Its Origin, Symptoms, Treatment, and Ratio of Patality.

Typhus fover is called by various names. Spotted fever and iail, ship, menses. Spotted fever and iail, ship, menses. Spotted fever and iail, ship, mespital, putrid, or pestilential fever are all the same. It has been dreaded for hundreds of years as an epidemic pestilent, and is especia. Addingerous to persons advanced in years. The mornality in children under fifteen years old, the mortality is set at 4ti per cent. The average mornality is 18 per cent. It has appeared in all parts of the world, but is more to be dreaded in temperate or cold climates.

The main predisposing cause of typhus is a low health rate. Where population is dense and sanitary conditions are bud the danger is greatest, and these conditions obtain not only in crowded cities, but in armies afield, in prisons, and wheraver human beings are packed too closely. The belief used to be current that such conditions only were necessary to create the disease, but it is now thought that a specific germ must enter the human system before the disease can develop. No typhus germ has ever been actually discovered, although several distinguished physicians have believed for the time that the discovery had been made, but the presumption is, much against typhus appearing from the beginning without the entrance of a living organism.

made, but the presumption is, much against typhus appearing from the beginning without the entrance of a living organism.

The course of typhus covers a period of about fourteen days from inception to crisis, of which the longest stage is that of incubation, from the inception of the poison into the system to the first manifestation of special evidence of the disease. No special symptoms mark this stage, except a general lassitude. The invasion of the fever is the second stage, and the symptoms are of rigor and of prolonged chills combined with distressing headache and inability to sleep. High fever soon develops, and the pulse, at first full but afterward feeble, is rapid, the beatts ranging from 100 to 120 or more. The height of the fever is usually reached about the seventh day, when in favorable cases a drop of 1 degree from the maximum (103 to 105 degrees is often noted. If this subsidence does not come the case is usually severe. The tongue is brown and dry, the teeth are coated, and the patient has no appetite, but an intense thirst. The bowels are usually constipated.

The third or stage of erruption is marked by the appearance of durk red blotches upon the abdomen, sides, limbs, and back, and sometimes on the face. This is usually accompanied by a faint mottling of the whole surface. The patient's headache and general discomfortlessen with the appearance of the cruption, but this is partly chargeable to the typhus stupor which comes at this point, in which the patient either lies on his back, with a dusky countenance, or is delirious both night and day. The delirium is generally shown by low mutterings, but sometimes by maniacal wildness.

The crisis, or favorable change, comes about the fourteenth day, and is marked by an abrupt fall of temperature, the return of moisture to the tongue, and by returning intelligence. The patient is left very weak, but recovery is rapid. The treatment of typhus starts with complete isolation and continual watching. The main item is good nursing, but the best possible ventilation and cleansing of the sick chamber are immediately secondary. Food should be given with absolute regularity, and the patient should not be suffered to fall into too deep a stuper. Individual cases develop special treatment. Cold applications and tepid baths are favored by some authorities. A locoloic stimulants are rarely necessary except to prevent are rarely necessary except to prevent collapse.—[New York Times.

Curiosities from Mounds.

Hundreds of skeletons, many of them wearing copper masks, are among the curiosities that have been obtained from a group of ancient mounds near Chilfcothe, Ohlo, forming the most remarkable find of antiquities ever made in this country. Not so much on account of their value and beauty as for the immense quantity have the treasures excited astonishment, demonstrating the existence in former times of a great aborginal population in that vicinity. Among them are pearls, not merely by scores and hundreds, but by hundreds of thousands—dozens of them as big as English walnuts, and fit for crown jewels, were they not spoiled by decay and blackened by fire.

Time to Deposit.

An old Roxborough citizen who had no faith in banks as a place to deposit money carried all his earnings with him wherever he went. While on his way to Philadelphia recently he was accosted by a stranger, who wished to ride in his carriage. The request was granted, and when opposite Laurel Hill Cemetery the Stranger strempted to out out the trousers. stranger attempted to out out the trousers pocket of the old gentleman. The instrument went in too deep, cutting the leg badly. He yelled lustily, and the stranger disappeared up a ravine and escaped. Twenty-five hundred dollars was deposited in bank to the old man's account that day. "[Philodalphia Broard ount that day .- [Philadelphia Record.

The aboye is a good likeness of Mr. Geo. C. Cradick engraved from a photo, taken a short time ago and sent to Dr. Kilmer & Co., with his letter and package of gravel he speaks about, which was dissolved and expelled after using three bottles of Swamp-Root. The following is Mr. Cradick's unsolicited account of his distressing and painful case.

Gosport, Ind., Jan. 30, 1892.

Dr. Kilmer. & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. —I do not know how to express my heartfelt thanks to you for the benefit I have received from using your Swamp-Root Kidney Liver and Bladder Cure. I am now 63 years old, and have suffered almost death for about three years. I had given up to die, but as I profess to be a Christian man and a great believer in the prayer of the righteous, I prayed that God would send something that would prolong my life, and I feel thankful to Him and you for the means that was sent. May God spare your life many years yet that you may hear the great good that your medicine is doing. On the 20th day of August, 1891. Mr. Frank Lewson, your agent at Spencer persuaded me to take a bottle on trial. I have axeen three bottles and it has brought out of my bladder lime or gravel, which I have axeen in quantity the size of a goose egg and I now ieel like a new man. May God bless you and your medicine.

I remain your humble servant, Box 273. Gronge C. Crandick.

SECOND LETTER,

DEAR DOCTOR—I take great pleasure in answering your letter, which I received today. You say "you would like to publish my testimonial in your fluide to Health for a while." I have no objections at all for I want to do atlin my power for afflicted himmanity. I send by this mail a lot of the Gravel (about one-half of what I sayad) that the Swamp-Root dissolved and expelled from we bladder.

travel tabout out-part of the travel table the Swamp-Root dissolved and expelled from my bladder.

Two years ago last September I was taken with pain almost all over me, my head and back, my legs and feet became oold, would get sick at my stomach and vomit often, suffering a great deal from chills and at times these were so severe that I thought I would freeze to death. The condition of my urine was not so bad through the day, but during the night, at times, I had to get up every hour, and often every half hour.

Would urinate sometimes a gallon a night, then it seemed my kidneys and back would kill me. I had been troubled with constitution for many years, but since using your swamp-Root have been better than for a long time. The medicine has helped my appetite wonderfully and it seems as though I could not eat enough.

Ilive about six miles in the country from Gosport. I was born and raised here, and have been a member of the M. E. Church for forty-two years.

Pardon me for writing so much for I feel that I would never get through praising your great remedy for Kidney, Liver and Bladder troubles.

Your true friend,

Leo. C. bradick

Those one try Swamp-Root have generally first employed the family physician, or used all the prescriptions within their reach without benefit. As a last resort, when their case has become chronic, the symptoms complicated and their constitution run down, then they take this remedy, and it is just such cases and cures as the one above that have made Swamp-Root famous and given it a world-wide reputation. ### A Wonderful Cable.

Probably the longest single span of with rope in the world is that now in use in the construction of the great Austin dam, at Austin, Texas. The main cable is 1,350 feet long and 24 inches in diameter, and the hoisting is done with 4-inch steel rope. The plant is used to carry away the material excavated and to place the stone used in constructing the dam. The hoisting apparatus will lift a weight of seven tons and carry it the entire length of the span in about a minute and a half.—[Manufacturer.
