OUR WASHINGTON LETTER.

The Week's Events at the National Capital.

Washington, D. C. March 21, 1892.
"Senator Hill's Southern speeches," said a prominent member of the "Farmer's Alliance," "recall a conversation with him in New York city, previous to the assembling of Congress. He then said that the proper policy for the democratic House would be to devote its entire attention to reducing the appropriation bills to an economical basis and after passing them to adjourn early in the spring. He expressed the opinion that nothing could possibly be gained owing to the republican Senate and the republican executive, by attempting to legislate on financial and tariff matters, while much might be lost by stirring up discussion in the party. He has not spoken quite that plain in his speeches, but he has said enough to convince me that he is still of the opinion that he was before Congress not at all that he thinks the democrats of the House are making some very bad mistakes."

Sickness is very prevalent among members of Congress. At a single session of the House this week more than forty "pairs" were announced, and the most of them were made because of the sickness of one or other of the parties, and in many cases of both.

There are no new developments in the Behring Sea case. President Harrison has jugged the memory of Lord Salisbury by requesting, through the British Minister here, an answer to the despatch sent a week ago last Monday. When that answer is received something will be determined definitely upon.

No man who ever sat in the United States Senate was more generally loved and respected than Justin S. Morrill, of Vermont. An example of this was given this week when the two democratic Senators from West Virginia agreed that the bill relating to West Virginia's share of the Direct tax money be postponed until the recovery of Senator Morrill, because they understood that he was worrying himself about not being able to be present and deliver a speech which he had prepared on the subject. To fully appreciate this very unusual courtesy it must be remembered that there are very few who have any hopes of Senator Morrill's recovery, and that his views on the question at issue in the bill are opposed to those of the West Virginia Senators.

Commissioner of Pensions Raim must have a liking for being criticised or else be sadly deficient in what is commonly referred to as good, hard, horse sense. Notwithstanding his very unpleasant experience through appointing members of his immediate family to office, he told the Congressional committee which is conducting the Pension Office investigation, that he had recommended his daughter for appointment as his private secretary, and that she is now performing the duties of that position, having left a clerkship in the Census Bureau to take it although the recommendation has not yet been confirmed by the Secretary of the Interior, who has been out of town. The first thing the average Government official does after getting in office is to begin scheming to get the rest of his family in office.

President Harrison this week issued his message restoring the duty upon hides, sugar, coffee and tea from those countries which have neglected or declined to negotiate reciprocity agreements with the United States.
It only affects three countries, Colombia, Haiti and Venezuela.

The State Department has received no details of the reciprocity treaty which Minister Reid has negotiated with France, although its general scope is known to be favorable to us.

The leaders of both the democratic and republican parties are becoming jealous of the attentions paid by the other to the Farmers' Alliance. The Alliance men are doing little talking, but they are probably doing some right hard thinking.

Bills for the admission of Arizona and New Mexico have been favorably reported to the House and placed on the calendar.

Mr. Richard Church is reported very ill at the old homestead at Bel-videra.

The April meeting of the Allegany County Publishers' Association will be held at the Fasset House in Wells-ville on April 15th.

The citizens of Alfred Centre have elected the following corporation officers: President, C. D. Reynolds; trustee, John F. Langworthy; treasurer, D. S. Burdick; collector, George C. Bassett.

Wellsville's corporation election resulted in the choice of the following: President, W. C. Kendall; trustees, Charles A. Scheffer and Russell Tre-mau; treasurer, E. A. Rathbone; collector, John Sarsfield.

Charles Gardiner of Wellsville has just received a pension of $12 a month, with $300 back pay.

Wm. H. Wilday of Fillmore fell from the upper floor in his planing mill, a distance of 13 feet, and hurt his knee so badly that he will be confined to the house for a considerable time.

Clyde Moon, a six year-old boy at Marshall, fell down from overhead in a wood shed and struck on an axe, cutting his face badly and breaking off two teeth.

Over fifty persons, it is said, have signed their intentions of joining Belmont churches as a result of the recent union revival meetings held in that place.

The corporation election in the village of Belmont resulted in the election of F. W. Chamberlain for presi-

J. Richardson, treasurer and Stephen Bartwright, collector.

while working about his mill, was thrown upon the band-wheel of the engine, breaking his arm and otherwise injuring him.

Only four towns in Allegany County voted for license at the recent town meetings. They are Andover, Amity, Hume and Wellsville.

Mr. Henry Pettit of Cuba picked from his orchard a bunch of apple blossoms in full bloom, a few days ago.

Challenge to Melville Niles.

ALFRED CENTRE, N. Y., March 20, '92.

Mr. Niles—Sir: I notice in the Andover News issued March 2, 1892, an advertisement signed "Melville Niles," in connection with which, you have unjustly and falsely accused me in a most vicious and wrongful manner, which you say are facts, and can prove them to be true. In answer I herely challenge you to prove them to be absolute and undeniable facts, under a forfeit of $500, which shall be duly paid to myself in case you fail to prove them as such. The case to be brought before J. R. Crandall, Esq., as referee. His decision to be final and legal. He to receive for such service $15 if decided in your favor, $10 if decided against you. I agree to pay in either case. You are to accept this challenge and appear before said referee at his office on the 7th day of April, 1892, to prove said assertions referred to above; and shall duly notify me of your acceptance on or before March 28th, 1892. In consideration that you do not accept, I shall publish your refusal in the Andover News. A. M. TRUMAN.

Were you out in the blizzard last Saturday night.

When Old—I've forgotten the windy god's name—

With malice aforethought to paint the town white.

With a terrible army of wind-spirits came?

Did the rush of the storm and the wind's fearful clatter

(Chill your blood, pierce your marrow and make your teeth chatter?)

Did you think death by freezing was no laughing matter?

To a man who'd neglected to pay up the printer?

You survived. Pay up now! if a zephyr next winter

Shall sweep you from earth, leaving never a splinter.

You can leave the cold world with the happy reflection

That at St. Peter's gate you can pass his inspection.
