Support Your Basketball Team

By Mary Brown

Since cheerleading pratice began Monday night after school, basketball season seems very near and the old problem of getting support for the team rears it's ugly head.

The girls have been practicing very faithfully and, of course, the boys who are trying to make the teams have been working hard in the gym every night.

Our old rival Alfred-Almond, will be in our league this year so it will be more necessary to beat them this year.

Coach Stackwick promises a driving team, as this should be a thrilling season for all sport fans.

It is the obligation of every A. C.S. junior high and high school student to attend these games and cheer their teams to victory.

The first basketball game is November 20, so lets' all turn out and support our boys.

Editor, Hi Herald
Andover Central School
Andover, New York

Dear Editor:

Last year I was a member of your staff on the Hi Herald and I enjoyed writing articles for such a fine paper.

I'm now many miles away from home and I get the paper every week. Of course, the first page I turn to is the Hi Herald. It is still the same very good paper. I wish to congratulate all the writers on the staff and the editor for doing such a fine job.

Many boys in my platoon have read this paper and even though they don't know anyone in A.C. S. they enjoy reading it. So keep up the good work and I wish you all good luck this year.

Sincerely Yours,
Pvt. Douglas Wheaton

Mind Your Manners

By Mimsi Briggs

A large part of school life is centered in school sports. I now think of a basketball team playing a neighboring school. The score is a tie. Crowds of boys and girls are watching the game intently. A basket is made by the home team and, as one person, everybody in one side of the grandstand, rises and yells wildly.

What is the good of all this? It develops sportmanship, you say. And isn't sportsmanship another name for good manners? Let's see. Isn't it true that the most successful host is the one who has forgotten himself in making his guests have a good time? In the same way, the player who forgets himself in his interest in the game and in the team, is most valuable to his side. Probably you have seen a boy take a long shot at a basket because he knew it would be a brilliant play for himself, if he made it. Yet he risked the loss of that basket—and for the moment the success of the whole team—because he did not forget himself. Had he been a real sportsman, he would have passed the ball to a boy nearer the basket, losing the chance of glory for himself, but running less risk of losing the shot for his team. A good sportsman puts himself in the background.

Have you ever sat in the grandstand and listened to a loser's remarks against the winning team? Perhaps you thought, "How rude," or "what a poor sport!" or, "They can't take it!" Don't give your opponents the chance to think the same kind of things about you.

Lots of people who are game enough about losing are insufferable as winners. Of course it's all right to look pleased when you win, but don't "crow" over your opponent. Look for the good points in his game, and be ready to admire them.

Grade Students Celebrate Hallowe'en

The grade students of Andover Central School celebrated Hallowe'en Wednesday afternoon by various types of parties held in their rooms, after a parade through the school.

As the children journeyed around the school, I stopped several of those with outstanding costumes and I want to tell you about them.

Mrs. Robison's kindergarten was first in the procession with Vicki Lynch looking very charming as a bridesmaid and Penny Haynes as a very cute witch. Other outstanding costumes such as clowns, cowboys, old ladies and dutch girls were seen among the kindergarteners.

Many very orignal costumes were found in Mrs. Corwin's group. Larry Skinner looked like a real balloon man with his many colored ballons on a string.

Lee Kessler had a very good cowgirl outfit and Mary Ellen Smith made a lovely gypsy.

One of the most original suits I saw throughout the afternoon was Donald Duck worn by Kenneth Lehman.

The prizes in Mrs. Hall's first grade went to Lynn Carmody, David Rossman and Sheila Clark.

Lynn was chosen most original because of the very clever "three of spades" costume she wore. The costume was fashioned from a large cardboard box with the numbers and spades painted on in black.

Shiela Clark was dressed in a pretty dutch girl outfit and David Rossman looked very comical in his clown outfit.

The costumes in Mrs. Connor's first grade which were most attractive or original were worn by Robert Dougherty as a devil, Janet Burger, clown; Judy Clark, dutch girl; and Connie Meyn as a mail man.

Lou Loescher of Mrs. Carmody's second grade and her classsmate, Deanna Wittie who were dressed as gypsies both looked very pretty.

Prizes in Mrs. Pompkin's second grade went to Encil Glover, who was dressed in an Indian costume and Connie Bronson, who was a gypsy.

