Autumn Attitudes

By Mary Brown

When September approaches we all begin thinking about returning to school. The girls start planning a new fall wardrobe while the boys wish for a victorious soccer season. But are these the things we should place as most important this autumn?

A new wardrobe or a good soccer season may be important to some of course, but they should be classed as secondary to the spirit of co-operation which is so necessary for every student to possess whether he is a kindergartener or a senior. If this spirit is present it may be molded into the school spirit which must be achieved before any athletic or acedemic progress can be made.

Another attitude which we would do well to remember this fall is that a happy smile or a cherry "hello" will make many friends for you.

So, girls, as you put on your best bib and tucker, don't forget to put a little spirit of co-operation into that pocket along with that new hankie and, boys, remember to pack a sunny smile into that soccer uniform along with your playing ability. If each student follows these hints a really successful school year can be guaranteed.

Soccer Practice Starts

By Dale Pelton

Soccer season began last night with the first practice of the '51 season. Coach Stackwich remarked "I'm looking for a large turnout of kickers and hope it will be a successful season."

The veterans who will be returning will be trying hard again for more victories for A.C.S. They are: Lefty Harder, Pete Howland, Jim Conde, Spider Atwell, Carl Atwell, Rod Wheeler, Clyde Jackson, Dale Pelton, Ted Smith, Mike Connor, Jim Mickle, Jack Rosintoski and Charles Lehman.

Those trying out this year have a good chance in holding a first string varsity spot. New faces expected to be seen this year are: Butch Vickers, Jim Connor, Ed Harkenrider, Charles Howland and Jesse Grossman.

The team last year had a good season of four wins against three losses. The team this year hopes to better the record even though they lost such stars as Jack Wheaton, Charles Dougherty, Dean Fisher and Doug. Wheaton. Good luck team in '51.

Tot Spot

By Mary Lou Clark

Well kids here is your news reporter Mary Lou Clark bringing you the latest tidbits of news from the small pupils.

In Mrs. Hall's first grade there are two new pupils: Marshall Trowbridge of Franklinville and Susan White from Springville. The first grade welcomes these classmates and hopes they will find A.C.S. very pleasant.

The children from Mrs. Tompkin's second grade enjoyed a very delightful vacation. Alecia Reisman visited in Rochester while Dawn Burdick spent two weeks visiting her cousin in Pennsylvania. Earl Riffle enjoyed the pleasant waters of Silver Lake and Bruce Johnson went to Niagara.

There were many vacationers from Mrs. Carmody's second grade also. Alan Kelly spent two weeks in Buffalo while Kaye Bostwick visited in Saranac Lake. The state of Oklahoma was found interesting by Dianna Wittie.

On September 4, Miss Schermerhorn's third grade totaled 33 pupils. However, 35 is expected. The class welcomes one new comer, Thomas Freeman.

Local Girl Attends National 4-H Meeting

By Charity Howland

One of my first opportunities of being an F.H.A. State Officer was to attend the Future Homemakers of America National Leadership Training Conference at Michigan State College in East Lansing, Michigan from July 2 until July 6. This meeting and the one held the previous week in Estes Park, Colo., for the girls west of the Mississippi were the first of the kind to be tried by F.H.A. To this meeting in Michigan, girls came from East of the Mississippi and north to Maine, and south to Florida. Over 300 girls were present.

The New York State Organization was represented by Peggy Hines, state president; Clarice Golanski, state treasurer; Helen Cliffords, state parlimentarian; Beverly Hills, state song leader; Rosalie Espling, Garnita Winsor, Loretta Hamilton and myself, state membership chairman. We were accompanied by our state advisor, Miss Georgianna Marks of Albany and Miss Eleanor Dimorier of Windsor, both of whom drove.

While at the college the 300 girls stayed at the largest men's dorm in the world, East Shaw Hall. In the comfortable lounges and spacious game rooms we met for group discussion and recreation. All during the conference, the Civil War was fought over again by the Rebels from the South and by us Yanyees from the North. In the huge well-lighted cafeteria the girls feasted on delicious food.

Beginning Tuesday specialized groups called Interest Groups, sprang into being. However, the day before Mr. Lawrence Taylor of the college taught the recorders, discussion leaders, observers, hostesses and resource persons who were in charge of the group their duties. He also demonstrated two methods of encouraging group participation and individual participation. They were the 6-6 method and the circular response method. These two will also be tried in our local club because they proved very successful at the conference.

