Cornell Offers Farm, Home Week March 19 to 23

March 19 to 23 are the dates of Cornell University's 40th Farm and Home Week, and plans are already advanced to welcome the many thousands of visitors who attend each year. The entire program this year will be geared to farm and home problems in relation to world conditions.

More than 500 events are scheduled, covering the interests of dairymen, poultrymen, fruit and vegetable growers, gardeners, flower lovers, livestock owners, homemakers and rural youth. The home economics program begins Tuesday, March 20, and will continue for four days.

Farm and Home Week is considered the largest agricultural affair of its kind in the Northeast, and is sponsored by the agricultural, home economics, and veterinary colleges and the School of Nutrition at Cornell, with the cooperation of the State Experiment Station at Geneva.

Prof. L. D. Kelsey, in general charge, says more staff members will handle exhibits this year, and there will be more demonstrations. Many forums and panel discussions, popular in recent years, will be set up to feature such farm problems as soil erosion, animal breeding, and pasture improvement. Community and public health problems are also to be stressed during the week, and the program on conservation, natural resources, and wild life will be the most complete and continuous ever offered, said Kelsey.

A rural art program featuring a Grandma Moses motion picture will be offered, as well as individual consulation services for visiting gardeners, poultrymen, milk producers and distributors, and fruit growers. Automatic milk vending machines, trying in with the State "milk for health" campaign, will be available at many points on the campus.

More than 2000 Future Farmers of America are expected on Monday, the opening day, and young adults on Thursday, for appropriate programs. Rural Church Day will be on Wednesday, March 21, culminating in a combined concert by the Cornell University Orchestra and the Sage Chapel Choir rendering Hadyn's Creation. Wednesday's events also include the annual State sheep shearing championship contest. Many farm and alumni organizations will hold meetings on the campus during the week.

Professor Kelsey pointed out that housing accommodations should be ample and food services better than ever since the opening of Statler Hall. Student committees are being formed to help visitors, and more than a thousand students usually participate.

More Mileage From Rubbers

Of course you want to get all the mileage you can out of your galoshes and rubbers. To make them wear longer, specialists at the New York State College of Home Economics at Cornell suggest that you keep rubbers clean and store them in a cool, dry place.

Stuff galoshes and rubber boots loosely with wadded-up paper when they are not in use. Protect them against excessive friction by brushing grit and dirt from the inside of rubber footgear. Clean them often, inside and out. Use warm water and soap but be sure to rinse thoroughly as soap, like friction and heat, tends to weaken the rubber. Dry the rubbers well after they are washed.

Service Charge

A colored preacher was talking to his congregation about salvation. The sermon finished, he asked Brother Smith to take up the collection.

At this point an old man got up and started for the door, saying: "Parson, Ah thought you said salvation was free—free as the water we drink."

"Well, brother," replied the preacher, "salvation is free and water is free. But when we pipes it to you, you has to pay fo' the piping."

Library Annual Meeting

Adult collection, 5,972; children's, 1,566; total 7,538. Number added by purchase, 207; by gift 16, including 5 added to memorial collection.

Registration:

New borrowers registered — Adult 54, children, 42; total registration, 883. Adult 746, children 137.

There was a perceptible increase in adult non-fiction and magazine loaning.

The library again sponsored a Summer Reading Club with the theme "An Obstacle Race." This proved attractive and the children loaned 909 books during July and August. Mrs. Robert Common planned this project and directed the award party in September, held at Andover Central School.

National Children's Book Week was observed in November, with new children's books released for loaning. The librarian, with Mrs. Robert Common and Mrs. F. C. Vars visited the Andover Central School library to observe the new books and the regular collection.

The redecorated interior and all new window shades were appreciated by the library staff and patrons of the library. Fifteen sectional bookcases from the library of the late Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Brundage were placed in the library by Anna B. Wood.

All of which is respectfully submitted,

Social Security Office to Open In Olean

A full-time field office of the Social Security Administration to serve an estimated 5,000 persons in Allegany, Cattaraugus, Potter and a part of McKean counties will be opened in Olean about February 1, it has been announced.

The new office will be set up in the basement of the Niagara-Mohawk Power Corporation building with entrance on North First street.

Uniform Price of $4.91 Announced For December

A uniform price of $4.91 per hundredweight will be paid to dairy farmers for their December deliveries to 429 pool-approved plants in the six-state New York milkshed, it is announced by Dr. C. J. Blanford, Market Administrator of the New York metropolitan milk marketing area. The uniform price in November was $5.09 per hundredweight and in December a year ago $4.26 per hundred weight.

At the same time the Market Administrator announced that the producer butterfat differential for December would be 5.4 cents for each tenth of a pound of fat above or below the 3.5 percent standard.

Dr. Blanford reported that total fluid milk consumption last month was the highest for any December since the federal-state marketing orders were established in late 1938. Totaling 304,923,523 pounds, fluid sales showed a gain from a year ago of 7.7 percent.

Total farm value of last months production is $23,165,337.92 made up of $22,503,979.48 at the uniform price, and $661,358.44 in butterfat and location premiums.
