...blue eyes. Ivan's face turning scarlet, and his eyes blazing with an awful, a deadly light, while his right hand flew to his breast, where she caught the gleam of a pistol.

Seizing his arm, she drew him into an arched doorway, before which they had come to a halt.

So quick was the act that he could not resist her.

With hands raised pleadingly, she placed herself before him, and with her back to the riders.

"Ivan! Ivan!" she cried, "think of me!"

"I do think of you!" he said, making as if he would break away, and leap like a tiger on the horseman in the advance.

"Then would you have me partner in this act if you want to save me the deed?"

Blinded though he was by the intensity of his terrible purpose, he saw the force of her query.

His arm dropped at once, and staggering from excitement like a drunken man, he said as they again reached the pavement:

"I am a fool, Lola, a fool; and you are right."

She made no comment, but again taking his arm they resumed their journey in silence.

Sir James Likely to be Re-elected.

LONDON, Sep. 28.—Sir James Ferguson's acceptance of office as Postmaster-General having rendered vacant his seat in Parliament, an election contest of unusual importance is now in progress in Manchester. The fact that Sir James was elected in 1886 by a majority of over 1,600, which was reduced to less than 400 the following year, does not justify the claim that the Liberals will win the [illegible] Liberals to convert in northern Manchester, [illegible] that Sir James will be returned.

STATE OFFICIALS.

Gov. Pattison's Call for a Special Session of the Senate Creates a Flurry.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Sep. 28.—Gov. Pattison's proclamation calling an extra session of the Senate on Oct. 18 to investigate the administration of certain State officers has caused quite a stir among officials here, although it was understood such a plan was contemplated.

The governor gives the following reason for his action: "Grave charges have been preferred involving the Auditor-General and State Treasurer and most seriously reflecting upon the manner in which their official duties have been performed. It is proper that diligent inquiry should be made to ascertain whether or not reasonable cause does exist for their removal.

"There is in the public mind a profound conviction, that the officials referred to, and some of their subordinates, have been grossly inefficient, shamefully negligent and entirely wanting in due fidelity. It is the prevailing opinion that some of the officials connected with these offices have been guilty of absolute faithlessness and downright dishonesty in violation of their oaths of office and of the criminal laws of the commonwealth. If any one of the charges so made should be established, appropriate action looking to the removal of the officers involved should be taken by the Senate.

"John Bardsley, late Treasurer of the City of Philadelphia, is now a convict for embezzlement of public money, a large portion of which would have been in the State Treasury long prior to the exposure of his actions had those charged with the administration of the duties of Auditor-General and State Treasurer performed them with due fidelity. Bardsley's stubborn refusal to disclose any information whatever as to the conduct of these officials, has compelled the abandonment of proposed criminal prosecution, at least for a time. A proper inquiry by the Senate may develope evidence sufficient to satisfy its members that reasonable cause exists for the removal of the Auditor-General and State Treasurer."

A COMPLICATED CASE.

Doubt Whether Ettie Kelly Was the Legal Wife of Daniel Kelly.

NEWBURG, Sep. 28.—The application before the Supreme Court at Poughkeepsie, to compel Ettie Kelly, plaintiff, to furnish security for the prosecution of her action against Robert N. Whelan, executor, and others, defendants, reveal a strange case. Ettie Kelly alleges that she was the wife of Daniel Kelly, of Newburg, who died on Feb. 5, last, aged over 70 years, and that she married him on Nov. 3, 1888.

Kelly died seized of property in Newburg, consisting of three houses and lots. He left a will by which he devised his entire property to his three grand children, all minors, upon their attaining the age of 21 years, and in the mean time directed his executors to hold the property in trust for their benefit. His wife's name was not mentioned in the will.

The executor alleges that Mrs. Kelly is not the legal wife of Daniel Kelly, as she was married at Goshen, N. Y., in 1881, to one Mahlen Johnson, who is still living, and that she lived with Johnson as his lawful wife for some years.

On the other hand, Mrs. Kelly alleges that some time after her marriage with Johnson she ascertained that the marriage was invalid because Johnson had another wife, Elizabeth McCarrick, living at the time, who was a former resident of New Jersey, and to whom he was married in or about the year 1868, and that by this first marriage Johnson had two children, who are still living. This wife, she alleges, lived until twenty-three days after her marriage with Kelly, when she committed suicide at the residence of her brother, Edward McCarrick, in Unionville, Orange County.

A MANIAC IN CHURCH

Attempts an Assault Upon Archbishop Corrigan.

A SCENE OF WILD CONFUSION.

The Madman Denounces the Prelate as a "Pontius Pilate."

A Terrific Struggle Between the Maniac and the Night Watchman--The Congregation Rush for the Doors--The Archbishop Unhurt--His Assailant a Machinist Who Is Crazed By Sickness.

