HEALTH FOR ALL

This column is sponsored, in the interest of better health, by the Allegany Health & Tuberculosis Association, 44 Schuyler St., Belmont, N. Y.

TB—Why Rest in a Hospital

In the modern treatment of tuberculosis, a communicable disease which takes more than 40,000 American lives each year, full advantage is taken of the most recent scientific developments. But, complete bed rest under medical supervision is still basic in the treatment of the disease, and is best undertaken in a tuberculosis hospital.

Every now and then, some tuberculosis patient wonders why he has to go to the hospital for this rest—why it isn't just as good for him to rest at home or elsewhere.

Rest in bed is no easy assignment, especially if the patient does not feel very ill. If at home, the patient might be tempted to get up, thereby doing himself harm. At the hospital, where everyone else is on a similar regime, it is easier for the patient to follow the regular schedule of rest under the supervision of doctors and nurses. At home, too often there is the temptation to get up "just this once."

Furthermore, at the tnberculosis hospital, the patient gets the balanced diet that he needs to fight his way back to health. The hospital has dieticians who plan the type of meals that the patient should have.

Since tuberculosis can be cured in any climate, doctors usually recommend that the patient enter a sanatorium near his home. He can then have visits from his family and friends who should, of course, strictly observe hospital regulations about visits.

The patient who is in a tuberculosis hospital protects others as well as himself. In staying at the hospital and giving himself his best chance of cure, he is, at the same time, guarding against the spreading of his disease to others.

But, primarily, he is placing himself in surroundings and in the care of trained personnel who help him regain his health as soon as possible.

One of the best face-saving ideas is to keep the lower half of it shut.

MAKE FRIENDS WITH BOOKS

During this week of November 13-18, we are and have taken special interest in Book Week. "Make Friends With Books" is the overall theme of Book Week. Mrs. Marco Conde, our librarian, makes the following report on our new books.

A few of the 90 new books which are most interesting to students. A new World Atlas is a great addition to the library. Other books which are of special interest are: First book of Cowboys, First Book of Indians; three children's books are: "What Animal Is It," "What Bird Is It," "What Butterfly Is It." Some new biographies are: George Patton, Admiral Halsey's Story and Booker T. Washington.

"Johnny Texas," a prize winner book, is being read by the fourth grade. Upon finishing the book, they are going to enter a contest by writing letters concerning the book.

MEET OUR TEACHERS

By Gay Rogers

Have you met our fourth grade teacher, Miss Ruth Baker, who was born in Andover, N. Y?

If you should happen to see a green Pontiac car it might be hers. If the radio is on she might be listening to Jessica Dragonette or Bing Crosby singing "Now is the Hour." Maybe she is going to the movies to see Melvin Douglas or Greer Garson and she might be just staying at home to eat her favorite food, chicken, and later read "Invitation to Live" or a book by Lloyd Douglas.

As her hobby, Miss Baker collects antique glass, first day issue stamps and elephants. Her pet peeves are pupils who do not have their lessons ready.

Miss Baker attended high school in Andover, training class at Salamanca, Geneseo Normal and summer school at Alfred University.

She lives in Railroad Valley and has been teaching in A. C. S. for 21 years.

YOU AND YOUR PHONE VOICE

by Eunice Hall

Considering the fact that the telephone has become so necessary and is taken for granted in everyday living, women (especially) have never learned to talk on the instrument.

Although women are experts at putting their calls through and are well versed in the rules of telephone etiquette, they still create an unfavorable impression upon their listeners because of their voices.

Women who claim they don't like to talk on the telephone are usually admitting their discomfort.

One particular unfortunate telephone voice is the meek one that makes listeners yell "what's that?" and "louder please." No matter how competent you may really be, the person at the other end of the wire is likely to conclude that you are without self confidence. This is a handicap in both business and social relationships.

Equally unattractive is the telephone shouter who attempts to convey her message by vocal power alone. Not only is such a voice unpleasant to the unfortunate ear at the other end of the line, but it also marks the shouter as being unsure both of herself and the instrument.

Affectation is also to be avoided when speaking on the telephone. Don't "put on" a special voice, it makes you appear insincere.

If you have voice problems even when talking with people face to face, take particular care to speak your best on the telephone. Nasality, whininess, flatness and accents are likely to be intensified when passed through the wires.

YOUR MANNERS ARE SHOWING

By Eunice Hall

Did you know that:

If your date has never met your parents, it's a good idea to ask him to meet your folks before you leave on your date, even if you are ready. It's not necessary to ask him in every time he calls, if you're ready to leave when he gets there.

If a nice boy asks you for a date, if at the time you were busy and had to refuse, and if you want to go out with him but he hasn't asked you since, what can you do? Well, read on: You can be nice to him and can say anything that is friendly. But you should not mention again your regret at not being able to go with him that time he asked; nor should you indicate directly that you would like another date. Just wait. He'll ask again.

IN MY OPINION

by Mary Anne Joyce

When I asked several students their opinion on whether or not we should take the band to basketball games, their replies were as follows:

Carol Briggs: "I think the band should be taken especially to the league games and home games."

Phyllis Burger: "I think we should take the band to all of the games."

Betty Smith: "We should take the band to all league games but the band should play at some games."

[illegible] Hall: "I think the band should go at most of the games."

Mr. McAndrews: "I think it would pay, because it would boost school spirit."

[illegible] Clark: "I think they should go to all games [illegible] large [illegible]."

[illegible] Davis: "I think they should go to all games [illegible] large [illegible]."
