erie. On one occasion the 443 brought 190 Erie coal dumps to Waverly, from Hornellsville, and since then has brought 165 gondolas here, which railroad men class as drawing harder than two coal dumps each. This would equal a train of at least 210 dumps.—[Waverly Enterprise.

A glass of whiskey is manufactured from about seventy grains of corn, the value of which is too small to be estimated. A glass of this mixture sells for a dime, and if a good brand is considered worth the money. It fires the brain, deranges and weakens the system. On the same sideboard on which the deleterious beverage is served, lies a newspaper. It is covered with half a million of types—it brings intelligence from the four quarters of the globe. The newspaper costs less than the glass of grog but is no less true that a large number of people who imink corn-juice cheap and newspapers dear.—Reader, think. [—Ex.

The freaks of the cow catcher are sometimes very singular, in the early part of the week as No. 1 was blowing along beyond Andover at the rate of 30 miles an hour a dog ran on the track and run along ahead of the train but No. 1 was too much for him, and Ed. Gilbert the engineer and Nate Howard saw him finally scooped up. After reaching Genesee about nine miles beyond, they went to the front of the engine and they there found the dog tightly jammed in between the pilot brace but so tight he could not be stirried. Procuring a board they spring the brace open sufficient to release him when he ran around there as lively as ever entirely unhijured after his novel experience.—[Hornellsville Tribune.

The Olean Times has the following: Arthur Moore, a young boy 12 years of age, and son of Geo. Moore, living on Washington st. in this village, was burned, by the explosion of a kerosene can, on Tuesday afternoon last. He had been gathering potato bugs, and intended to destroy them, got a kerosene can and poured some oil on them, setting it on fire. The blaze communicated to the can, which he was holding in his hand, and it exploded, the oil scattering over his clothing and setting it on fire. His mother heard him scream and rushed out and smothered the fire by showing a blanket over him. A portion of the flesh and skin on one side of his body sloughed off. Dr. Follett was summoned who administered the proper remedies for his relief. Although badly burned he will recover.

President Jewett accompanied by Messrs. Blanchard, Chadeayne and Clark, arrived here on a special train from Buffalo, on Monday, between one and two P. M. After a good dinner gotten up by Mr. Rodgers, these gentlemen, with Station Agent Belknap, made a tour of the yard and viewed the possessions of the company in this place.—About 4 P. M. the special train bore the distinguished visitors east. The visit was purely one of inspection, and the short time at this point is so arranged that it could be opened and the gentleman thus have an uninterrupted view of the road as they ride. President Jewett is spoken of as a business-like man and rather prepossessing. The road we learn is to be managed according to the old and economical plan, numerous red-tape and ornamental officials being retired. Division Superintendents will now be held solely and wholly responsible for their respective divisions, and have therefore a commensurable increase of power. Another change to be made is in regard to "lay-over" tickets; this certainly will be good news to the traveling public.—[Hornellsville Times.

Some malicious devils have for some time past been annoying Mrs. Watson, a widow lady in West Almond, who owns a farm and has it worked by Mr. V. A. Potter. Her fences have been torn down, her well-strap cut, some goslings thrown into a spring, &c.; and a short time since, as Mr. Potter commenced one day to draw some hay into the barn, a little son of Mrs. Watson ran to open the barn door, and as he swung the heavy door open it fell from its position, and as the boy sprang to get out of its way it struck his back, knocking him down and fastening him under the door. Mr. Potter soon released him, but he was unable to stand, and Dr. Smith being called, it was soon ascertained that the spine was so injured that he has no feeling below the injured part, no use of his limbs and cannot recover, though he may linger in misery for some months, or perhaps years. The barn door had been taken from its hinges and so placed that it would fall as soon as an attempt was made to open it. The insernate fiends have accomplished their work, and are probably now satisfied. To hang them to the nearest tree, would be no more than justice.—[Angelica Republican.

The other day we were shown a portable Ironing-table and Cloths Basket by the Patentee, Mr. Larkin, of Almond, which we should pronounce a little ahead of anything we ever saw of the kind. It is everything necessary for ironing purposes, Cloths-bars, table and basket, complete as one article. It is what every family needs and should have, as it will save a good deal of hard work for the women. Mr. Larkin will have them for sale in this place in a few days. Price only $4 50.

Picnic.

The Good Templars of this place will hold a moonlight picnic in the Dr. Baker Grove, on the evening of the 25th inst. A general good time is expected.

New Bridge.

Our Commissioners have completed the new bridge across Dykes Creek on Main street, and it is a good one, with a side walk upon one side of it. The Bridge is well put up and painted. There is but one fault, and that is the way that it is set, being out of line of the road.

Belvidere Lodge, I. O. of G. T.

At a meeting of Belvidere Lodge, I. O. of G. T. held July 25th, the following officers were elected for the ensuing quarter: W. C. T., P. W. Coyle W. V. T., Mrs. S. P. Bingham; W. S., E. Whitcomb; W. Andover School.

Our Board of Education have hired Prof. Burdick and lady of Little Genesee to take charge of the School for the coming year. A young lady by the name of Miss Ratter it is expected will take charge of the intermediate Department, Miss Nellie Bundy has been hired again to teach the primary Department. Mr. Burdick comes well recommended as a teacher and a man. We hope that the selection made by Board will prove entirely Satisfactory to all concerned.

Burglary.

The house of Daniel T. Graves, about two miles south of Squire Boyds, was broken into on Tuesday morning between 2 and 3 o'clock. The burglar or burglars took from his pants pocket a pocket-book containing a $2 bill and a little change, he took the stamps and left the book; he also took a watch that hung upon a nail at the head of the bed, valued at about $10. He then went into the pantry and helped himself to bread, cake, meat, &c. and left the house without disturbing any person.

Under Strange Circumstances

A Mr. Micheal Cannon, one day last week received some money in this place for some cattle amounting to about $40 and started on his way home, a little fall of the "critter," in company with Thomas Gwyn, and soon descovered that he had lost the money, and a search along the track where they had been, was commenced but to no purpose.—Mr. Chase, firing at the Tannery, after making inquiries as to what was lost went out upon the track and found the money rolled up in a white paper, which he had seen Mr. Gwyn throw down at the side of the track. The question is "Who stole the money?"

Car Shop Killed.

Last night the night watchman at Suspension Bridge, Canadian side, discovered a man attempting to steal some silk from a Great Western freight car, and caught the fellow. The thief threw the box at the watchman, knocked him down and shot at him with a revolver, but without effect. The watchman then drew his revolver and shot the thief through the body, killing him instantly. The name of the thief is Durham. There was considerable excitement over the affair. We learned the particulars from a passenger who came down this morning.—[Rochester Express, Aug. 7th.

A Disgraceful Row.

Some pugilistically inclined individuals, filled with benzine, got into an altercation on Sunday evening at about 7 1-2 o'clock, at the saloon of F. Behrns near the depot. Mr. Behrns procured the services of officer Dowdney, who made the arrest of the principals, two worthies from Belmont, and while on his way to the lock-up and opposite Sarsfields Hotel, he was set upon by a lot of roughs, one holding Mr. Dowdney's arms while the others rescued his prisoners and kicked him in a disgraceful manner. Warrants are out for the whole gang. If we are not mistaken in the make up of Mr Dowdney these disturbers of the peace will be followed to the end of the law, and punished as their crime deserves. And here is a question for our authorities to take into consideration. Where did these men get their liquor, and that too on the Sabbath? Let an example be made of them that will be lasting.—[Reporter.

Educational.