NEW YORK, Sep. 28.—St. Patrick's Cathedral, yesterday morning was the scene of the greatest excitement, when a maniac attempted to kill Archbishop Corrigan, who was preaching. The seats in the main body of the church were within a few feet of the pulpit in which the Archbishop was speaking. In the front row of these seats sat a young man whose disordered attire and pale face and gleaming eyes all during the service preliminary to the sermon had caused people to gaze upon him with affrighted glances.

Suddenly he jumped to his feet and with a wild scream shouted to the Archbishop as he shook his clenched fist at the priestly speaker, a torrent of half distinguishable words.

"You are a Pontius Pilate," he vowed, with a demoniac writhing of his face; "you have judged Father McGlynn, and I am his friend."

The ravings of the man were then merged in a howl of mingled screams, curses and half-uttered blasphemy. He grasped the locked pew door and vaulted over the slight barrier into the aisle; and with outstretched, quivering hands, dashed toward the altar, shouting that he would strangle the Archbishop where he stood.

In the twinkling of an eye the wildest panic reigned. Women screamed and fainted, strong men turned pale, and the church, from a silent place of worship, was turned into a pandemonium of frightened people.

Then the madman rushed to the foot of the pulpit, and had mounted two steps toward the prelate when James Martin, the night watchman of the Cathedral, sprang upon him, and the two engaged in a deadly struggle. The noise of the battle, loud as it was, was nearly drowned by the stampede of the congregation. Some people shouted that a fire had broken out, others cried that the Archbishop had been assassinated at the altar, but all rushed in a disorderly, panic-stricken crowd for the exits.

Finally a policeman separated the combatants and arrested the madman, who, when locked up, gave his name as Joseph P. Hourahan, and his occupation, a machinist. He is crazed by illness.

CONFIDENCE MAN CAUGHT.

The Notorious "Red Leary" O'Brien Arrested for Swindling a Merchant.

NEW YORK, Sep. 28.—Thomas, alias "Red Leary" O'Brien, one of the most desperate confidence men and all-round "crooks" in this city, was arrested last night on a warrant sworn out by the District Attorney of Albany, charging him with the theft of $10,000 from an Albany merchant, Feb. 3, 1890. The job was done by O'Brien and a "pal" named George Post.

They induced their victim, by a time-worn bunco game, to draw the money from a bank and bring it to the hotel at which they were stopping. As soon as he went to their room and showed that he had the money with him, he was knocked senseless with a sandbag and robbed. Post fled to South America and is there yet. O'Brien disappeared and it was not until yesterday that any trace of him could be found.

SHOT THE MAYOR.

A Desparate Negro Kills the Chief Officer of Spartanburg, S. C.

SPARTANBURG, S. C., Sep. 28.—There is but little doubt but that South Carolina will add another lynching to her list before another day is done. Mayor J. Henneman was shot down at 8 o'clock without a moment's warning and the murderer is now in jail in momentary expectancy of being lynched.

John Williams, a desperate negro, was making a disturbance at home with his wife when Mayor Henneman went to the house to ascertain the cause of the loud cries. He arrested Williams and was trying to prevent his escape until the police came to his assistance.

During the struggle which followed Williams shot the mayor in the back, killing him instantly. The town is greatly excited.

WILKESBARRE, Pa. Sep. 27.—The fire in the lower workings of the Delaware and Hudson Canal Company's large Conyngham Colliery is still burning fiercely and all efforts to extinguish it have proved fruitless. Engineers Object to Federation.

NEW YORK, Sep. 28.—A meeting of locomotive engineers was held in Jersey City yesterday. Over 1,000 engineers, accompanied by their wives, were present. After an open meeting, at which speech-making and sociability were the order, had been held, a secret session occurred. Federation of the Brotherhood with othe railroad organizations was discussed, but no definite action was taken. The sentiment appeared to be against federation.

WILL LEAVE THE LAND LEAGUE.

Two Prominent Members to Sever Their Connection--The Coming Convention.

CHICAGO, Sep. 28.—J. P. Sutton, secretary of the Irish Land League, has arrived in Chicago and says that he and Mr. Fitzgerald will sever their connection with the organization. He thinks the result of the convention will be a declaration of neutrality as between the two factions in Ireland, and that another organization may be effected on a strictly American basis. But what the aims and purposes of such an organization would be he could not say.

The main feature of the coming gathering would be to close up the records and career of the land league, and the entire correspondence between Parnell and other leaders in Ireland and Mr. Fitzgerald will be submitted to show why no convention has been held since 1886.

Mr. Sutton thinks the convention will also take some action looking towards the liberation of the large sum of money held in Paris and which neither the Parnellites nor the McCarthyites can agree to release so that it could be used for the people. It is thought that the appointment of an envoy by the convention to proceed to Ireland might effect that result.

BECAUSE HE WAS OUT LATE.

William Pangborn Getting Satisfaction for his Peculiar Arrest.

