"The saddest and most shocking accident in the history of this village occurred last evening about 8 o'clock, by which the lives of three and perhaps four men were lost. While some 200 men, women and children were standing on and near the iron bridge which spans Cold Creek watching the water as it sped under the bridge and over the falls immediately below, a part of the south abutment gave away hurling several men into the water. Five of them lower swept over the falls. They were A. W. Last Tuesday afternoon we were called to Belmont on a matter of bus-iness, and dropped into Judge Ward's Court to see how matters were running. We had an opportunity to find out before we got away. Sheriff Sherman approached us and said we were wanted in the Court as a "talisman." wanted in the Court as a "talisman." The Sheriff didn't say what use the Court had for a "talisman," but evidently thought we would answer the purpose, whatever it was. As we understood it, we were not wanted to play the part of a Magic Talisman, but simply that of a plain, every day "talisman." We approached the Bar of Justice and ascertained that the "talisman." After a few more questions from Mr. Todd it was decided that the jury was acceptable all around, and the case of Crane vs. Harris was begun. It was an action for damages. Crane keeps a livery stable in Wellsville, and claimed the defendant had driven a team of her horses in such manner as to kill one and injure the other. The trial lasted until Thursday morning, when the jury retired.
The jurymen, however did not retire that night. They wrestled with ques-tions of fact all day Thursday and all Thursday night reaching a verdict of "No cause of action" about 7:30 o'clock Friday morning.
