In order to compete with five other junior candidates for a position as editor or assistant editor of the next year's Hi Herald, Eunice Hall conducted interviews wrote all features, news stories, editorials as well as the leads, headlines and titles for all articles in this week's issue of the school paper.

ON EASTER SUNDAY

Easter Sunday morning in the Burns' household, each member is hustling about getting his new clothes on to attend church. Sister Sue goes practically every Sunday with her father and mother, while her older sister, Beverly goes only when she feels like it or has something new to wear. Right now Beverly is fussing with her hair, so her new Easter bonnet will fit just right.

Meanwhile her parents are ready to leave and are trying to hurry Beverly, but the more they do the more trouble she has. Kathleen, her girl friend, calls at the door for Beverly. Kathleen had to alter one of her old dresses and didn't have money to buy herself a hat. When Beverly greeted her, she asked to see her hat. Kathleen was fumbling around to find some thing to say, then she told her why she wasn't wearing a hat and said that she had better stay home this Sunday from church. Beverly replied that everyone wore a hat and she should have one. Then she left Beverly standing in front of a mirror.

The considerate Mrs. Burns had called Kathleen back and explained that she needn't stay home because of not having a hat and asked her to come along with them. Thus the girl felt better and went happily with them to church.

Following is a poem which tells just what I am trying to bring out in the above story:

What Makes Easter

It isn't Easter bonnets
With ribbons bright and gay,
Or Easter lilies nodding
In honor of this day.

It isn't Easter rabbits
With eggs all colored bright,
Or clothes of latest fashion
To fill us with delight.

That makes a joyful Easter,
It is because we know
That Jesus lives forever.
And that some day we'll go

Where we can join the singing,
For on this day of days
The whole world is rejoicing
In hymns of love and praise.

CARTOONIST ON ACS ASSEMBLY PROGRAM

Bob Wood, a brilliant young American cartoonist, will present a program of dramatic adventures on his easel board April 17 at 9 a. m., for the entertainment of the students and faculty of the Andover school.

His drawings consist of large colored pictures, writing, upside down and backward, caricatures of people in his audience, cartoons and comedy surprises. During his drawings and writings he provides music, sound effects and spectacular lighting.

Wood is a master of stunt effects and pulls many novel surprises on his audiences. He writes names on his easel board and transforms them into pictures with very swift movements. Children get a great deal of enjoyment when he is on the platform, plus the older folks become children.

We are all looking forward to seeing this program.

SENIOR INTERVIEW

By Eunice Hall

Claton Burdick, a bashful senior, was born August 16, 1932 in Troupsburg, N. Y., the son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Burdick. Claton has four brothers, Donald, Milton, Alfred, Elwyn and five sisters, Doris, Kathleen, Arlene, Sharon, and Ida Mae. You know I had some fun in getting this interview. When I asked his sister Doris, how many brothers and sisters she had, she replied five brothers and four sisters, but when I asked Claton he said, four brothers and five sisters. I have been wondering which one was right.

The subjects that Claton is taking this year are English IV history, typing, agriculture and drivers education. His major is history and agriculture.

Some of Claton's favorites and expectations include: colors-blue and gold, likes-anything in food that looks good enough to eat and any constructive work, favorite actor and actress-John Wayne and Jeanne Crain, male singer-Ed Macurty, his song is, "Life Gets Tegious," author-Stephen Meader, movie-"Gone With the Wind," book-"Lumberjack," car-Ford or Chevrolet.

One thing that Claton dislikes is to see people standing around with their hands in their pockets. His enjoyable pastime is farm work and plenty of it. His ambition is to be an auto mechanic and secret ambition is to fly around the world in ten thousandth of a second.

Upon graduating from high school, Claton is planning to attend college at Morrisville for a two year's course in mechanics.

Asking for money to finance a writing career, an aspiring author concluded his letter with this theory: "I have never written a thing in my life, so I ought to be full of ideas."

HALL OF FAME

Since the Hi Herald has sponsored the Hall of Fame since 1948, the high school faculty have been selecting by ballot five seniors, who have been outstanding in scholarship, cooperativeness, friendliness and services.

Joseph Raymond Smith, whom we call "Joe" is the first to be featured in the paper. "Joe" who was born September 24, 1932 to Mr. and Mrs. Donald Smith, has four brothers Martin, Edward, Robert, James and three sisters; Marcella, Lucille and Sally.

"Joe" has many admirers in school who look up to him as a boy of many achievements.

"Joe" has always attended Andover Central School and has been active in sports and extra-curricular activities throughout his high school career. In his freshman year, he was a member of the Student Council and Athletic Club and in addition participated in baseball, basketball and the badminton tournament.