The Teachers' Institue opens on Monday next, at Angelica. All teachers who arrive at Belvidere on that day will be carried to Angelica free. The Institute promises to be one of more than ordinary interest, and it is earnestly hoped that every teacher in the county will avail themselves of its advantages. A very able corps of instructors has been secured and State Superintendent Gilmour has given positive assurance that he will be present part of the time. He proposes to visit as many Institutes as possible and satisfy himself by personal inspection whether the Institutes are efficiently conducted and then mark teachers for absence.—Teachers of Allegany, take heed and govern yourself accordingly.

Advertising.

Some one has been looking up the subject of advertising, and is responsible for the statement that about $9,000,000 are paid to the New York papers for that purpose. Of this sum the Herald receives upward of $2,000,000, or about $6,000 a day; the Staats Zeitung, $1,825,000; the Times, $1,460,000, and so on down to some of the more obscure sheets, none of which receive less than $100,000. He has also examined the ledgers of several leading firms, and reports that advertising costs A. T Stewart $500,000 a year; Lord and Taylor $225,000; Arnold & Constable $175,000; Robert Bonner $200,000; Babbitt, the soap man, $225,000, while Barnum pays out every year about $400,000. These are solemn and suggestive facts, which we ask our readers to ponder over in the solitude of their chambers.

A Law Question Settled.

The New York Court of Appeals has recently decided that a man has no right to the fruit growing upon the branches overhanging his land, where the trunk of the tree stands wholly upon the land of his neighbor. But the law regards the overhanging branches as a nuisance, and they may be removed as such, or the owner of the land shaded may remove them, if he is careful not to commit any wanton or unnecessary destruction in so doing. Where the trunk of the tree stands on the line, they have a joint ownership in the tree and fruit, and neither one has a right to remove it without the consent of the other.

The question, which has been the source of much litigation and many personal quarrels, is now finally settled by the court of last resort, and interested parties can now know their rights and also their remedies in all such cases, as they arise in future.

What Was It.

On the morning of the 26th ult., a phenomenon was witnessed by those who were early risers, the sublimity of which is difficult to describe. The firmament was in a blaze of light, so strong and brilliant that it cast shadows on objects around. This commenced before sunrise and lasted till it disappeared at the brighter rays of the rising sun. Soon after sunrise a perfect rainbow was visible in the west.

It may be too strong an expression, but to me it was "awfully sublime," and impressed on my mind the possibility that it might be the train of the comet! That such a thing should sweep over our earth at the velocity of a million of miles an hour and leave us unharmed, reminded me of the song of praise of the inspired Psalmist:

"Great and marvelous are Thy works, Lord God Almighty!
Just and true are Thy ways Thou King of Saints!"

Who Lies?

The Little Genesee postmaster takes offence at our article two weeks ago in regard to that office, and answers it through the Friendship Register, in which he denies our charge, and challenges us to produce any letters sustaining our charges. We will give him one, but first will allude to a case last fall, a Mrs. Burdick, who has taken our paper for some time. We would ask the said postmaster if he did not make her the offer, that if she would discontinue our paper he would give her the Wellsville Times for one year, and that our paper was sent back from that office without any authority. Here is one letter:

LITTLE GENESEE, Allegany Co.,
July 5th, 1874.

Messrs. BARNARD & GALATIAN.—I received a copy of your paper after you went in with the Free Press, and supposed you would continue it. Has any one ordered it discontinued? The P. M. wanted to but I told him not to do it.

Respectfully yours,
MATTHEW GREENE.

The paper sent to the above address was sent back to this office, marked—"discontinue." Will the P. M. rise and explain? Let us see where the lie is.

Family Reunion.

Everybody in this section of country has heard of "Uncle Abner Huntley," of Cuba, who has lived to the ripe old age of 107 years, and many are the stories told of which he has been the central and conspicuous figure. Tues day last he reached the remarkable age of 107 years, and the event was celebrated by a reunion of his family, relatives and friends, at the residence of W. H. Simens, whose wife is Mr. Huntley's grand-daughter. About 50 persons, from all sections of the country, gathered together to pay their respects to this man of a former generation, whose early life was associated with the stirring events of the American Revolution.—There were present, 9 of his grand-children, and 4 of his great-grandchildren. Being asked how many grandchildren he had he remarked with a smile, that he couldn't tell—it would be impossible for him to enumerate them.

The old gentleman was in excellent spirits, and related some entertaining stories of his early life. He was very sociable, and his memory of events in the early history of our country was truly remarkable. In fact, his memory of incidents in the dim past is better than of events that have transpired within the past few years. He brought with him a pair of swifts as a specimen of his handiwork in his old age, they having been made by him within the past year. He is able to walk about

J. A. Travis has purchased a house and lot near the village, and will while he is not engaged at Washington, make this place his residence.

In passing along the street this forenoon, I saw a lady, the mistress of one our Palatial residence engaged in pedaling the flooring of the front stoop. She called my attention to the fact and requested me to put it in the next weeks paper. How to express it in language that would be suitable, I know not. Probably comments from me would be unnecessary.

I have no news of any importance to give you although I have hunted the whole week, but if anything does happen I will go for it like a hawk for a June-bug and let you know quicker.

GRAPHO.

SOTO, Aug. 11th, 1874.

MESSRS BARNARD & GALATIAN.—As I have seen nothing in your paper from here in some time, I thought I would inclose you a few items.

Improvement seems to be the order of the day, at present, here in the village, while farmers are doing their haying and harvesting. A. J. Applebee & Co. and Benjamin Palmer have been putting some new floors into their stores, which add very much to their appearance, and I should think they would add fully as much to their conveniana. Neighbor Hughs, (J. C.) has raised his barn up so as to build another "ridder," and is also building an addition on the north side of it, the entire length.

C. S. Clark is having a side walk built in front of his house on both streets, and on the north side of his store, and I think that the many pedestrians who pass that way will bless him for the latter, for it has been in a very bad condition for a long time past. Some of the Sunday School here are making preparations for a picnic, Aug. 19th, to be held on the Vandermark Creek, about two miles east of this village, where I hope to partake of a full meal again, as I always do on such occasions. I understand there is to be some four or five schools present, and a general good time is looked forward to.

John Simons Esq. and daughter start for Michigan to-day, to be gone five or six weeks, visiting friends there, and to be there during the peach harvest.

The Rev. M. D. Jackson is away this week and next, attending the Sunday School Assembly at Chautauqua Lake.

The friends of the late Col. Adams are erecting a very fine monument of Scotch Granite as a token of their respect to him, costing nearly fifteen hundred dollars. I will endeavor to give you a description of it at some future date, when it is completed.

Yours as heretofore,
JOHN.

Elmira Correspondence.

A Ramble in the Country.

Every year during the summer months the exodus of people from our cities become larger and more complete, and the stay in the country longer and more healthfully employed in taking in fresh air, and partaking of rural interests and occupations. Here is to be found ample employment for the surplus undergraduate muscle that in old times was wont to develop itself in wringing off door knockers, carrying away gates, and transporting live stock to the upper stories of college buildings. Of late years it has been expended in boat races, running matches and a course in Gymnasium. But why we ask should it not be made of profitable benefit. Harvest comes during the long vacation, and the youth who has nodded over Homer and Plato, Zenophon and Virgil, might accomplish a great deal of good by swinging a grain cradle and a sythe, wielding the flail, or heaping up hay. Let the "Freshes" and "Sophs." of our colleges take this matter under advisement, and as this is an age of so called reform, let us witness a great reform in this direction.

