ARE YOU GUILTY?

by Eunice Hall

Guilty feelings seem to stick to us in the way that sticky sands cling to stay on clothing at the beach. It's not, as mentioned, that we don't realize that we are guilty. We blame our uncomfortable, depressed feeling on the weather, or the mailman or Joe Stalin.

The things that most teen agers feel guilty about are: violating a trust; letting a friend down; feeling hostile toward brothers and sisters; being ashamed of parents; thinking a lot about sex; liking the wrong people; losing temper easily; persisting in bad habits and failing to make the most of opportunities.

Half of the battle is overcoming guilty feelings is knowing that you have them and then in doing something about disposing of them. The valiant way to handle them is first to drag your guilty feelings out into the light. Take a good look at them and see if they aren't parts of you which failed to come along with the rest of you.

Nobody likes a sad sack. Guilt is a depressive emotion that drains your energy for living buoyantly and courageously in the present. That no good feeling keeps you from having a good time and doing things with the gang. It's selfish too, for it makes you self-centered instead of outgoing.

Being honest with yourself about such a troublesome emotion as guilt really pays big dividends in greater happiness. We all make mistakes and ideals.

FALL FASHION FORECAST

by Phyllis Burger

The October "Teen Times," the magazine for the Future Homemakers of America, gives some very good Fall fashion hints for teen agers.

Colors for the Fall will be red, yellow, warm brown, gray and purple. These colors may be used as the main color for an outfit or for the accent, but they should be combined with care.

Fabrics that will stand out are jersey and velvet corduroy and cotton, gaining increasing year-round popularity, follow up.

Separate skirts, blouses, vests and jackets and sweaters will be fashion musts. Skirts should be worn 14 inches from the floor if you are five feet four inches. Subtract one inch from this for every two inches of height under five feet four inches, and add an inch for every two inches over.

In regard to hats, small velvet berets are way on top. Hair should still be medium length, not shingled, nor shoulder bobbed.

Flats are still the favorite foundation for shoes, and coats are very, very full.

YOUR MANNERS ARE SHOWING

by Eunice Hall

Want to be asked again?

Here are tips for the visitor:

Let your hostess know the time you will come and go, and be prompt! If she hasn't told you, ask what clothes you'll need. Bring your best temper. Fit in with the family's routine. You won't be entertained every minute so have your knitting and a book handy. Keep your room neat, make the bed after your bath, have towels and sink tidy.

When in doubt, whether it's tipping the maid or making your bed, ask your hostess. It's nice to take a small present with you and impossible to write a thank-you note when you get home—and soon!

ANDOVER KICKERS SUFFER MANY INJURIES

This season the local soccer team has been jinxed by injuries to important members of the squad.

The luckless string started at Richburg one rainy, muddy afternoon. When the game was finished three of the Panthers were sidelined with injuries. The three boys hurt at this time were "Doug" Wheaton, "Jim" Conde and "Spider" Atwell. "Doug" had suffered a head injury, Jim had a severely sprained ankle, and "Spider" had a badly kicked leg. Luckily "Spider" was able to come back the next day.

Last week Carl Atwell suffered a broken leg in a soccer game while playing in a gym class.

We hope that this is the last of the soccer injuries and that this jinx won't be carried over into the other local school sports this year.

AROUND THE SCHOOL

James Conde - Anita Nichols

Carol Briggs was escorted to the local movie by Kent Harder recently.

James Miles had to resort to crutches as a means of locomotion during most of last week but beginning Monday he was back on his good old feet.

Carl Atwell, while playing soccer Tuesday of last week, collided with Dale Green. The result was broken leg for Carl and a badly battered knee for Dale.

Marion Milligan and Don Mulconery went dancing at the Clouds in Wellsville Saturday.

Over the week-end many sophomore boys went hunting, but as yet there has been no reports of very much luck.

Oh, kids come a-running! If you haven't seen the new decorations in Miss Sager's homeroom, you'd better come and see them. Several of our active junior girls have been busy since last week fixing the bulletin board. Now it's complete and, it really looks appropriate.

The senior class should be fairly well through selling magazines. They have been busy selling for about two weeks. We all hope that they make a lot of money.

The new Ford school bus has arrived. The students who ride in it are happy now.

In the library there are two attractive and interesting bulletin boards. One on Democracy, the other on careers.

Clarice Nye and Dale Pelton, two jolly juniors, spent an evening watching television.