Now to tell about the certain groups. Each girl attending found her problems solved in the specific groups. Presidents copeul with other presidents' problems in the group called "If They Made You President" while vice-presidents, whose main duty is to plan the year's program learned new ways of making programs which would be of help to each member. All secretaries think that keeping accurate records is important but F.H.A. secretaries are even more serious. Therefore a group was devoted entirely to teaching minutes. The treasurers found good news and very good ideas for making and spending money wisely in their group, "Financially Sound." Miss Catherine Allen of the University of Tennessee was in charge of the "leading of songs" for song and recreation leaders. She taught them a variety of new songs, games and relaxers which were later taught to the whole group by the class and herself. The parliamentarians learned the "do's and don't's" of a good business meeting from Mr. Harold Sponberg of the College, who wrote the book "The Meeting Will Come to Order." Each girl at the conference received one of these books. These sessions were held for two hours on each day for the remainder of the week.

We F.H.A.'ers were very lucky indeed to have five national officers present. They were, Nancy Caton, president; Emily Pruett, vice-president of the North Atlantic Region; Barbara O'Neel, treasurer; Billie Lou Tarpley, parlimentarian and Mary Leta Gilbert, historian. Among other important personalities were Miss Lelia Smartt, national advisor; Mrs. Margot Grubb, editor of F.H.A. "Teen Times"; and Miss Berenice Mallory, assistant chief of the Home Economics Service of the U. S. Bureau of Education.

At the evening sessions which were held on the campus in the Fairchild Theatre Auditorium, a variety of things were done. Skits, dances, films, games, charades, talks and relaxers were in store for each full and interesting evening. On the last evening the very formal ceremony of initiation of new national officers was held. Five national officers were initiated. They were two vice-presidents, a historian, a parlimentarian and the treasurer. Also held on that evening were the awarding of degree ceremony and the honorary membership ceremony. The American degree which is shown by a gold rose was given to five girls.

During dinner one evening each state had the honor of leading a song characterizing their state. The New York State delegates led "The Sidewalks of New York."

We F.H.A.'ers also had the honor of greeting two Puerto Rican representatives of F.H.A. and meeting two Farm and Home Bureau delegates from Germany. An F.H.A. girl who now resides in Pennsylvania, who in her childhood lived in Greece, did several native Greek dances with the aid of her girl friend. The story of her life and dancing will soon be seen in a fall copy of "Teen Times."

Leaving was the sad part of our stay. So many new friends had been met and friendships were to end so soon. With a promise to shout the praises of the Future Homemakers to all people we left at home, knowing in our hearts that the conference had truly helped us so we may become the leaders of tomorrow.

The Future Homemakers in America, our parents, friends and advisors also our country, will be greater tomorrow because we had the opportunity to work at such a conference. We will because of help and understanding in F.H.A. really become the builders of homes, homes for America's future. With our motto "Toward New Horizons," our study goals and purposes giving us faith, we will really face the future with warm courage and high hopes" as the second line of our creed states and we shall show all we are not wasting time.

Five New Pedagogues Greet Students

By Anita Nichols

Five new teachers were welcomed to the premise of A.C.S. Tuesday as they assumed their positions of guidance for the students here.

Miss Doris Chandler, who resides at Almond, N. Y., and attended Ithaca College is teaching commercial. Miss Chandler has not taught before and when asked her first impression of A. C.S. she replied "pretty and very nice."

Miss Helen Olmstead, the new physical education teacher who lives at Oakfield, N. Y., and attended Brockport State is now residing on East Center street. Miss Olmstead taught at Corfu, N. Y., last year and finds A. C. S. very friendly, both teachers and pupils.

Miss Laura Davis who replaced Mrs. Baker in the junior high English department is teaching for her first year. Miss Davis is from Rushford, N. Y., and attended Houghton College. She also finds A.C.S. to be a very beautiful school.

Mr. Edward Stackwich, formerly of Batavia, N. Y., began his duties in physical education. Mr. Stackwich attended Brockport State, and taught at Red Jacket Central in Manchester, N. Y., last year. He now resides on Barney street in Andover and finds A.C. S. clean, guiet and the pupils well mannered.

Last but not least, we want to welcome back Mrs. Florence Corwin who attended Fredonia State and resides on Baker street. Mrs. Corwin said it was "wonderful" to be back with us again.

School Registration Totals 527

The kindergarten this year is the largest in A.C.S.'s history with 54 pupils. The next three in top rating are the first grade with 51, the third grade with 51 the fourth grade with 45 and the eighth grade with 47.

The other classes rate as follows:
