

THE ANDOVER NEWS.

ONE DOLLAR A YEAR.

HAMILTON C. NORRIS, EDITOR

ANDOVER, N. Y., August 7, 1895.

The English widow who carried her late husband's ashes around with her in a specially constructed traveling bag, would make a jolly summer girl, wouldn't she?

The driest part of the world is that part of Egypt between the two lower falls of the Nile, but it is difficult to make a New Yorker who is fond of Sunday tippling, believe it.

Experts don't know everything. They guded the inventor of that rawhide cannon, but the cannon has stood every test yet applied to it, and the "hayseed gun" is as good as ever.

All divorces granted by Oklahoma probate judges are off, says the Supreme Court of that Territory. Arrests for bigamy may now be expected by some of the patrons of the Oklahoma divorce-while-you-wait mill.

It is altogether probable that the New England ministers who have organized to use the Sunday newspapers will accomplish more than those who have for years been fighting the Sunday papers were ever able to do.

In addition to killing all the people mentioned by the Chicago police, perhaps H. H. Holmes was the mysterious person who hit Billy Patterson. And then, again, Holmes might have been the man in the iron mask. If reliance is to be placed on the Chicago police, no one can tell what Holmes has not done.

This may be known in history as the corn-electric age. That corn is king of breadstuffs is undisputed; likewise that corncob pipes are unsurpassed; and now comes the discovery that the pith of a corncob packed in the hull of a vessel will make her unsinkable, even with a dozen holes in her.

THE NEW BALLOT.

This fall the voters of New York state will struggle with a new form of ballot, the one provided for in known as the Raines bill. Some information concerning its form and directions for its use will therefore be of interest.

There shall be but one form of ballot, and on it shall be the names of all the candidates and the titles of the offices. The ticket or lists of candidates of the various parties shall be printed in parallel columns, headed by the name of the parties and chosen devices, and in such order as the Secretary of State shall name, preference being given to the party that polled the largest number of votes at the last preceding election and so on. There shall be a column at the right hand of the ballot in which the voter may write the name or names of any candidate whose name or names are not on the ballot.

At the head of the list there shall be a simple device, chosen by the parties. There shall be a blank circular space three quarters of an inch in diameter below the device and below this is the name of the party. At the head of the ballot, on the stub, are the following instructions to voters:

To vote a straight ticket make a cross (X) within the circle above one of the party columns.

To vote for an individual candidate, make a cross (X) mark in the space before his name.

To vote for a person not on the ticket, write the name of such person under the title of the office in the column on the right and make a cross (X) mark in the space before the name.

Any mark or erasure made on this ballot except as above indicated makes the ballot void and it cannot be counted.

The ballot is to be handed to the voter already folded. On receiving the ballot the elector shall unfold it, and without having the enclosed space, retire alone to one of the voting booths, and without undue delay, unfold and mark his ballot as described. No elector shall be allowed to occupy a booth more than five minutes in case all the booths are in use and electors are waiting. It will not be lawful to make any mark on the ballot other than the cross, or to deface or tear a ballot; any ballot so defaced or marked shall be void and shall not be counted. All marks must be made with a pencil having a black lead. If an elector spoils a ballot he may obtain others, one at a time, but not exceeding in all three, and the spoiled ballot shall be placed in a box prepared for such.

When the voter has marked his ballot he shall fold it so as to conceal the face of the ballot, but show the endorsement on the back, and he will then leave the booth and hand the ballot to the inspector who shall tear off file stub in plain view of the voter and deposit the ballot in one box and the stub in another. The voter shall then at once pass out.
