HEALTH FOR ALL

This column is sponsored, in the interest of better health, by the Allegany Health & Tuberculosis Association, 44 Schuyler St., Belmont, N. Y.

TB—An Economic Waste

In waging war against tuberculosis, we are thinking first of all of the needless suffering and deaths caused by this disease.

But there is another consideration, too—the economic cost, which points up the seriousness of the tuberculosis problem in the United States.

Tuberculosis in the U. S. is estimated to cost more than $35,000,000 annually. Included in this estimate is the cost to public and private agencies for the care of patients, case-finding activities, public health nursing, rehabilitation, treatment by private physicians, hospital maintenance, aid to families whose wage earners are ill, medical research and pensions to tuberculous veterans.

But the estimate does not include the cost of broken homes, lost wages, and decreased production, which are a part of the tremendous toll exacted by tuberculosis. These costs run so high that they defy attempts at estimation.

Although it can and does strike at any age, tuberculosis kills more young people between 15 and 35 than any other disease—people in the most productive years of their lives. It costs 1,500,000 potential years of life and deprives the nation of approximately 1,000,000 working years annually.

These losses mean needless waste, because tuberculosis can be prevented and controlled. One of the first steps in the control of the disease is to find all persons with TB and see that treatment is provided for them. It is estimated there are about 500,000 persons with tuberculosis in this country, but only half of these are known to health authorities. Many of the others—a quarter of a million people—do not even know they are ill, for TB has no obvious symptoms in its early stage and may go unnoticed until it has advanced.

In the search for "unknown" TB the principal weapon is the chest x-ray. By means of a chest x-ray TB can be detected before its symptoms are apparent. Thus, every adult should get a chest x-ray at least once a year.

Organ Concert at Little Genesee

Carl Coleman, leading Buffalo organist, plans to bring portable chimes to add to the tonal color of the organ concert he is to present at the Little Genesee Seventh Day Baptist Church on Wednesday, November 1, at 8 p. m.

Further variety is planned by the inclusion of piano-organ duets, flute solos and vocal selections.

Mr. Coleman studied under leading organists of Chicago, coming to Buffalo in 1927. Since he has been organist of the Great Lakes Theatre, Churchill Tabernacle, Buffalo Broadcasting Company, and at present is organist and choirmaster of the Pilgrim Congregational Church and staff organist for the Wurlitzer Company.

While organist of Buffalo Broadcasting Company he enjoyed a large following and many of his 'fans' in this vicinity will be glad to hear him again and in person. There will be no admission charge but an offering will be taken.

County Public Welfare Committee Seeks Funds

The Allegany County Public Welfare Committee of the State Charities Aid Association, which as a private citizens' group works for the well-being of Allegany County, has started its third annual campaign for funds throughout the county, it was announced yesterday by Dr. Roland L. Warren, president of the committee and Professor of Sociology at Alfred University.

The campaign is under the immediate direction of Knight Thornton, Wellsville, who is treasurer of the committee.

Dr. Warren, in appeal letters to residents of the county, has outlined the committee's accomplishments in its work for underprivileged children and residents of the county home. The letter stresses that financial support is sought not only to continue the committee's activities, but also to achieve two new objectives: the establishment of a fund for the payment of small weekly allowances to children in foster care in order to reduce the difference between these children and the rest of the community; and the purchase of a motion picture projector for the County Home, for which the committee has voted to apply at least one-tenth of its funds.

"We are happy that we have brightened the old people's lives and the children's in ways that the county authorities cannot do," the letter says. "With your help we can continue."

Regular activities which the committee hopes to carry on in the coming year are the purchase of Christmas presents for children under institutional care, and giving Christmas allowances to children in foster homes so that they may purchase presents for others in furtherance of the Christian tradition of giving.

The committee also maintains a discretionary fund which permits the county welfare department to provide special services for children whose special requirements cannot be met solely with public funds. Each year the committee holds a picnic for foster mothers and children under their care. With the help of the students of Houghton College, the committee is carrying on a recreational program at the county home.

The committee also makes its influence felt in connection with state welfare and health legislation and administration by supporting sound proposals. Much of this work is carried on through the State Committee on Children and Public Welfare of which the Allegany County group is a part.

Other officers of the committee are Andrew Hayes of Fillmore, vice president, and Mrs. M. Elwood Kenyon of Alfred, secretary. Members of the executive committee are the Rev. Albert Rogers of Alfred Station, Mrs. Earl Cornett of Belfast, Neil Casterline of Belmont and Dr. H. J. Fero and Professor J. W. Shea of Houghton.

Contributions may be sent to Knight Thornton, Wellsville, who points out that contributions of any amount are welcome.

Attention Voters

In the words of Gov. Dewey
"IT'S TIME FOR A CHANGE"

We, a Non-Partisan Committee representing thousands of Allegany County voters, urge you to support and vote for

DISTRICT ATTORNEY

DID YOU KNOW THAT THE MAN WHO NOW HOLDS THE JOB AND WHO IS A CANDIDATE FOR RE-ELECTION:

1. Has had the job for 15 years?
2. DOES NOT WANT THE JOB UNLESS HIS SALARY IS VERY SUBSTANTIALLY INCREASED?
3. CLAIMS it is a full-time job?

MR. FLEISCHER, who is eminently qualified for the job by reason of education, training and successful trial experience, believes it IS a part time job, if properly handled and that NO substantial increase in salary is justified.
