

SILVER AND GOLD.

LIMITED SILVER.

In 1887 Cleveland rose above his party and practically declared in favor of Free Trade. He was hailed as a hero. In 1892 Commissioner Peck rose above his party and practically declared in favor of Protection. He was branded as a scoundrel. If Samuel J. Randall were living he would say, "Peck's all right."—Toledo Commercial.

I defy the man in any way conversant with the history, in any degree acquainted with the annals of this country from 1787 to 1789, when the Constitution was adopted, to say that protection of American labor and industry was not a leading—I might almost say—the leading motive, south as well as north, for the formation of the new government. Without that provision in the Constitution it never could have been adopted.—Daniel Webster in 1844.

The Democratic papers have expressed the gravest concern about the attitude of Mr. Platt. Their fears ought to be quieted now. Mr. Platt is wise enough to know that his party knew better than he did.—Milwaukee Sentinel.

The Democrats dare not make an issue of the sugar provision of the McKinley Law, which saves $50,000,000 a year to the country. If they get the power, however, they will undoubtedly repeal it.—St. Louis Globe Democrat.

The Free Traders are no longer trying to convince the wool grower that the tariff on Australian and other foreign wool has caused the price of the American product to go down. Their avoidance of the subject is due to the discovery of the fact that a man is not necessarily a donkey because he is in the sheep-raising business. In other words, they have found out that a wool-grower has free access to price lists and that he is as able to make comparisons as the glibest Free Trader in the land.—San Francisco Chronicle.

President Harrison in his letter of acceptance very properly calls attention to the change in the leadership and purposes of the Democratic party, which is no longer the party of Jefferson and Jackson, but the party of Calhoun. Mr. Blaine in his letter also emphasizes this point.—Watertown Times.

The Cleveland leaders have had Mr. Peck in New York, and been laboring with him in private to prepare some sort of statement that will conflict with his report and serve as an antidote until after election. But the Commissioner says his report is a statistical exhibit of facts, which neither he nor anybody else can tone down.—Utica Herald.

UNLIMITED SILVER.

If Mr. Blaine's letter is intended to be serviceable to Mr. Harrison, it is entirely gratuitous. If it is intended to point out that the Republican party under the Harrison leadership is on the wrong tack, it is another matter. Harrison can derive but mighty little comfort from it in either view of the case.—Utica Observer.

For every Democratic vote lost through the third party organization there are three colored votes gained. The serious fact follows that at this very time when the solid South is most seriously menaced by a division of the white vote, it is strengthened and promises to be perpetuated by a rebellion of the blacks against the Republican party.—Brooklyn Eagle.

Propos to Labor Commissioner Peck's report, it is suggested that, though there is a yearly increase in the production of manufactured articles in this State and consequently of amounts of wages are paid, it does not show that the daily wages of laborers have been increased, or that there has been an increase for work done by the piece. It merely shows that if the laborers do 20 per cent. more work they get 20 per cent. more pay without any increase of daily wages. What is the matter with Mr. Peck's report, to cause so much excitement?—Albany Times-Union.

The remarkable Democratic gain in Arkansas over 1888 will compel the Republicans to confine their rainbow-chasing in the South hereafter to the two Virginias; and there, we fancy, the hatred of the Force Bill and contempt for the President's disingenuous treatment of that issue will insure Democratic solidification and victory.—Rochester Herald.

Nobody proposes to revive the loose banking methods of forty years ago, the evils of which cannot be denied, but the establishment of a safe State banking system in all the States, such as we have in New York, if the prohibitory 10 per cent. tax on State banks issues were repealed, would be a long step toward the settlement of the silver question.—Albany Times-Union.

But Mr. Harrison faces the danger of revolts in States created as rotten boroughs for partisan purposes. By the action of the two National Conventions the (silver) question was eliminated for the present from political discussion. But the new danger causes the Republican candidate to seek refuge in another statement of the case, leaving the platform without change, and thus securing opportunity of practicing the old game of different politics in different places.—Chicago Times.

THE GOLD(S) CURB.

Prohibition Iowa has just paid its State debt. How many rum States with all their license have done so?—Iowa (P. Y.) Post Report.

It is wrong to sell whiskey to an ignorant Indian, but it is lawful to sell it to any of America's pure minded young men of fine education.—American Prohibitionist.

Statistics show that 10,000 people are killed by whiskey where one is killed by a mad dog. What of it? Shoot the mad dog and license the sale of the whiskey.—Christian Standard.

If 1,000,000 men were to stand up at the November election and give notice by their ballots that they are against the saloon and saloon parties, we will carry the country for prohibition in 1896.—Quincy (Ill.) Patriot.

There can not be made an objection against the principle of prohibiting the liquor traffic of the party behind the principle that will bear five minutes' investigation. We invite proof to the contrary.—Dayton Liberator.

One or both of the old parties will be smashed sooner or later, and a new party, cleaner and more progressive than either of the old ones, will secure the ascendancy.—New Richmond (Wis.) Voice.

The opponents of prohibition have been charging the prohibitory party with having but one idea. Just now the same opponents are making complaint that they have too many. It is hard to suit some folks.—Newport News.

There is more delight over one man who votes the Prohibition ticket regularly every election than over ninety and nine who talk loud all the year and then stay at home on election day if the weather is the least unpleasant.—New Era.

In every respect except voting for the two parties' candidates, a man may be a Republican and a Democrat at the same time, in this Year of Our Lord One Thousand Eight Hundred and Ninety-two. The offices are the sole issue.—Lebanon (O.) Reporter.

What makes drunkards? Strong drink. Who sells the drink? The saloon keeper. Who created the saloon? The law. Who makes the law? The legislator. Who makes the people? The people. Who are the people? We are the people.—Golden Rule.