Two witches, Lois Reil and Sharon Strouse, were the outstanding costumes of the third grade.

Many very original outfits were displayed by Mrs. Helmer's third and fourth grades. Lucille Rifenbery, as a tiger, Neil Storms as a devil, Venecia Howe, Goldy Locks; Maxine Mead, cowgirl and Hugh Church as a ghost are good examples.

Miss Baker's fourth grade voted three girls, Sally Smith, Beth Sootheran and Carol Stewart as those having the prettiest costumes.

Richard Baker was awarded the prize for the funniest with his tramp outfit.

Warren Hann as the mad-hatter and Beverly Freeman as a cigarette girl were chosen as the most clever.

Ruth White, dressed as a lady was voted as the pupil wearing the costume best liked by her classroom.

Mrs. Jordan's students chose Ann Church who was dressed as a gypsy and John Common, who was dressed as a pirate, as best in their room.

Bertie Phelps and Carol Howard of this class also had very attractive outfits.

Miss Church's fifth and sixth grades voted Joan Sootheran and Caudette Corwin, bride and bridesmaid, prettiest; Shirley Button, as a man, funniest and Robin Dolan most original. Robin was dressed as an Indian.

All the traditional costumes of Hallowe'en, the devils and witches and clowns were very well represented around the halls of A.C.S.

Seniors Win Football League

By Danny Pelton

The inter-class football league ended last Wednesday with the Seniors winning the touch football championship and a Purple and White Plaque for their room.

The juniors and seniors played Tuesday with the seniors taking a 6 to 0 win in the final minutes of the last quarter.

When the freshmen and sophomores played, the game went into over time. The freshmen finally won by more first downs, the number ,two.

The seniors then played the freshmen and won by a wide margin of 19 to 0.

The high school boys hope to see the league continued next year. They wish to thank Coach Stackwick and the coaches of the individual class teams for their time and effort in making the touch football games possible.

School to Observe Armistice Day

Since November 11 which is set aside for the observance of the signing of the armistice in World War I comes on Sunday this year, there will be no school in session Monday, November 12.

Don't Forget Hobo Day November 10

Yes, that's what I shouted. The F.H.A. is holding their first "Hobo Day" at 9 a.m., Saturday, November 10.

Girls will be assigned to different streets so if you hear your door bell ringing, you'll know it's an F.H.A. girl asking for any kind of work. The best part is this: You, the employer, pay her the price you think she earned!

Students remember! Hobo Dance from 8 to 12 on Saturday November 10. Admission only 25 cents. Refreshments will be sold. Come and have a real old fashioned Hobo Time.

Have You Noticed?

By Mary Fowler

Charity Howland's new haircut. It's really short this time.

The watch Mary Brown has been sporting? Nuff said.

Pete Howland's new gold corduroy shirt? Pretty flashy, Pete.

Dale Pelton's gold key chain? We have a city slicker in our midst.

The thick notebooks and worried expressions of the seniors? Their English project deadline falls Wednesday.

Ann Marvel's calling cards? We hear they were a gift from "Chuck."

Ruth Atwell's bright new plaid dress?

Irene Hurlburt's interest in the freshman class? How about that, Butch?

Charlotte Case has been missing from gym class due to an injured foot.

Bill Glover's renewed interest in Greenwood. Make up your mind Bill.

The blue convertible in the A.C.S. parking lot? No, it isn't lost, it belongs to Mr. Helfer, the practice teacher in social studies.

That every week two seniors have to get to school early for news reports—and sometimes don't make it.

The football championship banner in the senior homeroom? Congratulations boys.

Clyde Jackson's glassy stare and tendency to fall asleep in classes? Early to bed and early to rise, Clyde.

Harvey

By Sandra Bostwick

The other day as I put my hand in my pocket to get warm, I felt something. After pulling it out I found it was Harvey, who said it was to-o-o-o cold for him.

He said that Friday night as he was trying to get warm, he dropped in on the senior social Games were played under the direction of Ila Marsh, Robin Dolan and Shirley Button. Cider doughnuts and candy were served by the refreshment committee. Mrs. Lunn was a guest. She served lollipops and ice cream and cake roll in honor of Reta Lunn's birthday.