The sophomore class elected him president in his homeroom. He was a member of the Student Council, Athletic Club and participated in basketball, baseball, and the badminton tournament. In the badminton tournament in Rochester he received second place.

In "Joe's" junior year he was elected treasurer of the junior class, a member of the Student Council and Athletic Club and participated in basketball, baseball and the badminton tournament. Again he won second place in the badminton tournament at Rochester. As the only boy chosen to speak in the Legion Oratorical contest he did very well. He was also admitted to the National Honor Society.

Joseph Raymond Smith

As a senior "Joe" is the president of the Student Council and a member of the Athletic Club. He is participating in basketball, baseball and the badminton tournament in which he took first and second place at Rochester. His schedule this year consists of typing, mechanical drawing, physics and art appreciation. His major is math and science.

"Joe" also enjoys hunting. His philosophy of life is, "Do what you like but like what you do," and his favorite quotation is "In youth we learn, in age we understand."

In the senior play "The Adorable Imp," Joe is a member of the cast.

FFA TO HOLD DANCE FRIDAY

The Future Farmers of America will hold a dance, April 14, from 9 until 1 o'clock during the Easter vacation. Music will be by the Woodhull Boys and admission is 65 cents. Round and square dancing will provide fun and frolic for all who come with their friends.

SOCIAL HOUR HELD

Almost a hundred students of the Andover High school attended the social hour held by the Library Council Monday evening from 7 to 10 o'clock. Everyone seemed to be occupied at something and had an enjoyable time. With the money the council made from the social hour and what they will make on their candy sale (if any) they will buy club pins as all the girls are very much interested in getting them.

TOT SPOT

Here is the latest news about younger A. C. S. students.

In Mrs. Robison's kindergarten the children went for an Easter parade. They wore decorated bunny faces which they made. They passed through Mrs. Joyce's classroom and paraded through the halls.

Gary O'Dell received treatment in the Hornell hospital.

Daniel Elliott is ill. He has been absent from school the past week.

Mrs. Bostwick visited the kindergarten last week.

Mrs. Robison's girls had perfect attendance last week.

In Mrs. Corwin's kindergarten the little tots are learning the song "Peter Cottontail".

Gail Wightman went to her grandfather's birthday celebration at Richburg Sunday.

Robert Clarke went visiting in Hornell Sunday.

Ruth Waters helped her family gather sap.

In Mrs. Connor's first grade the girls had perfect attendance March 27-31.

Eugene O'Dell has been absent several days.

The children have brought in apple blossoms and stems.

The group is also making cute Easter baskets.

In Mrs. Hall's first grade Sharon Strouse has just returned from Florida.

Merton Wright enjoys riding in his father's new car.

Lloyd Hollenbeck, Michael Ludden and Carrol Hoagland were absent last week because of illness.

In art they are making tulip posters.

They are also making candy baskets.

In Miss Jordan's class, the girls had perfect attendance last week.

In Miss Helmer's third and fourth grades the pupils are making Easter egg spelling booklets. Perfect attendance Monday. They are looking forward to the arrival of the Easter bunny.

In Mrs. Schwarzenbach's room the grade was treated by the Red Cross for having donated the most to the drive.

The children in Miss Church's room are working on a product map in social studies.

GIVING A PARTY

By Eunice Hall

About this time of year many girls like to have parties. If you are one who likes to and don't know exactly how, allow me to give you some pointers on parties.

Planning comes first;

1. Ponder awhile on the kind of party you want to have.

2. Decide whether you will invite girls only or both boys and girls—and how many. For a girls party you may have a luncheon, dinner, kitchen, or slumber party. Boys enjoy informal get-togethers, scavenger hunts and outdoor parties.

3. Make a list of guests to be invited. Be sure they are congenial. Invite friends whose parties you have recently attended.

4. Set a date well in advance. This is courtesy to guests which will give them time to plan ahead It also gives you time to invite "subs."

5. Clear time, place, and guest list with your parents. They may be planning to entertain their friends that same day. Or they may think it unwise to invite certain people.

6. Check plans with your best friend for reactions and additional ideas.

Eats come next

1. Plan with your mother a menu that is simple within the budget and appetizing. For many people, food is the party—so make it good and filling.

2. Choose a menu that can be prepared in advance.

3. Have all food supplies in the house when you are ready to prepare the party fare.

4. Keep in mind the importance of eye-appeal. Food should

A Stunning Product

A pompous manufacturer of machinery was showing a stranger over his factory. "Fine piece of work, isn't it?" he said, when they were looking at a very ingenious machine.

"Yes," said the visitor, "but you can't hold a candle to the goods we are turning out."

"Indeed?" said the chagrined manufacturer. "And what is your line?"

