FebruaryInduction Call For 26 Men Is Received

The local Draft Board has received a call for 26 men to be sent to Buffalo for induction into the armed forces on Tuesday, February 20.

The board sent 48 men to Buffalo for their pre-induction examination last Tuesday, of which 32 were accepted and will send another group of 37 men to Buffalo for examination on February 6.

A new Selective Service order gives a 30-day deferment to college men who graduate at mid-year during which period they may take jobs in essential industries.

Each student who enters such a job must notify his draft board immediately and show that the job is essential to "maintenance of national health, safety and interest" in order to obtain further deferment.

News Briefs of Local Servicemen

The following letter was received by Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Holt, Sr., from their son, Sgt. James B. Holt who is now serving in Japan:

I've just returned from a very eventful trip. This morning I was told to report to Maj. Gen. Turner's airplane engineer. The ship's regular engineer was sick so I took his place.

From here we went to a base in Korea and picked up Gen. Collins, a really very important person. Then we took him up to Tokyo. Everyone was very nice including Gen. Collins. He is a four-star general so I stayed pretty much on the ball. Gen. Turner's airplane is really something, a gally, beds, tables and the works. Even a cook aboard. I had the tenderest steak at 9,000 feet.

It's about the kind of job I would like all the time in the Air Force, but tomorrow I go back to old chuckers again. I had my one shot at heaven though, so I'm happy for a while. You might look for some pictures in the papers or the news reels—I did my best to push my mug into one of them.

The news sounds a little better today. They said over the radio that they are negotiating for a cease fire order. Hope it ends soon. I would have liked to have asked General Collins today when we could go home, but sergeants don't ask generals questions like that. Just have to sweat it out and hope that good things come soon.

Check Your Fluorescent Lights

A two-day hunt for a very disturbing radio interference over the week-end finally came to an end with the discovery of a defective tube in a four-tube fluorescent light. These lights can cause a lot of interference both from defective tubes or switches and an occasional check of this equipment may help your radio reception.

Hunting Accidents Show Decrease In 1950

Albany, Jan. 30.—The story of New York state's hunting accident record in 1950 had a far brighter ending than it had in 1949, Conservation Commissioner Perry B. Duryea disclosed today.

"Although we had about 50,000 more hunters in 1950," he said, "our tabulations show that the total hunting accidents involving firearms dropped from 135 to 113. Of those we had only 13 fatalities, five less than the year before.

"The brightest side of the picture, however, lies in the fact that only 13 mishaps involved minors under 17—a far better ratio record than New York has had, at least in modern times, and a definite indication of the effectiveness of our safety instruction program."

Conservation Department officials pointed out that 11,701 minor hunters under 17 were given intensive firearms instruction last year when they obtained licenses under the provisions of New York's new law. The effectiveness of the instruction was emphasized by statistics which reveal that of the 13 minors injured in hunting accidents, only five had received preliminary safety instruction. The remaining eight were uninstructed, having hunted without obtaining a license and the mandatory instruction that goes with it.

Again, carelessness in the handling of firearms was the major cause of accidents, Commissioner Duryea explained, if hunters had not released the safety devices on their guns before the actual moment of firing. A total of 61 accidents occurred in this category. Of the remaining 52 mishaps, 34 happened when hunters were in line of fire, seven were mistaken for game and 11 were hit by ricocheting bullets.

Of the 113 accidents, 33 were self-inflicted. Nine of these were fatal.

Of the 61 hunters wounded because of careless gun handling, 13 tripped or fell and the remainder were about equally divided between those who crossed fences carelessly, who stood guns against insecure rests, who had loaded arms in car or camp, snow or dirt in the barrel, or who used guns as a club in brush.

Atomic Nurses School Program Is Announced

A specially trained nurse-instructor will be on hand when Allegany county nurses meet at the David A. Howe library at Wellsville, February 8 and 15, for postgraduate sessions on "The Medical and Nursing Aspects of Atomic Explosion."

This lecturer is one of a group of nearly 200 nurse-instructors who have attended one of three two-day instruction courses on the various phases of atomic injury, held at Rochester, Albany and New York City last fall.

Teaching the postgraduate course to Allegany county nurses will be Miss Esther Thompson, director of nursing activities, University of Rochester, and W. James MacFarland, M.D., radiologist, of Hornell. Speakers will discuss the problems of atomic disaster in general, describe mass treatment of burns and fractures, furnish information on blood and fluid replacement therapy, present the latest theories on radiation sickness and consider plans for the mobilization of nursing resources to meet the results of atomic explosion.

Two U. S. Army films will be shown. One, entitled "Medical Effects of the Atomic Bomb," includes Japanese moving pictures of Hiroshima, taken before the American forces entered the city following the explosion there. The second is entitled "Atomic Medical Cases," and includes clinical studies of cases resulting from the Hiroshima and Nagasaki explosions.

Sessions will begin at 9 a. m., in the David A. Howe library and continue to 12. All nurses in Allegany county are expected to attend both sessions.

Dr. Irwin Felsen, county director of Medical Defense, said: "The people of Allegany county may take for granted that their nurses will be at the Wellsville library on Thursday morning. Part of the nurses of the county will be in classes receiving instruction which might prove vitally important to your personal welfare, the balance will be doing double duty—their own and that of the nurses taking the course. This will be true on both of the two atomic explosion instruction days."

Dr. Felsen re-emphasized that these sessions are being held in the public interest to make certain that we have trained and capable nurses to serve the people of Allegany county, and neighboring counties, in case an atomic blast occurs. Therefore, the co-operation of all of our people is urgently requested.

New Ruling On Induction Of College Students

A new ruling relative to the voluntary enlistment into the armed forces by college students has been announced.

Secretary of Defense General Marshall has issued orders officially rescinding in the case of college students, the inter-service agreement of last August under which no armed service would accept a voluntary enlistment after a man had received notice to report for his pre-induction physical examination.

And simultaneously Major General Louis B. Hershey announced that he would reopen in the last month of the college year, the classifications of all students who were ordered to report for induction during the year and whose induction was postponed under the Selective Service rules, and who desire to volunteer for enlistment in a service of their choice.

In short, this ruling will make it possible for college students whose inductions have been postponed to enlist in any branch of service they wish during the last month of the school year, providing, of course, that the places were open for them in the branch of service in which they desire to enlist.

This policy is designed to implement the intent of Congress to encourage students to continue college to the end of their academic year and at the same time preserve their right to indicate the service in which they wish to serve.
