Local Navy Recruit Company Now Forming

The Olean Navy Recruiting Station has received word that another Northwestern Pennsylvania, Southwestern New York company will be formed and leave Buffalo for the training center December 27 and 28. Men signing up for this company will remain together throughout recruit training and will come home on leave together.

January, February and March Draft calls will be greatly increased and the present authorization for draftees to enlist in the branch of their own choosing expires December 31 and in all probability will not be extended again.

Last year from December till April the local Navy Recruiting Station had a waiting list of 142 men, this waiting list may be formed again when the increased draft calls go out.

Any man considering the Navy is urged by the Navy Recruiters to make application now rather than run the risk of a waiting list and possibly being drafted before he is enlisted.
