A PROGRESSIVE FAMILY NEWSPAPER FOR ALLEGANY COUNTY PEOPLE — IN POLITICS INDEPENDENT BUT NEVER NEUTRAL

VOL. [illegible], No. 39 For the Week Ending Thursday, Sept. 27, 1951 $3.00 year; 7c copy

Ten Year Town Road Program Approved

Twenty-five and .38 miles of construction on dirt roads in the town of Andover have been approved to receive state aid under the Erwin town road law, along with construction in 27 other towns in the county, it is announced by Bertram D. Tallamy, New York state superintendent of public works. The total mileage approved for the county is 444.49.

Andover's share of the 10-year program is $44,415.00, and the state aid will amount to $133,245.00. If at any time, either before the program is scheduled to start next summer, or after it is started, any township wishes to withdraw from the program, it is at liberty to do so, Supervisor R. J. Sootheran states.

Under this ten-year program for rehabilitating town road systems, the state's share of construction costs totals $1,963,872.83 with the town's share being $1,049,532.17.

The amount of state aid is computed for each individual project submitted for consideration by town and county officials in accordance with the formula and other provisions of the Erwin law.

These computations have just been completed by the bureau of town highways and county roads on the state department of public works. Notification is being sent to town and county officials regarding the approved projects and state aid applicable to each.

Supervisor Sootheran informs us that the East Valley road is the first road scheduled in the Andover project and that work is expected to start on that next year.

The total mileage of highway construction approved for each of the towns in Allegany county for the ten-year program beginning in 1952 is as follows:

Allen	19.95
Alma	10.5
Almond	10.2

Similar announcements will be made for other counties as rapidly as applications can be checked and state aid computed, Superintendent Tallamy said.

State's Potato Crop Less Than Last Year

Albany, Sept. 23—The 1951 potato crop in New York will be one-fourth smaller than in 1950 and a sixth below the 10-year average, according to the September federal-state crop report issued from the New York State Department of Agriculture and Markets. Dry weather on Long Island and in parts of western New York checked the development of the tubers, while excessive dampness in other areas made control of plant disease difficult and the vines on many fields died prematurely.

On Long Island, where digging has been under way since July, the total production is indicated as 14,640,000 bushels compared with 17,155,000 bushels last year and 16,155,000 bushels the 10-year average. The reduction is much more drastic in upstate areas. The crop of 12,240,000 bushels in 1951 is nearly five million less than the 17,160,000 bushels of 1950 and the 10-year average of 15,990,000 bushels.

Nationally, the potato crop is much below last year. Production in all important states is down. The total of 272,214,000 bushels in the 29 late states that supply most of the potatoes for late fall and winter consumption is 21 percent less than last year and 14 percent below average. It is noted, however, that substantial quantities of potatoes from the crops of 1950 and some earlier years were diverted under government price support programs to livestock feeding and the manufacture of starch and alcohol, and considerable quantities went to waste. After deducting from the total crops the potatoes disposed of in those abnormal ways in earlier years, the effective supply from the 1951 crop for the food markets is not so sharply reduced from last year as is the gross production.

School Closed Next Week

Andover Central School will be closed October 1 through 5. for teachers conference at Wellsville and potato harvest.

Work Started On Dam at Andover Pond

The Soil Conservation machinery moved in over the weekend and work has been progressing this week on the construction of the dam at the pond.

At the regular monthly meeting of the Andover Rod & Gun Club, it was voted to commend the Town Board of Andover and the Town Supervisor for their successful efforts in getting restoration work started on the Andover Ponds. "Reg.' has worked hard, as has the board and we believe they have done well, when you consider all the money and effort that has gone into this project in the past.

A number of people at one time or another have expended a lot of effort and quite a bit of money trying to maintain this site and it must be satisfying to realize that at last a dam is being constructed by the Conservation District and will be maintained by the Town for this and future generations to enjoy.

Library News

Mr. Jesse Phillips has given to our Andover Library a copy of his book "Address of Jesse S. Phillips." Included in this book is Mr. Phillips' first public address given at the Annual Harvest Home in Andover on September 21, 1892. Perhaps some of you were present at that time. Another address was given at a meeting of the Lucy Stone Club in Andover in 1895. This address was on the "Legal Status of Women" and is very interesting. An address was given at the annual meeting of the Allegany County Grange held in Andover on Dec. 4, 1908.

Other addresses included in this book were delivered at Alfred, Cuba, Friendship, Olean, Wellsville, and Buffalo. Another address of interest was given at the dedication of the Elm Valley Union Chapel on Sept. 28, 1904.

Speakers On Children's Needs Available

Speakers on the topic: "The Needs of Children in Allegany County" will be made available to clubs and organizations within the county this fall. The Allegany County Public Welfare Committee voted at its regular September meeting to use this method of acquainting interested people with the recommendations of the New York State Citizen's Committee of One Hundred for Children and Youth, which has just issued its report entitled "The Four Million."

Organizations which want to make use of this speakers service are asked to get in touch with Rev. Albert N. Rogers, Alfred Station, who will schedule the speakers.

The Allegany County Public Welfare Committee, an organization of private citizens affiliated with the State Charities Aid Association, conducts an active program on behalf of the children of the county, particularly the underprivileged and cooperates with the Department of Public Welfare in performing tasks appropriate to a citizens group and in making suggestions to the Department. It has recently added a sub-committee on the Problems of Older People.

The Four Million is a report of the citizens committee which gathered material from New York State for the White House Conference last December. Allegany county cooperated with this project through its Public Welfare Committee. The report considers children's needs under the following headings: The family, care away from home, education, physical and mental health, physically handicapped children and youth, children and youth in trouble, childn and youth in the world of work, and the child and the community.

Rev. Rogers states that speakers will be available by the middle of October, but that interested organizations should get in touch with him as soon as possible.
