Proof Positive

The teacher had been giving a reading on the anatomy of the body.

"Now, you see," she said, "the trunk is in the middle part of the body. You understand that, don't you?"

All the children except one chorused, "Yes, ma'am."

"You understand it, too?" asked the teacher of the little boy who had not spoken with the others.

"It's not so, ma'am," answered little Stephen.

"Why," said the teacher in astonishment "what do you mean?"

"Well," replied the boy earnestly, "you ought to go to the circus and see the elephant."

Mental Health Institute Creating Much Interest

Western New York is becoming greatly interested in Allegany county's pioneer Mental Health Institute, to be held in Wellsville October 19, it was shown this week as acceptances came in from guidance and public welfare personnel in Steuben, Cattaraugus and several other neighboring counties.

The institute, which will run all day beginning with free registration at 9:30 a. m., in the Nancy Howe auditorium, is designed to present to parents, teachers, the clergy, and social workers a birdseye view of "Mental Health in Everyday Living."

Nationally known speakers and writers on mental hygiene have been secured for the institute, which has been endorsed by the Allegany County Medical Society, School Administrators' Association, Health and Tuberculosis Association, Committee on Children and Public Welfare, and the Wellsville PTA Council and American Association of University Women.

The institute will feature at the morning session a panel discussion with Dr. E. W. Briggs of Wellsville as moderator, on the general topic "Mental Health in the Community." The subject will be presented as seen by a social worker, a clergyman, a teacher, a parent, and a physician.

Those taking part will be Mrs. Dorothea Bergerson, county children's agent; the Rev. Albert N. Rogers, pastor of the Second Seventh Day Baptist Church of Alfred Station; Mrs. Helen Humphrey, of Hornell High School; Mrs. E. K. Kline of Cuba, and Dr. Edwin F. Comstock, president of the County Medical Society.

Following the morning program there will be a luncheon at the Gold Room of the Hotel Fassett at noon. Featured speaker will be Dr. Luther P. Woodward, coordinator of the Community Health Services of the New York Commission on Mental Health. His subject will be "The Mental Health Situation in New York State Today." Tickets for the luncheon are $1.25.

In the afternoon the session will be presided over by William T. Beaty, education secretary of the Committee on Mental Health of the State Charities Aid Association. A dramatic sketch "The Ins and Outs" will be presented by Wellsvills high school students under the direction of Miss Joyce Forsythe.

Following the sketch, Mrs. Beatrice W. Lamm, former director of the Day Care Division for the New York City Department of Public Welfare, will conduct a general discussion of the problem presented.

Complete programs for the institute are now ready, and may be obtained by writing to the Secretary, Mental Health Committee, 44 Schuyler street, Belmont.

In Safe Hands

"Where were you yesterday, Tommy?" asked the teacher.

"Please, mum, I had a toothache," replied Tommy.

"Has it stopped?" asked the teacher sympathetically.

"I don't know."

"Why, what do you mean, my boy? You don't know if your tooth has stopped aching?"

"No, mum, the dentist kept it."

Stock Car Trophy Race Postponed Due to Rain

A combination of driving rain and a treacherous track forced officials Sunday afternoon at the Wellsville Raceway to postpone the 40-lap championship stock car trophy race until next Sunday afternoon, October 15. All drivers had qualified prior to the downpour.

The trophy event will be the first race on next Sunday's program, which will also include the regular 20-lap feature contest.

Next Sunday will also be cash award day at the raceway when 25 prizes of not less than $2.00 each will be given on the basis of ticket numbers.

In the first semi-final of the qualifying races, car 23, driven by Milo Moland of Wellsville, crashed into the fence on the second lap and rolled over tearing down about 40 feet of the wooden plank barrier. A section of the fence was driven through his right front fender and over the front spring and shock absorber arm. To remove the section of plank it was necessary to use both a jeep and a tow car in a tug-of-war act. Moland escaped injury in the wreck.

Walt Babbitt of Wellsville, running a close second and pushing very hard at the time of the crash, took the lead and held it until the finish line. The real race was between Hal Brott of Wellsboro, Pa., and Don Howe, Lawrenceville, Pa., who fought side by side around the turns and down the straightways, for third place. Brott, making his final bid in the last lap, spun out letting Howe take third and Curly Hatfield of Elmira squeeze in for fourth place. Cletus "Bud" Johnson of Olean, had no competition for second place, after moving up fast early in the race.
