

HAMILTON C. NORRIS, EDITOR

ANDOVER, N. Y., Aug. 17, 1892.

The switchmen employed on several railways in Buffalo - among them the Erie - went out on a strike last Saturday. A day or two later the strike had extended to other places, and fears are entertained that it may become general throughout this section. The cause of the strike was a demand for higher wages or a decreased number of hours' work. The second day of the strike in Buffalo (Sunday) was marked with several acts of lawlessness which cannot fail to injure the cause of the striking men. Cars were set on fire in the Lehigh Valley yard and, rightly or wrongly, the crime is laid at the door of the strikers. Other cars were set loose to run down an inclined trestle, causing a wreck. A train was boarded by men on the watch for "scabs," and about fifty men were driven from it. Several men were assaulted during the day.

On Monday the trouble had assumed such serious proportions that the State militia was called out to quell the riots. It is stated that the demands made by the strikers were apparently just, and that public sympathy was largely on their side until the destruction of property began. But whatever claim the men had to public sympathy has been forfeited. When it comes to the point that the militia has to be called on to preserve lives and property from the fury of a mob, the sentiment of the people very rapidly changes, and the strikers themselves become the offenders. Men who do not wish to work for a given sum have the right to quit, but when they seek to destroy the property of their former employers and use forcible means to keep others from taking their places, we believe they should receive a lesson from the authorities which will put an effectual stop to such work and prove an example for others. "The peace must be preserved, even if we have to fight to do it." That's our motto.

WHICH SUITS YOU BEST?

LOOK ON THIS PICTURE.

The prices on all grades of American carpets, according to one of the largest manufacturers in the business, have fallen on an average 10 per cent. since 1890. Thus doth the Tariff oppress the poor. Meanwhile work at good wages has been provided for 2,500 extra workers at the Amsterdam (N. Y.) mills alone. - Brooklyn Times.

Gov. Roswell P. Flower admits that the recent reapportionment is unjust. He makes excuses, but he cannot deny the essential point. If the apportionment is unjust it is necessarily unconstitutional. - Albany Journal.

Secretary Foster states the case tersely and forcibly when he says that while an abundance of good money is never detrimental, it is very easy to have too much bad money. - St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Candidate Cleveland habitually uses language which would be appropriate if he were in his sister's business of preceptress in a young ladies' seminary, but which comes with ill-grace from a man who is seeking political favors at the hands of the most enlightened electorate in the world. To one of his admirers he writes: "The plan which you suggest is very good so far as it is intended to instruct the people." Does he think this country is a kindergarten? - Evening Wisconsin.

The Democratic State Campaign Committee has a chairman. He was chosen on Monday evening. He is William F. Sheehan, Lieut.-Gov. Sheehan, "Blue-eyed Billy" Sheehan, the same Sheehan who, as Speaker of the Assembly denied the right of petition to Catholic priests; the identical Sheehan who, as presiding officer of the Senate, assured a member of the Senate that he had no right to be fair in politics. It may be also mentioned, incidentally, that he is the Sheehan who, as delegate to the Chicago convention, signed his name to a declaration of belief that Mr. Cleveland could not carry New-York. And while we are on the subject there is no impropriety in adding that he is the Sheehan whom the New York "Times," speaking in the name of the candidate on the morning of his nomination, declared, to be a "misleader," a "wrongdoer," an "evil spirit," a "blackguard," a "pirate," and a devil. - New York Tribune.

AND THEN ON THIS.

One of Judge Rumsey's points is that the reapportionment bill is unconstitutional because of the failure to make a separate enumeration of "persons of color not taxed," and exclude them from the Senate apportionment. This, he holds, makes both census and apportionment acts invalid. No such class exists now, and no such class was recognized in the apportionment of 1879. On this point the New York Times observes that "Judge Rumsey does not agree with the doctrine held by the United States Supreme Court that colored citizens can no longer be excluded from the basis of representation under the Fourteenth Amendment of the Federal Constitution." - Elmira Gazette.

Since the convention Mr. Sheehan's language and behavior have been conciliatory. He has proclaimed his loyalty to the National ticket. He has predicted that the nominees would carry New York. His retention of a place on the National committee bears testimony to his readiness to work in harmony with his fellow-democrats in that body. So far as "organized" relations go, Mr. Sheehan is in line with Democratic efforts and Democratic aspiration. No leader in the party has a wider opportunity than he to demonstrate his capacity and good faith. - Brooklyn Eagle.

Free Trade would deprive them of nothing but their license to collect higher prices from their own countrymen than they get from Europeans and other foreigners. Competition would force them to keep abreast with the times in machinery and methods, but all that deserved to survive would survive, and the American people would have the benefit of cheaper goods. - Chicago Herald.

The Republicans have made a complete change of front since 1890. The campaign of that year was one of education for the Republicans. They learned that the people were not satisfied with legislation that resulted in higher prices, and so the Republicans now advance the theory that although the McKinley Bill was framed to make the prices higher, it had the opposite effect, and so everybody ought to be satisfied. - Utica Observer.

THEN GLANCE THIS WAY.

The Prohibition Party has in its ranks some of the most earnest and intelligent men in the country; it is doing a most valuable educational work; in spite of its mistakes it has shown its ability to command votes; in some States it holds the balance of power, and it has converted many thousands of men in the other parties to the acceptance of its fundamental principle of Prohibition. - Boston Watchman.

If the liquor traffic is a legitimate business, then license law of any kind, high or low, is legalized blackmail. There is no other conclusion. - Chicago Lever.

The conduct of the delegates [to the National Prohibition Convention] their calm discussion of candidates, their orderly demeanor and the fairness and moderation with which differences of opinion have been expressed, are in striking contrast with Minneapolis and Chicago, and convey a lesson by which political parties may well profit. The Cincinnati meeting is a satisfactory refutation of the professional politician's contention that the flask is as necessary an adjunct of a political convention as the presiding officer himself. The Prohibitionists are entitled to respect. Like the old Abolitionists they fight to be for the good of mankind. They may not have any hope of immediate success, but they have largely increased their following and are a power in some States. The Abolitionists were once a very well abused party, but today no slave draws breath in the American Republic. - New York World.

On Thursday, Aug. 25th, the annual reunion of the 1st New York Dragoons will take place at Portage. All old soldiers and the public are invited. Special excursion train via the Erie will leave Andover at 8:47 a. m. Round trip only 90 cents.

A LITTLE GIRL'S EXPERIENCE IN A LIGHTHOUSE.

Mr. and Mrs. Leken Trescott are keepers of the Gov. Lighthouse at Sand Beach, Mich., and are blessed with a daughter, four years old. Last April she was taken down with measles, followed with a dreadful cough and turning into a Fever. Doctors at home and at Detroit treated her, but in vain, she grew worse rapidly, until she was a mere "handful of bones." Then she tried Dr. King's New Discovery and after the use of two and a half bottles, was completely cured. They say Dr. King's New Discovery is worth its weight in Gold, yet you may get a trial bottle free at L. A. Burrows Drug store. 6
