

THE ANDOVER NEWS.
ONE DOLLAR A YEAR.

HAMILTON C. NORRIS, EDITOR
ANDOVER, N. Y., May 15, 1896.

The drowning season, instead of being backward this year, is opening with a rush that promises good business for coroners.

Those gentlemen who are advocating an extra session of Congress as a check on President Cleveland must have short memories.

We knew Chicago was an expensive town, but didn't dream that it cost $443 apiece to convert sinners there until assured of it by a Chicago preacher.

The Women's Medical College of Philadelphia is rapidly increasing the number of "female doctors." The graduating class this year numbers forty-nine.

There are several Missouri men who think the demands for a Southern man and for a Western man would both be met by their own nomination, Missouri being properly classed as a south-western State.

No wonder people were surprised at the publication of the assertion that the Cuban revolutionists had strong backers in a syndicate of United States capitalists. It had generally been supposed that backing was the one thing needed by the revolutionists; they appear to have frontage to spare.

The State Senate has passed a bill providing for the use of "bichloride of gold" in the state prisons as a cure for dipsomania. The experience with the gold cure at the Bath soldiers' home is the best evidence of the merit of this measure. The Keely cure established by the Board of Trustees is said to have done much good work.

The States of New Jersey and Massachusetts have performed the greatest possible service for the improved road question, both by the systematic legislative treatment of the subject and by the actual reconstruction of several hundred miles of road of the best modern type. There is no argument so forcible or conclusive as actual accomplishment in connection with any debated matter. It is only a short time since an expenditure of $2,000 or $3,000 a mile on a country road would have effectually discouraged many communities which could well afford to spend that amount of money to their material advantage. Now, however, good roads constructed and in use in many states have changed all that by the demonstration of accomplishment. It has been shown that appreciation in the value of real estate gained through the close proximity of good roads is an abundant return on the cost of improved highways. Indeed, this conviction has found so general acceptance in some states where substantial advantages from the construction of good roads have accrued that the right of counties to bond themselves for this species of public improvements has been extended to townships, as in the law in New Jersey, where a number of towns have already availed themselves of the powers granted by the law.
