WANT TO STAY ALIVE?

by Eunice Hall

All of you teen-age drivers are interested in the art of driving.

You should be better drivers than adults are since your reflexes are quicker. In fact, it's because you're good drivers that this whole driving problem has been created. Because you have the physical strength, courage and ingenuity to drive a modern car, some of you are tempted to drive fast and to take chances.

In doing something about this whole situation of reckless driving, girls have a special responsibility. Because of their influence on the boys they date, girls can help a lot. If the girl friend lets us believe that she considers reckless driving "cute" and exciting—up goes the speedometer. On the other hand, if she is the kind of gal who admires intelligence and judgment in her Romeo, and makes that apparent, obviously, to please her and make her like him, he'll comply with her wishes. You know, girls, Don Juan didn't have a jalopy and he did all right, so it puts the problem up entirely up to you.

Following are the eight Good Driving Resolutions:

1—That, knowing insofar as the law is concerned, your acts in using the car are the acts of your father, you will try to drive it as carefully and cautiously as he does.

2—That, because you are fully aware of the risks involved in driving after drinking, you will not allow the car to be driven by anyone who has been drinking any form of intoxicating liquor while the car is in your charge.

3—That you fully realize the car is not a plaything, but a machine which has power to kill and to injure, and you will not try to show off with it.

4—That you will not drive it at any time in excess of the speed limit.

5—That you will slow down and look both ways at all intersections.

6—That you will not race with other cars.

7—That you will not attempt to drive if you feel sleepy.

8—That you will obey all signs street and highway markings, signal lights, and other traffic regulations.

HARVEY

By Ann Wood

I start down the stairs to go to assembly when I suddenly feel something on my shoulder. I look around and who should it be but Harvey!

We go in and sit down and wait for assembly to begin. Harvey starts calling Carol Nye, "Gene" He tells Mary Jane Sackett he likes her hair cut short and then starts pulling it.

At last the play begins. Harvey laughs when Amy's father tells all about her husband's life. For a few moments Harvey stops laughing and wishes that he could have a toupee too.

When the play is over Harvey asks Virginia Kibbe what she finds so interesting at the skating rink every Saturday night. Then he sees Kent Harder and teases him about Martha McCartney.

I almost drag him upstairs but on the way up he sees that Ruth Atwell has Arling Perry's ring on. When Harvey finds out that the eighth grade is having a Hallowe'en party and the freshman are planning a skating party he hopes that he will be the first person there and the last to leave both parties.

Valuable Man

"My son went to the United States ten years ago to make his fortune."

"And what is he worth now?"

"I really don't know for certain, but the state of New York is offering $20,000 for information about him."

SENIOR DINNER NETS $50

The senior roast pork dinner held October 12 netted $50.

Approximately 135 people were served. The girls serving were: Caroline Briggs, Teresa Joyce, Alice Bostick, Ruby Ordiway, Maxine Baker, Marcella Smith, Pat Sackett, Eunice Hall, Donna Nobles and Agnes Davis.

The senior class wishes to thank those who patronized the dinner and those who helped especially the two mothers, Mrs. Fisher and Mrs. Briggs.

TOT SPOT

By Mary Brown

The kindergarteners in Mrs. Robison's room will miss Kenneth Peters who has moved out of Andover.

The boys in this room had perfect attendance during the past week.

Miss Evans reports that her tots have two new gold fish which the pupils like to watch.

Mrs. Connor's first grade enjoyed a field trip in science class when they were studying seeds. These pupils are also filling a junior Red Cross box.

Brian Frizell's mother from Brooklyn was a Friday visitor in the room.

James Appier may be heard proudly telling his classmates about getting his hair cut at "Joseph's."

Lou Loescher brought some plants for the room.

John Hunt, who was six years old October 17, treated his grade to ice cream and cup cakes on his birthday.

Mrs. Hall's first graders had perfect attendance last week.

All of the fifth graders in room 203 have perfect attendance for the year.

The president of "Our Good Citizen Club" appointed the following committees for a Hallowe'en party:

Games: Clarence Halsey, James Harvey and Keith Howland.

Refreshments: Richard Smith, Donald Howard, Freda Kupp and Lois Pelton.

Decorations: Sylvia Clark and Lois Pelton.

Cleaning up: Merle Brown and Ronald Glover.

The fifth grade spelling team with Keith Howland as captain defeated the sixth grade team whose captain was James Harvey. The score was 149 to 105.

Carolyn Brundage went to Rexville, Whitesville and Greenwood over the week-end.

Miss Jordan's room is filling three American Junior Red Cross boxes. The room is divided into teams for this week. The leaders of these teams are David Loescher, Anna Davis and George Mather. The first team to fill a box wins the contest.
