Alfred and Columbia Start New Program

Alfred, Dec. 10—A special five-year combined liberal arts-engineering program, worked out jointly by Alfred, President M. Ellis Drake has announced.

Columbia University's School of Engineering has, for many years, based its professional work on a strong foundation of liberal arts and physical science. This combined program permits three years of broad training in liberal arts at Alfred followed by two years of engineering at Columbia. Upon successful completion of the five-year program, students will receive both a bachelor's degree from Alfred and an engineering degree from Columbia.

The program is open to entering students and freshmen and sophomores now enrolled in Alfred University's College of Liberal Arts. For the first three years, the joint plan calls for a study of basic humanities and physical science subjects with a minimum of pre-professional work.

The plan has several advantages for students interested in engineering. It permits students to complete in five years what would normally require a longer period if both degrees were obtained separately. Also, it guarantees automatic acceptance into Columbia upon recommendation of the College of Liberal Arts of Alfred University.

Alfred is one of 15 colleges and universities cooperating with Columbia on such a program.

Long Life For Rugs and Cleaner

Empty the dirt from your vacuum clearner often to save your rugs and lengthen the life of your cleaner. Repairmen report that many cleaners supposedly out of order have nothing more wrong with them than a container jam-full of dirt or a filter that needs cleaning.

When the bag or filter becomes clogged the stream of air which provides the suction is cut down. Less and less dirt is drawn into the cleaner, and more dirt gets around into the rugs—all of which means hard wear for your rugs.