JoAnn Marsh worked over the week-end in Wellsville, while Betty Sutherland stayed home.

MEET OUR TEACHERS

by Gay Rogers

This week the spotlight goes to Mrs. Mary Baker, who is our junior high English teacher, the seventh grade homeroom teacher and the director of the senior play.

Mrs. Baker attended high school in Alfred-Almond and went to Alfred University where she earned a B.A. degree.

Some of her favorites are:
Color: Brown.
Car: Chevrolet.
Food: Steak.
Author: Sinclair Lewis.
Book: "Candide."
Song: "These Foolish Things."
Female singer: Jo Stafford.
Male singer: Bing Crosby.
Movie: "Hamlet."
Actor: Spencer Tracy and actress: Katherine Hepburn.

Her hobby is knitting and her pastime is reading.

She dislikes most alarm clocks early in the morning.

Mrs. Baker drives from Wellsville every day where she lives with her husband on the Hinsdale avenue.

This is her second year of teaching in Andover and we hope she likes it as well as we do.

GIRLS TO TRY FOR CHEERLEADING

Ten girls will be trying out for cheerleading before the junior and senior high school eighth period November 2. Two girls will be chosen by the faculty to fill the vacancies left by Beverly Sutor and Marion Northrup.

The girls that are trying out for both junior varsity and varsity cheerleaders are: Mildred Briggs, Neva Curry, Mary Anne Joyce, Marie Kemp, Carol Nye, Gay Rogers, Billie Ryan and Mary Jane Sackett. Ann Marie Joyce and Ann Wood are trying out for varsity.

COLLEGE DAY TO BE HELD OCTOBER 31

The juniors and seniors will journey to Bolivar with Marvin Mandel, Murlyn Conde and Glenn Bronson October 31 to attend the college day to be held at the Bolivar Central School.

There will be approximately 65 representatives from 50 colleges to tell the students about the schools they represent.

An assembly program with music by the Bolivar band will be held at 11 o'clock. Following the assembly Dr. Cecil Davis, principal of the Bolivar school, will greet the students attending.

A movie on typical college life showing Miami University will be shown while half of the students eat. It will be shown a second time so that those who were eating during the showing of it will be able to see it.

There will be three 40-minute sessions of each school of higher learning represented, starting at 12:30 p. m. The representative will talk for 20 minutes and the students will have 20 minutes in which to ask questions about the schools.

From 2:30 until 3:00 p. m., the students who wish to find out further information about any of the schools may do so. There will be a movie shown on Middlebury College for those who don't request further information.

A luncheon will be held at noon for the administrators, guidance personnel and college representatives.

Teachers from the various schools will act as chairmen of the sections and introduce the speakers. CVM

PANTHERS HANDED LICKING TO BELMONT

by "Moose" Wheaton

Friday night the Andover soccer team downed the Belmont 11 in a hard-fought tilt 7-3. "Chink" Davis and "Lefty" Harder paced the locals on to the victory by scoring three and four points respectively.

Belmont scored on a field goal and a penalty kick in the third quarter. This made Andover's third win to three losses.

THE INQUIRING REPORTER

This roving reporter asks a new question each week. The question this week is: "How should the new cheerleaders be selected?" The answers I found were:

Marion Milligan replies that the team should select the cheerleaders.

Gay Rogers thinks that the teachers should select them.

Kent Harder agrees with Marian Milligan's theory that the team should select them.

Anita Nichols thinks the girls should be chosen for ability and personality.

Mrs. Joyce replies that girls should be nice looking, have ability for the position, look well together as a team.

Carol Briggs says they should be chosen for ability by the teachers.

Mr. Reil thinks elections could be made in the student body.

Mr. Conde says by the fairest way possible.

Marie Kemp says they should be elected by the high school faculty.

Mickie Baker hasn't any ideas.

Clarice Nye believes the cheerleading squad and faculty should elect the new ones, if both are sure not to show partiality.

Franklin Cornish said it doesn't matter as long as they're good.

Miss Baker thinks the faculty should elect them because if the student body elected them they would be chosen for popularity not ability.

Here are the answers! Take your pick.

Next week a new question will be answered. CAH

TOT SPOT

by Mary Brown

The children in Mrs. Robison's room are very curious about what is going on in the other rooms. One day recently they were taken through the home economics room by Miss McCarthy. They enjoyed this very much.