PLAINFIELD, N. J., Sep. 26.—William Pangborn, of North Plainfield, has obtained a writ of certiorari from the Supreme Court. His case is a peculiar one.

Early in the spring Pangborn was arrested by Marshal Rutledge, charged with being on the streets after proper hours. It was then 12 o'clock. Though there is no ordinance covering such a complaint or designating the hour at which the North Plainfield resident shall seek his couch, the justice before whom the case was tried sentenced Pangborn to pay a fine. Rutledge also claimed that Pangborn was disorderly because he objected when told to go home and to bed.

Together with the writ, Justice Crasley is required to appear and show why the fine which was imposed should not be returned.

Pangborn will bring a suit against the borough of North Plainfield for damages should a decision favorable to him be granted by the Supreme Court.

THE WEST SHAKEN UP.

An Earthquake Creates Consternation, But Does Little Damage.

CHICAGO, Sep. 28.—Seven Western and Southern States were visited by an earthquake shock Saturday night shortly before 11 o'clock, but the damage done was comparatively small, being confined principally to the cracking of buildings, some of which, however, may be so badly injured as to necessitate their being torn down. The States visited were Illinois, Iowa, Indiana, Ohio, Tennessee, Missouri and Kentucky.

From the reports received here the general direction of the seismic disturbance seems to have been from northwest to the southeast. Galena, Ill., in the northwestern part of this State, near the Wisconsin line, being the extreme northern point.

Telegraphic reports say that in some cities three distinct shocks were felt, but in the majority of towns heard from but two were experienced. The duration of the disturbance was from three seconds to one minute, although St. Louis telegraphs that the shock lasted fully two minutes.

TRAINS IN COLLISION

Fatal Accident On the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad.

TWO KILLED AND THREE HURT.

A Regular Freight Crashes Into An Extra With Terrible Results.

The Accident Occurred in a Deep Cut, Scalding Steam Causes the Death of the Engineer--A Tramp Who Was Riding Between the Bumpers Crushed--Several Trainmen Injured.

CUMBERLAND, Md., Sep. 28.—A disasterous freight wreck occurred on the Baltimore & Ohio road at a water station four miles west of Cumberland yesterday, in which two men were killed and three injured.

Where the accident happened is a deep cut, a sharp curve and a grade. An extra freight was running at the rate of 17 miles an hour and behind it came a regular freight, which was behind time, running about 22 miles an hour.

As the regular train rounded the curve the engineer saw the rear end of the other train and reversed his engine but it was too late. The fireman jumped and escaped with a few slight bruises. Engineer Earnest was thrown from the engine which was wrecked completely The escaping steam scalded him terribly and his skin when handled came off in shreds. He died this afternoon.

Wm. Thorpe, who was riding on a bumper midway the train was caught between two cars and terribly smashed, receiving injuries from which he died in the afternoon.

Conductor Zimmerman, Brakeman Hardy and Lewis Rogers, who were in the caboose of the extra freight, were slightly injured,

About 17 cars were piled in a heterogeneous mass on the tracks. The damage is placed at $10,000.

STRUCK A SCHOONER.

The Steamer Circassia Collides With a Vessel and Returns to Port.

NEW YORK, Sept 28.—The Anchor Line Steamship Circassia, which sailed hence for Glasgow, Saturday, returned to her pier last night with a hole seven feet long and five feet wide in her starboard bow. Projecting from the hole was a quantity of wreckage, including the bowsprit and jibboom of a sailing vessel. The Circassia came into collision with a lumber-laden schooner outside of Sandy Hook while she was going at full speed.

The Circassia was left in a bad condition. Her machinery was disarranged by the shock and it was decided to return here. The schooner colliding with the Circassia is the Daylight, of Boston, which is completely wrecked forward of the foremast.

The buoyancy of her cargo kept her afloat and she followed the steamer to port. The shock of the collision threw a number of the passengers of the Circassia out of their berths, but no one was injured.

Mr. Kemble had been warned long ago that he must give up active participation in business affairs if he wished to prolong his life. He heeded this warning and was gradually severing his connection with the various street railway enterprises which he had connected himself with.

Mr. Kemble was 63 years old. He had been identified with politics from his youth and was always high in the councils of the Republican party. He was twice elected State Treasurer of Pennsylvania on the Republican ticket. He leaves a large family of children and grandchildren. His wealth is estimated at several millions of dollars.

Confiscated the Checks.

ROCHESTER, Sep. 28.—For some time past the Rochester Car Company has been using a round nickel piece about the size of a 5-cent nickel, as checks for passes on the road. These have been sold to the patrons of the road at the rate of eleven for 50 cents. Saturday an official of the Government Secret Service appeared in the city and confiscated all the checks claiming that these checks were being passed as money and there is a federal statute prohibiting the issuing or circulating of any check or device that can be used as money.
