

THE ANDOVER NEWS.

MRS. ELMIRA HATCH.

HEART DISEASE 20 YEARS.

Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind.

Dear Sirs: For 20 years I was troubled with heart disease. Would frequently have falling spells and smothering at night. Had to sit up or get out of bed to breathe. Had pain in my left chest most of the time; at last I became discouraged. I was very nervous and nearly worn out. The least excitement would cause me to faint.

THOUSANDS of women are suffering from heart disease. For the last fifteen years I could not get any rest or sleep. I had to get up every night and walk around the room. I had no appetite, and I could not sleep on either side or back without the least discomfort. I have no pain, smothering, dropsy, no wind or stomach or other disagreeable symptoms. I am able to do all my own housework without any fatigue.

CURED

After taking only a few bottles of Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure, I was cured. I am now 62 years of age, and am able to do a good day's work.

SATISFACTION GUARANTEED OR MONEY RETURNED.

The Woman's Christian Temperance Union of Andover meets the first and third Thursday in each month.

One of the clearest thinkers New England has produced thus replies to one of the objections sometimes made to woman's ballot:

"Women cannot fight, so they should not vote." Formerly women were refused permission to hold real estate, on the same ground. "When fiats implied military service," wrote Dr. Johnson, in 1776, "it is easily discerned why females could not inherit them, but the reason is at an end. As manners make laws, manners repeal them." The same reasoning applies now to voting.

Besides, the objection proves too much. It appears by the published record of United States Military Statistics, that out of men examined for military duty during the Rebellion, more than a quarter were found unfit, but that this varied with different professions. Of journalists 740 in every 1,000 were disqualified, of physicians 670, of preachers 974, of lawyers 544. The majority of all these classes are as useless for warlike purposes as women—far more useless than the fighting women of Danouey. Are these classes therefore to be disfranchised like women? On the other hand, of all unskilled laborers only 348 in 1,000 are disqualified; of tanners 216, of iron workers 189. Is the voting power to be taken away from lawyers and journalists and to be concentrated on iron workers and tanners? We should do that to be consistent.

In the Prussian army, the most powerful in the world, Gen. McLellan tells us that all men are enrolled and those unfit for field service are employed as military tailors or nurses. Once apply this principle to women, and you may draft them for military duty as much as you please.

The amount of it all is, that woman must be enfranchised. It is a mere question of time. She must be a slave or an equal—there is no middle ground. Admit, in the slightest degree, her right to property or education, and she must have the ballot to protect the one and use the other. And there are no objections to this, except such as would equally hold against the whole theory of republican government.

Christmas Day Has Come and Gone.
BY GUMPTON.

Christmas day has come and gone, Christmas joys are over, Twelve long months must roll away Ere we have another. Christmas joys we all can make, With a little scheming. If the right course we will take Of doing and of dreaming. Do unto others as we would Have others unto us do, Will make us honest, kind and good, Compassionate and just, too. And doing good we thus may bless A sad and weary brother, And turn his thoughts by gentleness From this world to the other. And when the secrets of all creeds Are known, may deeds of kindness Outweigh by far the evil deeds Of sinners and of blindness. Of sinners and of blindness. And when we meet in heaven at last, We'll celebrate together A "Merry Christmas" that shall pass Away no more, forever.

A very pleasant gathering took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. K. Porter, of this place, on Thursday evening, the 22d inst. The occasion was the marriage of their daughter, Miss Lottie Adell to Mr. Earl A. Richardson. Both of these young people are well and favorably known in the community and they are now entering upon life under the most favorable auspices. Every one will wish them a hearty God speed.

While only the immediate families were represented the presents were numerous and valuable.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. G. M. James, of the Presbyterian church.

Around the Christmas Tree.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Cartwright were "at home" on Christmas Day, and a number of other persons not dwellers under that roof were also very much at home there. The lady of the house had invited the various members of the Boyd family to dinner. No unusual demonstration was expected, but the guests came basket laden—every corner a burden bearer. They even brought a Christmas tree, which in Mrs. Cartwright's house budded, blossomed and bore fruit in a marvelously short time after planting. The lay out was a grand one, the presents were beautiful and bountiful, and the company was merry one. Except the gathering for dinner, everything was a surprise; but the greatest surprise of all was the presence of Mrs. Eunice Barber, of Decatur, Mich., who although an unexpected guest, was very far from being an unwelcome one. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Green, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Martindale and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Hall of this village, and Mr. Eugene Lee and family of Wellsville.

Norman was foreman of the Modoc mines in Ward, Col., and while renewing some timbers was caught in a cave-in and had one of his legs badly mashed and broken. He lived but a few days. He was a member of the Knights of Pythias, and the resident members of that organization attended the funeral in a body. The age of the deceased was 23 years. He was an estimable young man and his family have the sympathy of all their acquaintances and friends.
