TADD.

The April number of 'Lettices', which is appropriately designated as its Easter issue, comes to us replete with all the latest and best Parisian styles. It maintains its well-known reputation for being not only the cheapest of standard fashion magazines, but also the most varied as to styles, and the most useful in every way to people about to do dressmaking at their homes. A specialty this month is made of bridgework, and they may be classed as the most exquisite specimens of the designer's art. No end of other interesting items go to make up the balance of the book, chief among which we note children's and misses' styles, collars, fans and other attractive designs. To be had of all book and newsdealers, price 20 cents.