But returning to the original thought. This is the time of year we go to see our country Cousins. We go to the country whether we have any kindred there or not; boarding at country taverns, or in private dwellings. And what a luxury it is to look somewhat further than across the street, at the front of a grocery or hardware store, off to the mountains; over long reaches of fields and meadows; to walking no longer on hot pavements, jostled by crowds; to walk on the soft green grass; to find or make an acquaintance in every one we meet; to hear the lowing of cows at evening, or the distant tinkling of their bells, and what is far better, to make a supper out of good warm sweet milk and a luscious loaf of mothers good home made bread; to see the hay-makers at work in the hay fields, and their heavy laden wagons coming up through the lot to be unladen in great barns. Some will not enjoy sights and sounds o rural life; but others that go out from the cities find nothing more sweet and refreshing. The habits and manners of city life are more and more carried with their fullest influences into the country from year to year, by many of this increased journeying from city to country and by many of our easy ways of intercourse. Young farmers play croquet whenever the work of the farm permits; dances are begun as late in tavern halls in the evening as in cities and continue as late in the evening or morning.—Railroads tend to destroy the difference between city and country, and to produce a hollow-cheeks people.

But homogenous as comparatively our city and country population gets to be, there is room for a great impression still which is made by the outpouring of city upon country life. The artificial life of the city will greatly affect those who have been accustomed only to rural simplicities and economies.

What impression do young country lads and misses receive from observing the ways of boys and girls from the city! Mothers in the country dress their children up when city folks are coming, and try to put them on their good behavior, but city mothers have become wise enough not to dress their children up, as the phrase is to go into the country. They make a collection of their old clothes and care little how they look, so they live out doors, tumble about in the hay fields, go burrying in the woods.

They go to the barn and feed the lions,
Milk the cows, and catch the lambs,
And ride the calves, and pull the colts,
They make their way down to the beach,
Wade and swim, then dig clams,
Pretty soon they catch a trout.

The commerce of city and country is to result on the whole in vast good. We are usually on our behavior in the middle of new people of lives different from our own. If city people who carry their so called graces and refinements into the country in their way, they will doubtless learn much also, and go home with improvements that have been taught by Farmers wives and farmers young men and maidens. The Oneida Community have been struck—not by the comet or any part there of, but by a sudden freak of "morality" in refusing to have a gift excursion on their premises. This seems a little singular, inasmuch as they resort to a lottery practice, or ticket drawing to select their companions for the night. This institution has shipped the present season to the eastern markets, 400,000 quarts of the finest strawberrys.

Governor Dix is the owner of 6,000 acres of land in the town of Brookfield Madison county, and nearly 3,000 acres in the town of Sangerfield Oneida county. An agent acts for the Governor in looking after these extensive tracts of land.

AJAX.

From Salamanca.

We take the following from a correspondence to the Elmira Advertiser:

The people of this town are still greatly excited over the burglary of John Hill's store, at West Salamanca, on the evening of August 4th. The excitement, however, is mainly due to recent developments which strongly implicate several parties in Steamburg as accessory to the crime, or rather conniving to allow the guilty parties to escape. The facts of the case, briefly stated, are these: Wednesday afternoon, subsequent to the robbery, a suspicious character was arrested in Randolph, by one Robert V. Nutting, a resident of Steamburg. The prisoner was taken to Steamburg the same evening and placed in the care of a constable by the name of Clayton Lyons, and brought to this place Thursday morning. A pocket book was found upon his person which was identified as one belonging to Mr. Hill. Also one of the watches was found in his possession, and the evidence was so strong against him that he was one of the persons who entered the store and rifled the contents of the safe. He also took the constable to the place where the papers were delivered over to Mr. Hill, and the reward which had been offered for their return ($25) was paid over to Mr. Lyons. Owing to some trouble in getting witnesses, the prisoner's examination was prolonged to Saturday, and during that time the air began to be filled with rumors, rather derogatory to the constable and Mr. Nutting, and finally it was thought advisable to put the prisoner in charge of another constable, and he was accordingly placed in charge of Mr. Lyons, of this place. We should have stated before, that only $2 or $3 was found in his possession when arrested, according to the statement of constable Lyons.

As soon as Mr. Charlesworth took the prisoner in his possession he made a statement to the effect that he had paid Lyons and Nutting some $70 or $80, in consideration of which they had promised to let him escape at several different times, and had failed to keep their promise but were in possession of the stamps. A person in Randolph also overheard conversation to the effect, and many other suspicious things made such a chain of circumstances that Lyons and Nutting were arrested and brought to this place Sunday, and their examination commenced Monday afternoon.