"Gunpowder," was the reply.

be festive—looking as well as tasty and filling.

5. Look to your guest's comfort—particularly when refreshments are being served.

6. Ask one or two close friends (before the party) to help you serve.

7. Have enough chow for seconds.

8. Serve hot foods hot and cold foods cold. You, then must put your house in order.

The house is next

1. Arrange house for doings. Decide on the best spot for the party. Make sure there is enough room for dancing and adequate lighting for games.

2. Prepare a place for the girls to leave their coats and hats and a separate spot for the boys to park theirs.

3. Make certain the house is tidy and fresh looking. If possible, use seasonal flowers to dress it up a little.

4. See that members of the family who are at home during the party have a comfortable place to relax in privacy.

Last but not least you are the star and it all depends on you if the party will be enjoyed by all, including you.

1. Relax and be poised, and your guests will be at ease.

2. Welcome every guest at the door and show each where to put his or her belongings.

3. Introduce the latest arrival to one or two people at a time rather than present the whole crowd at once.

Circulate to see that guests are enjoying themselves. Even if the dream man is there, don't desert the crowd to go with him. Divide your time equally among all your guests.

5. Get everybody into the act, helping in one or more phases of the party.

6. Organize a K.P. squad at clean-up time, if possible.

Well, this concludes my pointers on parties. Have fun at your next party.

THE TROUBLE WITH BOYS

Caroline Briggs: "They have to go out of town to go with a girl."

Clarice Nye: "Everything in general, nothing in particular."

Ruby Ordiway: "They are all alike."

Janet Hall: "They all think they are too smart for their britches."

Donna Nobles: "They talk too much."

Agnes Davis: "They art too sarcastic."

Teresa Joyce: "If you know one you know them all."

Billie Ryan: "I haven't the slightest idea."

Ruth Curry: "They think that looks is all there is to a girl."

Aquinas Lynch: "Well, they aren't too bad, but if you go with one boy the rest of them all talk about you and they ask the fellow what kind of a girl you are.'

Janice Hall: "They think they know it all—when they don't."

Beverly Sutor: "I really could not say. I never thought much about the subject."

Mary Fowler: "If they're going steady with a girl, she's steady, he isn't."

Joan McAndrew: "They are all right, I guess. I don't have any fault to find."

Mary Ellen Connor: "I have three brothers, and I still can't reason it out. I guess it will always be the question of the age."

Maxine Baker: "They make too many wise cracks that aren't funny."

Danjaan Crandall: "Nothing too much—some are quite conceited at some times, there are a few that are all right."

Marion Milligan: "In my opinion the trouble with some boys is that they keep you on the string. They stop by your locker, etc., but you don't know if they like you or not."

Colleen McAndrew: "Not too much, although some of them keep stringing the girls along."

THE TROUBLE WITH GIRLS

Wayne Atwell: "They think they are too good for the boys."

Dick Hancock: "They have too many out-of-town interests."

Bob Baker: "They're too silly."

Bob Marsh: "It beats me."

Clyde Jackson: "They have their noses so high in the air that they practically drown when it rains."

Archie Baker: "They are good for two things—no good and good for nothing."

Carl Waters: "They are too pessimistic."

Franklin Cornish: "What's good about the girls. No boy in Andover is good enough for them."

Kent Harder: "They are too stuck up."

Charles Dougherty: "They talk too much and don't say anything."

Vic Daley: "When you want one around you never can find one, but when you don't want one they are flocking all over the place."

Bill Glover: "They like to lay around a fellow's neck too well."

Jim Conde: "They're too bothersome."

Claton Burdick: "They are too stupid."

Skeet Milligan: "I don't know; I have nothing to do with them."

Bob Dunham: "What's good about them? I could answer this one better."

YOUR MANNERS ARE SHOWING

DID YOU KNOW THAT—

by Eunice Hall

At a dance where the couples sit around at tables and have to get up and walk through a crowd to get to the dance floor, the boy holds the girl's chair as she gets up from the table, and then she leads the way through the crowd to the dance floor. If it's necessary to ask someone to move his chair so that they can pass, the boy asks the favor, but the girl passes through first.

Letters to a boy should be written on plain white stationery with dark ink. Generally boys agree that they don't like letters written on pink, perfumed paper with purple ink—or any other of the loud, fancy, fussy combinations that tend to overshadow the words you've written. So to keep them watching for the mail man, and your letters stick to plain white, or light tan, cream, natural or gray stationery. They are safe choices. So are blue or blue-black inks. Of course envelopes and paper must match.

It is not considered proper for a girl to write the first letter to a boy in the Army. As a rule, it is a good idea to let the boy start such a correspondence. If he genuinely wants to hear from you, he'll write and give you the opportunity to answer.
