

THE ANDOVER NEWS.
ONE DOLLAR A YEAR.

HAMILTON C. NORRIS, EDITOR
ANDOVER, N. Y., July 3, 1895.

The steambot racer is still alive, which is more than can be said of some of the passengers.

The chief novelty of the season comes from New Orleans. A white man was lynched for having helped in an attempt to lynch a negro.

Nations as well as individuals are ungrateful. Korea has hardly begun to enjoy the independence which she owes to Japan, and yet she is already showing a disposition to give Japan the cold shoulder to make love to Russia.

The Kentucky Breckinridge family stands by the administration, and Desha, the son of his father, is provided with a birth in the internal revenue service to take the place of his office abolished by the Supreme Court income tax decision.

Strange things happen. Mrs. Elliott Shepard, who was a Miss Vanderbilt, is indignant because her daughter has married a son of Morris, the late lottery king. She objects to money obtained by such methods, but hasn't a word to say against some of the methods of the founder of the Vanderbilt fortune, of which she inherited a share.

Every day's dispatches note the death of from five to forty persons in this country by drowning. There are some nations similarly situated as to latitude, temperature and water ways, where the ability to swim is general, and not to learn is an ignorance that is despised. It would be better if this art were taught more frequently in our schools, even if a little less Greek or Mathematics resulted.

Veterans of the late war will be interested in General Fitzhugh Lee's contribution to the July Century on the "Future of War." He considers military operations as affected by the new weapons. There will be great changes in the manner of conducting campaigns, says General Lee. Defensive battles will be at a premium, and defensive warfare will be simplified. Field balloons will locate the position, and photography mark the formation, of contending forces, while telephones and electricity will play prominent parts in the war drama. There will be no more dashing cavalry charges, like those of Ponsoby at Waterloo or Mural at Jena. General Lee speculates as to the effect modern arms would have exerted in the great battles of the Rebellion. Pickett's heroic band would have been under fire from start to finish in the charge at Gettysbury, and not a man would have escaped. General Lee shows that the entire tactics at Malvern Hill, Manassas, Chancellorsville and the Wilderness would have had to be changed.

A horse kicked H. S. Shafer, of the Freemyer House, Middleburg, N. Y., on the knee, which laid him up in bed and caused the knee joint to become stiff. A friend recommended him to use Chamberlain's Pain Balm, which he did, and in two days was able to be around. Mr. Shafer has recommended it to many others and says it is excellent for any kind of a bruise or sprain. The same Remedy is also famous for its cures of rheumatism. For sale by L. A. Burrows.

Cheese statements printed on short notice at the News office.

W. H. Nelson, who is in the drug business at Kingville, Mo., had so much confidence in Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhea Remedy that he warrants every bottle and offers to refund the money to any customer who is not satisfied after using it. Mr. Nelson takes no risk in doing this because the Remedy is a certain cure for the diseases for which it is intended and he knows it. It is for sale by L. A. Burrows.