The burglar's examination closed yesterday forenoon, and he was held to await the action of the grand jury.

The only evidence therefore taken in Nutting and Lyons' examination is the burglar's. He stated that his name was Henry Burgess, and lived in Lincinnatti; that he was arrested by Mr. Nutting in Randolph, and taken by wagon to Steamburg; that on his way there he asked Nutting how he was fixed financially, and offered him $60 cash down to let him escape, and would fix it so as to give him $2,000 more within two or the weeks. To this proposition he claimed Nutting consented. After taking him to Steamburg, he returned to Randolph the same night and was in charge of Clayton Lyons. The same overtures were made to him and he consented. He had already given Nutting $40 and then gave Lyon $35 more. For one reason or another they failed to come to time as according to agreement, and he was fetched to Salamanca. Here he says various plans for escape were agreed upon, but all of them fell through, until he was placed in another constable's hands, when all his hopes were blasted, and he concluded to let out upon them. The case is exciting much attention and various surmises as to the results are indulged in. It is said there is strong corroborative evidence, which will be resumed again this morning at 9 o'clock.

Lyons is a young man connected with a respectable family, and was supposed to be perfectly honest. Nutting is a married man, of good reputation, and it seems an impossibility to believe that they are guilty of the charges preferred against them, but time will tell.

Burgess is a young man about twenty-four, good looking, and is evidently not a very old safe-opener. His accomplices has not been found. He states that he belongs to a gang but refuses to divulge anything further. He says they expected to get a large quantity of bonds, which they were informed were in Mr. Hill's possession.

A full set of burglars' tools were found with the papers, but were kept secreted by Mr. Lyons until late Thursday evening. C. P. F.

The Allegany Co. Teachers' Institute

For the year 1874, will open Monday August 17th at the Court House in the village of Angelica, and will continue two weeks.

Prof. Wm. J. Milne, President of the State Normal School at Genesee, N. Y., will conduct the Institute, assisted by Prof. P. Miller, Principal of the Friendship Academy, Principal Frank R. Wells, of the Cuba Graded School, and Principal M. R. Crowell, of the Genesee Valley Seminary and Union School, at Belfast. It is expected that a lady of experience as a teacher, both in the Common and the Normal School will also aid in the work of the Institute.

A course of valuable lectures by prominent educators has been arranged, and teachers in regular attendance will receive tickets entitling them to reserved seats each evening during the session.

The Teachers' Institute is to all teachers a valuable, and to many the only means of assistance in the faithful discharge of the important duties of the year, and it is expected that all earnest teachers will endeavor to improve the opportunities of the August session of the Institute.

Attentive attention at a Teachers' Institute is considered an important mark of qualification in a candidate for Teacher's certificate. All who attend should be present every day of the session. If impossible to attend during the two weeks, teachers should certainly attend the first week in preference to the last, but it is hoped that all will be able to be present during the entire session.

Teachers whose schools will not have closed at the time of the Institute, will be given the whole of the time spent at the Institute, without deducting any from their wages for the time so spent."

Board will be furnished at hotels and private houses at $3.00 per week.

Text books will be needed for reference.

It is hoped that arrangements can be effected for bringing teachers from Belvidere Station to Angelica on the first day of the session, and return them on the last day, free of charge.

Trustees are invited to be present and select their teachers for the winter term, and learn many ways in which they may assist the efforts of our teachers to make our schools better.

The Commissioners take this opportunity to announce that the annual examination for the award of the Allegany County Free Scholarship in the Cornel University, the cash value of which is $180, will be held at the Court House in Angelica, Monday, Aug. 24th, at 2 p. m. The Scholarship will be awarded to any eligible candidate who shall exhibit the best qualifications in common school studies.

WALTER D. RENWICK,
School Commissioners.