Bruce Harris was five years old October 19. He brought one of his birthday gifts, a toy car, to school to show his classmates.

The children in Mrs. Connor's first grade made Hallowe'en cards to be used on children's trays in the hospital.

John Hunt visited his Aunt Betty and her new baby in the Wellsville hospital.

Bruce Johnson also visited his aunt and new cousin in the Wellsville hospital.

Deanna Wittie was six years old October 20.

In Mrs. Hall's first grade the whole group has had perfect attendance for two weeks.

Fifteen children have contributed to the Red Cross drive to fill boxes to send abroad. A committee of six accompanied by Mrs. Hall purchased gifts for these boxes.

Each of the children in Mrs. Tompkins' room wrote a letter to Neil Storms who is in the Wellsville hospital with a broken arm.

Allen Corwin has a new baby sister, born October 21.

Edward Greene went to Avon Sunday and Patsy Bronson spent the week-end with her grandmother.

Nancy DeRemer treated the children in Mrs. Helmer's room to cupcakes and ice cream on her birthday.

The children also made Jack O' Lantern spelling booklets.

In Miss Baker's room John Common, Alice Barnhart and Kenneth Moag were appointed to a committee for the Hallowe'en party.

John Common brought his stamp collection to school to show his classmates.

Virginia Sortore spent the week-end in Buffalo.

The chairmen of the Red Cross box project in Miss Harvey and Freda Kupp.

Ronald Glover treated his classmates to ice cream in honor of his birthday Thursday.

Mrs. Schwarzenbach's sixth graders have filled three Red Cross boxes.

Study of Healthy People Reveals Interesting Facts

Do you want to avoid heart trouble and hardening of the arteries, get rid of that "spare tire" around your middle, throw off that tired feeling and have more pep, feel years younger?

Prof. T. K. Cureton of the University of Illinois school of physical education has some information for you then. It will take time and a proper conditioning program, but many have done it and shown what he terms "good improvement."

While medical doctors have been studying sick people, Prof Cureton has been studying healthy people. For 25 years he has studied thousands of athletes and people of middle age and beyond. The work is still going on.

In George Huff gymnasium at Urbana he has a roomfull of gadgets ranging from treadmills to special calipers for measuring the thickness of fat of your body. But it isn't the gadgets that are important, it's what he and his associates have found out.

Boiled down, that is this: Your cardiovascular system — medical jargon for heart and blood vessels —is all-important. Keep it up to snuff and you avoid a lot of things. And doing this is not so hard.

Here's the formula:

1. Walk, rhythmically and briskly, at least two miles every day, or go swimming for a half-hour at least every other day.

2. Along with this, be sure you get a proper diet, with plenty of vitamins, and do not eat too much. Avoid large quantities of animal fats and excesses in starches and sugars. Eat more soy beans and green and yellow vegetables.

That's the nub of it.

In walking or swimming, the big muscles, as in your legs, push the blood back toward the heart. Rhythmic exercise gets all the blood in your body going. This helps to make your heart strong. It tones up your cardiovascular system, Professor Cureton explains.

Navy Reports Rapid Strides On Education in Pacific

The goal of one school for each community having five or more children of school age is rapidly being reached by the U. S. navy in the vast Trust territory of the Pacific, according to the office of Admiral Arthur W. Radford, commander in chief of the Pacific fleet and high commissioner of the territory.

The naval administration now maintains 140 elementary schools in the Caroline, Northern Mariana and Marshall islands, six intermediate schools for grades seven through nine at Saipan, Ponape, Truk, Koror, Majuro and Yap, and four higher-training institutions, including the Pacific island teacher training school at Truk.

The teacher-training program in the Trust territory, set up two years ago, has progressed so rapidly that 252 teachers, principals, district superintendents and other school officials are now residents of the islands. Previously, it had been necessary to bring teachers from the States.

At the highest level of this educational system, students meeting the qualifications for American colleges are eligible for scholarship aid from the navy and various colleges. Four natives have qualified thus far.

Baldness in Dogs

If Rover starts to look like a half-picked chicken, the trouble may be a hormone deficiency. Veterinary medical journals report that dogs suffering from alopecia, which means loss of hair, sometimes regrow normal coats following treatment with sex hormones. The advisability of hormone treatment depends upon what the veterinarian's diagnosis reveals. In many cases, parasites, severe and prolonged illness, or skin disorders may account for the loss of hair. Hormones cannot be expected to help in such cases.
